Canada, The Empire and The World at Large

CANADA

Employment Increasing.
One of the encouraging features of the past year has been the increase in employment in Canada in general and in the South in particular. While the number on relief here has declined since August, 1932, it is pointed out, for instance, by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics that despite a decline in employment during the opening months of the year, the index of factory employment on December 1 was 13.4 per cent above that of January 1, 1933, in contrast to the decline of 8.82, 1.91 and 2.17 per cent in the years 1932, 1931 and 1930 respectively.—From the South Star.

British Movies.

A few years ago British pictures were of inferior quality and depended on the appeal to patriotism for their sales. Today they depend on their intrinsic worth, which is considerable.—From the Calgary Albertan.

Double Fracture.

Dr. Margaret Strong Savage denies the report, published in many papers recently, that she set a fracture on her own leg. She says the doctor even gave a fractured leg. Well, that fractures a good newspaper story.—From the Godrich Signal.

Will Need to Be

We have it on the word of a New York scientist that man will be bigger and brainier 500,000 years from now, and at the rate progress is being piled up for posterity he would need to be.—From the Hamilton Spectator.

Angela Fear to Tread.

Some of our contemporaries are becoming reckless in their statements, evidently forgetting that an editor is no more immune from pain than any other man when punched by a fellow being. Knowledge that could be sold probably "in the city" if there is any demand for it, is certainly not immune from pain. That is a dangerous thing to say. We know from experience because we have seen the same thing about four years ago. A young lady working in the office took us to task for it and after saying many things, concluded with the statement that she and her friends are no longer clinging victims that they have nothing to cling to.—From the Lindsay Post.

Ettrevoising.

An infant who has consumed champagne for many months is said to be in perfect health. Bubbling over with it, in fact.—From the Brockville Record.

Would Cause Trouble.

We picked up the Salt Ste. Marie Star and saw a two-column heading in very black type which said: "Says Women Can't Have Beautiful Legs Before 28." Jim Curran may get away with that in Alabama, but if we tried it here we would be calling up to say: "There's a denunciation. Will you see them now?"—From the Stratford Beacon-Herald.

Making Motorists Courteous.

Many citizens who have no doubt, who have been sprayed by the goo chanced up by pressing motor cars have felt that there should be recourse to the courts in such cases and, the Hamilton magistrate makes it clear that there is, drivers who swirl through roadside puddles in the future may find themselves knee-deep in grief and woe. Those who will not be courteous to their own accord must be made so, and a bespattered citizen will raise loud cheers the first time one of those offenders is haled to court.—From the Hamilton Spectator.

The Starchless Potatoes.

A few days ago the president of an English potato marketing organization remarked at a meeting that times had been bad for the potato grower because of the craze for slimming by the womenfolk, but he saw a ray of hope for the industry in the belief that the slimming had about run its course and women are going back to curves. Result—they will eat two potatoes where they formerly toyed with one.

There is Another Hope, However.

An announcement from Montreal. Two professors there have been experimenting with the lowly potato, and while they are not yet in a position to cry "Eureka," there is solid ground for believing they are on the way to developing a starchless tuber. This is done by giving the seed potato a shot of a new bacillus which is extracted from hay. This bacillus converts the starch of the potato into sugar. This again sounds good, but it is not the clothing type of sugar found in syrup or honey. It is the innocuous kind found in fruit, such as apples or berries.—From the St. Thomas Times-Journal.

So Ladies and Gentlemen, you who like your plates piled up with potatoes, there may be a good time coming.

Canada's Sea Harvest.

Catch from Canada's sea fisheries in the first eleven months of 1933 was less than it had been in the like period of 1932, but its landed value showed an increase of over $601,000. Landed value total, as shown by statistics gathered and compiled by the Dominion Department of Fisheries, but not yet revised, was nearly $11,190,000 as compared with $10,588,000 in 1932. The total catch was 6,727,555 hundredweight as against 6,736,500. Landed value in the later months of 1933 has shown a decline in the index of the opening months of the year, the index of factory employment on December 1 was 13.4 per cent above that of January 1, 1933, in contrast to the decline of 8.82, 1.91 and 2.17 per cent in the years 1932, 1931 and 1930 respectively.—From the St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Two Ways to Same End.

In Britain we have tried to end the crisis by balancing the Budget. The President of Canada's sea fisheries in the first eleven months of 1933 was less than it had been in the like period of 1932, but its landed value showed an increase of over $601,000. Landed value total, as shown by statistics gathered and compiled by the Dominion Department of Fisheries, but not yet revised, was nearly $11,190,000 as compared with $10,588,000 in 1932. The total catch was 6,727,555 hundredweight as against 6,736,500. Landed value in the later months of 1933 has shown a decline in the index of the opening months of the year, the index of factory employment on December 1 was 13.4 per cent above that of January 1, 1933, in contrast to the decline of 8.82, 1.91 and 2.17 per cent in the years 1932, 1931 and 1930 respectively.—From the St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Smell and Taste.

When one has a cold nothing seems to taste right. The wife may have done her best with the apple pie, the mashed potatoes may be as fluffy and smooth as you desire, but it's a task to do it. There's a simple reason for this. The odoriferous epithelium, located in a little niche in the skull just above and behind the nose, is responsible for the sense of taste and smell are so closely linked it is almost impossible to say, sometimes, whether we are smelling, as a rule.—From the Sarnia Canadian-Observer.

That Fan Dancer.

That fan dancer, marooned for a week or two at the annual convention of the Lake Umbagog, hasn't told her experiences yet, but it can be presumed that she didn't do any rehearsing.—From the Bradford Expositor.

THE EMPIRE.

Secrets Well Kept.
Sir John Simon's tribute to the Foreign Office staff was well deserved. And, indeed, he might have extended it to the whole civil service. A number of cities have a reputation for being well kept. The secretaries, clerks and printers, stenographers, clerks and printers, knowledge that could be sold probably "in the city" if there is any demand for it, is certainly not immune from pain. That is a dangerous thing to say. We know from experience because we have seen the same thing about four years ago. A young lady working in the office took us to task for it and after saying many things, concluded with the statement that she and her friends are no longer clinging victims that they have nothing to cling to.—From the Lindsay Post.

Russia Second to France In Military Air Strength

LONDON.—The Soviet air force is the second strongest in the world, Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald admitted in the House of Commons in reply to a statement to that effect by Capt. Harold Balfour. France is first.

It has been estimated here that the Russians possessed approximately 1,400 planes of first-line strength, although the total military strength is unknown.

The United States is estimated to have 1,600 first-line planes and a total military strength of 2,200.

The United States hitherto had been ranked by most military experts as second to France.

Champions of British air re-arms were hastened by the admission, believing they indicate liberal air appropriations soon.
