DEMONSTRATION

SHOOTING

1. WHAT IT IS

THERE is only one essential difference between Skeet shooting and real bird shooting: Skeet birds have no feathers. Otherwise, they provide the same thrills and exhilarations, their flight is swift, varied and unexpected—in other words, true to natural conditions.

As a matter of fact, Skeet is a modern development of the old trapshooting game, but what an improvement! There is no limit to the variety of shots offered, for the angle at which it travels, may both be altered to suir the shooters who are waiting to blaze away at them. Straightaways, "byly climbing up for the novices, can be changed in a moment into whitzing "outdrops" that dive and duck and would tax the skill of the most experienced hunter. "Incomers" may be sent to the guns that rival the speed of the teal duck in full flight.

Skeet—it is an old Scandinavian word meaning "shoot"—instantly appeals to everyone, asit is generally conceded to be by far the nearest to field conditions of any form of claybird shooting. Men and women who never go into the field play it regularly and find it a game entirely sufficient unto itself. Experienced upland shooters, died-in-the-wool straight trap shooters, novices of all degrees, young and old, flock to the semilinaar stances to show their skill. Besides, it is invaluable from the point of view both of novices and old hands. It is a safe and effective way to train youngsters to shoot straight, and it keeps the hands and eyes of older sportsmen in training during.

ALL automobile finishes become dull and faded when they are exposed to the weather for a few months. The ultra-violet rays of the sun gradually disintegrate the finish causing the loosening of tiny particles of pigment. Commonly results in the roughening of the originally smooth and glossy finish. These tiny particles of pigment together with an accumulation of dust and dirt gather on the surface of the car, forming a thin hard coating which we call "traffic film."
