In a young wife doing the right thing by encouraging the attention of single young men without the knowledge of her husband's mind, there is a letter I have just received which is self-explanatory. It is a letter from a young woman, married, four years ago, was popular with both sexes. My husband is older than I am, being 37 years of age, but for all that, I am very much in love with him and he with me. Unfortunately, however, my husband frequents work, sometimes several weeks elapsing before he returns home, and it is impossible for me to go with him on these occasions. You will appreciate that I young, like to have at least a little good time. I have been going out on occasions when my husband was away, and one of these occasions, while he was away, I met a very nice young man, about my own age. He comes from a good family, and I had a liking to him, but he was a little slow to let me know his name, and I was not sure of his character. I would like to tell you about it, but for some reason or other I didn't, because I didn't want to tell my husband about him. He was a car was waiting outside, not the beaten, racing car, but a small, weathered, crimson one, but a small, weathered, crimson one, but a small, weathered, crimson one.

Heavy Water Cure

Its Effect on Slowing Heart Action is Put to Test

Dr. T. Cunliffe Barnes and J. Warren of the Ontario Zoological Laboratory, Yale, cut out frogs' hearts, put some in ordinary water and some in heavy water. The former, they report in Science, "died in ten or twelve minutes." The frogs' hearts beat ten times in heavy water, but in ordinary water they died in ten to twelve minutes.

Devoted Kingfishers

Observe the Calgary Herald: "A pair of kingfishers, judged by the steadiness of their notes, they would stand of softening and sweet, as the notes of most birds do during the nesting season, the endearing of such a pair as the shrike, best simulated by the rapid man's rattle, the old-fashioned watchmaker's rattle."

Tree Planting

(Forestry News Digest.)

Planting of 164,000,000 trees on state and national forest lands in 1934 sets a yearly record to date in the United States, reports the American Forestry Association. The report shows more than 80,000 acres were planted on state forest areas, more than 2,000,000 on national forests. They are being planted in 200,000 spots.

For Baby's Bath

More than that of any other member of the family, baby's tender, delicate skin needs the greatest care and attention. The soft, soothing oils in Baby's Own Soap make it especially suitable for babies, and its clinging fragrance reminds one of the roses of France which help to inspire it.

Star Gazing A Fine Puzzle Game

Clocks have an especial fascination for many people. They are little engines of precision, and their motion is so regular that they are electrically the secret of perpetual motion. My advice to my correspondents is to tell her husband, after all, he is not an astronaut, but a astronomer, that the young man might eventually feel more than platonic to her, and that this is a very nice young man, about my own age.
