CANADA PLACE OF THE SHINE

An employer can judge an applicant for a job by noting where the time is on the shoes or the seat of the pants. — Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

FIRST MOTOR CARS

The first automobile owner in Canada was a resident of Hamilton, a native of Massachusetts. Sir William Mack was the first pioneer of gasoline machines built in Canada. He ordered six motor "tricycles" and quadricycles for the use of the Post Office Department and "soon the streets of Toronto were fringed with the chattering of these red machines." — St. Thomas Times-Journal.

'TIS A WORTHY PLACE

The rise of Stratford in the team of baseball is one of the phenomena of the age. And to observe a shrill, shrill note, the Times advised an audience that had much to do with our neighbor's success. Next thing we will be hearing that the Classic City has developed a football team. — St. Thomas Times-Journal.

CURIOSITY SATISFIED

Princess Octavia reported to the police at Montreal her purs had been stolen, and it contained $230. Of course, that's too bad, but at the same time it satisfies a certain curiosity we have always possessed to know how much a princess carried in her purse. — Stratford Beacon-Herald.

THAT PRETTY TEACHER

The superintendent of schools in Rockford, Ill., announces that he will engage nothing but good-looking teachers in future. We need to think that there was a pretty teacher on the leash concession, but there was always a mean look in her eye and a certain frigidity in her voice when she said something about staying in after four. — Stratford Beacon-Herald.

BOOK MARKERS

A librarian in Rochester, Mass., makes known some of the things which he finds used as book markers in the volumes which are returned. They include needles, safety pins, pieces of wire, letters, pieces of ducit and slabs of bacon. What, you wonder, was wrong with the pieces of bacon that they were put to such use? And what if some swain left a love-letter from a girl in the book was next taken out by a rival? Zowie! — St. Thomas Times-Journal.

MONTREAL'S HORSES

One of the beautiful sights in the City of Montreal is the horse-drawn vehicle — provided always that it is conducted by a driver who has a respect for his horse. The horse goes proudly forward with his ears set on high, the driver has no fear of the men with the reins. One of the ugly sights in the city is the horse with his ears trained back for fear of what may be coming from the man with the reins. It is a pity that in one of the last strongholds of the horse, we have some charming, happy horses, and we want to keep them, we had better see that we keep them with their ears peeped out for what is behind. — Montreal Star.

IN THE SUBLIME

A speaker at the American Society of Sanitation Engineers' convention asserted that in time every city would have a public bathroom. The idea is in the nature of the sublime and at least is calculated to encourage the plumber, or rather the sanitary engineers. — Montreal Gazette.

EASIER

You see, it's easier to mortgage the home to buy a car than to mortgage the car to buy a home. — Brandon Sun.

GOOD IN WORST OF MEN

A group of men, Will Rogers among them, set through a long evening in the lobby of a hotel in the Cuban capital, and in the course of the conversation several of the men were figures in Europe and America were mentioned with disparagement by one member or another of the group. It finally turned out that Rogers knew the man mentioned and had found something attractive about him. Finally he admitted with a grin: "I just can't seem to dislike anybody I ever met. I just want to hate him. Pre got to stay away from him." Charles Lamb has the same characteristic. "Don't you hate that man?" someone asked him on one occasion. "But this one has been committed to me," he said simply. "I know him." There are some men, like Rogers and Lamb, who have the activeness

It is just about this time of the year that the child figures how he is going to keep out of college, while dad figures how to keep him there.

Man—How's your wife feeling? Friend—So much better that I feel safe in starting out with my wife. It was long, but she's getting rather than over the sun. It began to rain as soon as the sun was tied because it was the idea to go shopping straight out and the bridegroom had to get ready for the wedding. It was a very important announcement made in the married state. It was a very important announcement made in the married state.

Pat—When are you going to pay me for that? Mike—No, indeed, but I'll tell you what I'll do. You just keep for two more weeks and then you can have her.

Jewel—I asked Cleveland if the grapefruit was very juicy. Helen—And did he tell you. Jewel—No, but I read the answer in his eyes.

Nature's Signs
When you see a sunset, you are applying your eyes to the sun. You are having a kind of yawning in the mind September breeze. When the bees all start to act like they'd got drunk-blood in their veins. And you feel a growing coolness in the air. When the slanting autumn rains. When you feel the monthly roses and the folk drift off to the porch. Get a plate of cakes and cider and pull up your rocking chair. You can bet your bottom dollar Old King Winter's in the air!

Jack MacFlash while walking along the street met Sandy McToon carrying a new piano on his back. Jack—Sandy, are you economizing again? Sandy—No, I ainna wish to wear out the wheels.

