

Digest of Estimates As Revealed at Ottawa

Ottawa.—On Friday the government announced a series of estimates for the 12 months beginning next April. Only two spending divisions—arts and marine public works—escaped the axe by which the government proposes to slash its total expenditures to $242,648,252.22 as compared with $250,728,216.67 for the fiscal year which ends on March 31.

The following is a brief summary of some of the slashes made in various items:

The Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission will have $1,000,000 to spend on its work during the fiscal year ending March 31, 1935. This is a decrease of $100,000 for the current year. The commission, when established, was to operate within the amount of $2 million. The total net assets of the commission were $2 million. It will cost Canada $353,559 next year to maintain legislation at London. Washington, Paris and Tokyo, a decrease of $1,000 from this year. The London legation will cost $121,169, a decrease of $2,500. This includes the pension of the office, salary for Hon. G. This includes the pension of the office, salary for Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, plus $1,800 additional salary for him which has been voted each year since he went there.

Subventions payable by the government in defraying the cost of transporting coal from Nova Scotia and Western Canada to the central provinces estimated at $2,750,000 during the current fiscal year, will be reduced by $300,000 during the fiscal year 1934-35. The decrease is believed to be based on the anticipated improvement in general conditions which will render this assistance less essential.

Canada will play no part next year in the world-wide race for armaments. When most nations are increasing their armaments, Canada's forces will be operated on less money. Last year $12,100,000 was voted to maintain the armed forces of the Canadian navy, including the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve and the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve. In the year opening next April $12,222,000 will be spent, a decrease of $800,000.
