HEALTH

ASTHMA

"All is not asthma that wheezes" is a remark that is attributed to Doctor Chevalier Jackson. This statement suggests, very rightly, that every severe paroxysm of difficult breathing is not true asthma. Attacks of this type may result from any obstruction or pressure which prevents the free flow of air in the lungs from the larger to the smallest of the bronchial tubes.

Asthma and hay fever are similar conditions. The effects of hay fever are confined to the eyes and nose, while asthma involves the bronchial tubes. The cause is frequently the same—a hypersensitiveness to certain proteins of allergens. An asthmatic person is an allergic person.

The proteins or allergens which cause the trouble are found in dust, house dust is composed largely of materials of animal origin, coming from such articles as feather pillows, carpets and fashions. When these are breathed in, they may carry the material to which the individual is hypersensitive.

Some people develop asthma because they react to certain foods, such as cereals, eggs, strawberries, fruits and nuts. Instead, the list of foods which may be responsible is a very long one, because most foods contain some vegetable or animal protein.

Other cases arise out of a hypersensitive condition to the bacteria or germs which may be lodged in nose, throat or teeth.

Attacks of asthma are particularly distressing and alarm those who have not previously witnessed a severe attack. There is no need for alarm in so far as the attack is concerned, because the attacks are not fatal. In the asthmatic who is emotional, it is desirable to avoid excitement and to maintain a quiet manner of life.

From what has been said, it is obvious that the hope of cure depends upon finding the protein or proteins to which the individual is hypersensitive, and then to overcome the condition by appropriate treatment, or by limiting it from the diet.

Cases should come under treatment early because of the damage that may be done during the course of the disease. Every person suffering from asthma should seek his own cure, under the guidance of his family doctor, following with patience and diligence the treatment that is prescribed for him.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.
