Canada, The Empire and The World at Large

Canada Grade Crossings

Mainly years will go by before all our main highways and all our grade crossings have been freed from grade crossings. Nevertheless, we have reason to hope that these death traps will disappear some day. And if this day ever comes it will undoubtedly be the commencement of the millennium for the motorists.—La Tribune, Sherbrooke.

Went Amid Plenty

It is a terrible confession of the failure of the world's distribution system when corn is burned, coffee dumped into the ocean, cotton ploughed under and hogs massacred to create an artificial shortage of the very things which are required by many people in the world.—Niagara Falls Review.

Crop Destruction

John H. Simpson, president of the National Farmers' Union of the United States, says: "It is against the laws of God and nature to plow up cotton, destroy things that could be used for food and limit production of other crops. Advertisers endorse this view as being perfectly right. In a world in which countless millions are underfed and impoverished, and otherwise want the curtailment of production should be an economic as well as a moral outrage.—Moose Jaw Evening Times.

Burning Coffee

Coffee worth $200,000,000 has been totally destroyed by Brazil since July, 1931. No less than 3,000,000,000 pounds have been burned or dumped into the ocean. In recent months the Brazilian Government has intensified its destruction of the coffee. The coffee which would do the fact that many people do not get all they want to eat. What a shame to witness such a waste of food in the twentieth century with all its advanced civilization.—Boston City Star.

Demands of Criminals

Prisoners in the Eastern Penitentiary, Philadelphia, demand a radio and the daily newspapers for each cell, and doubtless many kindhearted persons will see nothing unreasonable in the request. They should remember, however, that there are many able-bodied persons who are presently without radios and who would like to be sure of some of the ordinary comforts which the criminals receive at the public expense. The people on the outside should have first consideration.—Montreal Gazette.

Empire Timber

Reports from the lumbering districts in many parts of the Province hold out exceptionally encouraging prospects for employment in the woods this season. Beyond any doubt this year will see an increased activity in the new Empire trade arrangements, the value of which could not well be overestimated.—Halifax Herald.

Two Out of 150

The Gr. Zepplin in Chicago. It is interesting to recall that with one exception, this dirigible is the sole survivor of scores of airships that were wrecked after a few years of research and experimentation in aircraft of this type. The other is the United States' Macon. Up to the present, one hundred and fifty of these airships have been built by various nations. Every one but the two already named have come to grief. Usually they have been wrecked with heavy loss of life. And they have mainly been lost in weather which is a ship at sea would not be difficult, but which to a huge gas-filled airship has proved catastrophic.—Ottawa Citizen.

Work in Algona

The change in the employment situation is nothing less than startling, and it came out of a clear sky. New work in the bush, on roads and in the cereal plant means that several thousand unemployed people have gone back to work, or are going shortly. The improvement in conditions is coming about naturally. There has been no wood cut in the bush for two winters. The increase in the use of agricultural wood to the grain, using of the wood on hand means activity in our lumber camps. The road work is new called for by the small amount of previous year this year, and the steel plant activity takes on the look of something permanent.—South Star, Mar. 8th.

Black Squirrels Increasing

As one walks through the woods at this time attention is drawn to the increasing number of black squirrels that are scurrying about the trunks of trees. A few years ago very few of these beautiful little animals could be seen, as their numbers were kept down by ruthless hunters. Boys and young men should refrain from testing their skill in marksmanship at these lovely animals which are a lover of wild life a thrill to see them gradually increasing in numbers and add to the beauty of the woods.—Arthur Ester, Mar. 8th.

C-worth Records

Many of the classics in this older part of Ontario have stories yet to be placed upon permanent record. In operation for decades after decades, they have been rallying-points for the districts which they are situated, a point of contact for the entire region. Yet in numerous cases they have been lost or destroyed to the regret of those who would now verify genealogical information.

It might not be at all a bad idea if each and every congregation established in this district appointed an individual or a committee of individuals to serve as archivists.—Brookville Record.

Newspaper Advertising

A speaker here the other night stressed the value of the local newspaper as a means of letting the public know what local merchants have for sale. Newspaper advertising still holds its own as the best known means of displaying merchandise before the public. Newspaper advertising can be reasonably, something obviously impossible with media issued less frequently.—Niagara Falls Review.

The Modern Motor Car

The driver will have to exercise his hand for dangerous driving. The less attention a driver has to give to the mechanism of his vehicle, the more attention should be able to pay to events on the road; and the more responsive his car is to breaking and acceleration, the easier should it be for him to maintain a wide margin between himself and the risk of accident. The modern motor car is a fine piece of mechanism, thoroughbred; if all motorists were worthy of their cars there would be very few accidents.—Leeds Yorkshire Post.

South African Airways

The figures compiled by Union Airways for their activities for the past four years are as follows: The company's revenue has grown from under £2,000,000 to £14,000,000. The first of its kind, the Birmingham Municipal Bank was established in 1919, and in the past 16 years its deposits have grown from under £2,000,000 to £14,000,000. The bank's business has grown from under £2,000,000 to £14,000,000. The bank's business has grown from under £2,000,000 to £14,000,000.

Career of Champ

The career of Champ Red-Bol of Iowa is one of the greatest romances in the history of dogbreeding. As an eight-week-old pup of 25 cents, he was bought by a woman in Liverpool, borrowed a pencil from a man, wrote something on a piece of paper, and then walked to the river.
