Until fairly recent times the windmills were not only a feature of the pastoral landscape, but also the very necessary means of grinding corn-Food for men and animals, and wealth for the owners were provided by the

Since the introduction of mechanical methods, however, the windmills have lost their medieval importance, and one by one have fallen into disuse, and often into decay, their owners, the millers, finding it impossible to afford the periodical extensive repairs to the ails which are necessary.

While investigating the number of windmills deserving of special preservation, the Socety for the Protection of Ancient Buildings discovered that the Outwood windmill was the oldest. It is still working, being the only one in Surrey still in use.

There is a tradition that workmen in the top story witnessed from it in 1666 the raging of the great fire of London. The miller, who holds the mill on a 500-year lease, and the owner of the manorial rights have agreed to enter into a covenant with the society never to demolish the mill and to preserve it in a proper state of

The brothers who originally owned the Post Mill quarreled, so history relates, and one of them built a second vindmill only 50 yards away, with the object of superseding the old mill and its own: its rival closed down and toence to a windmill in English history was made in 1189.

A BATTLE OF THE ELEMENTS AT GRAND CANYON

FORTUNATE, indeed, the traveler who stood beside the camera man as he caught this dramatic winter battle of the elements in the Grand Canyon of Arizona.

For weeks on end, in midwinter, the Grand Canyon glows under brilliant sunshine and blue sky. But when snow does come to the brilliant sunshine and blue sky. But when snow does come to the brilliant sunshine and blue sky. But when snow does come to the brilliant sunshine and blue sky. But when snow does come to the brilliant sunshine and blue sky. But when snow does come to the brilliant so that it is latitude, then the visitor may witness incredible scenes like this.

Travel is continuous throughout the year to the South rim of the Grand Canyon, but Winter seals the North rim which is 1200 feet higher, for months on end. Fatigue is the signal to rest. Obey it if you can. When you can't, keep cool and carry-on in comfort. Aspirin was meant for just such times, for it insures your comfort. Freedom from those pains that nag at nerves and wear you down. One tablet will block that threatening headache while it is still just a threat. Take two or three tablets when you've cought a cold and when you've caught a cold, and that's usually the end of it.

Carry Aspirin tablets when you travel. Have some at home and keep some at the office. Like an efficient secretary, they will often "save the day" and spare you many uncomfortable, unproductive hours. Aspirin is harmless, so keep it handy, keep it in mind, and use it. handy, keep it in mind, and use it. No man of affairs can afford to ignore the score and more of uses explained in the proven directions. From a grumbling tooth to those rheumatic pains which seem almost to bend the bones, Aspiria tablets are ready with quick relief—and always work. Neuralgia, Neuritis. Any nagging, needless pain.

Advances which may well lead to bigger discoveries in 1932 have been made in cancer research. The publication of "The Truth About Cancer" has done much to enlarge the public knowledge of this dread disease. It is felt that a better appreciation of the importance of an early operation, with its hope of complete cure, should aid materially in the reduction of cancer mortality rates.

Dr. Sussman, a British scientist of Manchester, brought forward a method for the treatment of cancer by the use of certain gland products which are known to control growth in the
