After all, the cautious policy of the League of Nations has borne fruit. Oritics who spoke of the impotency of the league and jeered at its inaction must admit that, had it not been for the existence of that body, very seripus international complications might have arisen. No one can say what would have been the result of a vigorous assertion of the powers conferred by the covenant or the adoption of the pound developing—and we are not disportion counsellors. Moderation, and the force of world opinion, have that their effect. Instead of being dis

The devastating effects of Australia's fiscal policy were reflected in a decrease in her imports of 54 per cent. Australia's exports, however, fell off only 17 per cent. The depression hit her ubber industry very heavily in Malaya, and this is indicated in the fact that British Malaya showed the heaviest decrease in exports—57 per cent below the figure for 1932.