If you tell the wife you would marry again, she'll never give you a chance. If you tell her you wouldn't, on a bet, she is also peevish. Queer critters, women.

Bride—What can I do to save steps in preparing a meal? Married Friend—Move next door to a delicatessen.

The Week In Ottawa

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Bennett last Friday evening. It was the first time he has been in the city since he left for the Conservative election campaign. Speaking to a radio audience over the radio, he said that the population of the Dominion is 12,000,000; that the Dominion is a quarter of the world's population; that the Dominion is a quarter of the world's population; that the Dominion is a quarter of the world's population.

Famous Writer Chooses Profession That Would Appeal Most To Him If The Clock Could Be Put Back Fifty Years.

I have seen a good many men in my time, writes H. de Vere Stacpole in the London Morning Post, including emperors and kings (at a distance), world-famous artists, poets, philosophers and politicians, and looking back on the lot, trying to determine which of them was most really successful in the only art worth considering as an absolute asset to its practitioners—the art of being happy. I find myself at fault. I turn them over till I come to the doctors, and the doctors till I come to a funny old figure in a top hat, who I have known for years, and who I have known for years, and who I have known for years.

Dominion Notes Largely Reduced

Bank of Canada Has Withdrawn $87,000,000 In Six Months

Ottawa—The Bank of Canada has now been functioning for six months. It commenced activities March 11.

In the period elapsed, a total of $87,000,000 of the old Dominion notes have been withdrawn from circulation and replaced by the smaller Bank of Canada notes. When the central bank opened there was $98,000,000 of Dominion notes outstanding. Now there is about $11,000,000. The total of both Bank of Canada and Dominion notes outstanding August 28 was $80,000,000.

On January 1 next the chartered banks of Canada will be required to reduce circulation of their own notes five percent, the first of the cuts under the new Bank Act which already has been made. Gradually reduced to a minimum. Already the chartered banks are taking steps to be ready for this five percent contraction.

No Limitation To Size or Cost Of New Houses

May Borrow Up To 80 Per Cent. For Homes Costing $10,000 Or More.

Ottawa—Under the new Dominion Housing Act there will not be any limitation on the size and cost of any house a person availing himself of the new Act. The number of bedrooms will be limited to four. There already have been inquiries from persons wishing to borrow to build homes costing $10,000 or more.

In this regard it is pointed out that the purpose of the act is to assist in the building of a home, it is not while the hope is that it will mean a large increase in the type of homes suitable for the greater number of the people. There is the conclusion that the building of higher-class homes will also contribute to the employment and greater use of Canadian building materials.

Interpretations of the act are given as points arise. For instance, it has been ruled that while the act permits borrowing of 80 per cent of the cost of a home, it is not necessary to borrow that much if a prospective builder has an equity in the house. Further, it has been definitely laid down that no second-hand or shoddy materials should be used in homes covered under the act, with money borrowed under the act.

Ontario Woman Records Her Impressions Of Visit

No need to go to Alaska to be cool or to Egypt to be hot, according to Mrs. E. B. Finlay, of London, Ont., who with her husband, attended the Rotary International convention in Mexico City. She returned home with a number of interesting facts. She says that the Mexicans are not too hot and never too cool down there and the Aztec pyramids are almost as interesting as the pyramids of Egypt. She says that she had a Mexican dinner at a restaurant on the banks of the Nile.

Rays Of The Mercury-Vapor Arc A Help In Diagnosing Defects

The blue-green rays of the mercury-vapor arc, under which the extra rays are visible, have been found to be of great value in the diagnosis of dental defects. The rays are of a wavelength of 404 mμ, which is in the blue-green region of the spectrum. This wavelength is particularly effective in revealing defects in the enamel and dentin of the teeth.

According to information supplied by A. B. McKeown, Washington engineer, we distinguish red only when red rays are present in the illuminating rays. Reduce the number of colors in light and the appearance of an object changes. It turns black, gray or the color of the rays that shine upon it. Hence the contrasts are sharpened.

Apply this to the mercury-vapor arc. It is predominant blue-green yellow. Flood the mouth with light of these hues only and the gums, tongue and tissues, having no red light to reflect, turn dark purple. On the other hand, diseased or affected tissues do not change in aspect against the blue-green light. Hence a sharp contrast between sound and unsound portions of gum. The course of the blood vessels is more easily traced. Abscesses and inflamed areas are accentuated.

With the teeth it is the same. Tartar and film deposit do not fluoresce but healthy enamel does. Enamel defects betray themselves by differences in density. Raged fillings and superfluous decay reveal themselves in once.
