Although Derso and Kelen, who work jointly had depicted the statesmen as birds, fish, animals, children, toy soldiers and "barkers" in a fair ground, they all seemed very happy about it.

Signor Grandi, Italian Ambassador to London, waved aside those who greeted him upon his entrance, saying, "Just a minute, I have not seen the latest ones yet."

Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, who officially opened the exhibition, was very complimentary. He declared that Derso and Kelen are adding to international accord. Their cartoons, he said, are not vicious distortions but gentle raillery visited.
