GREATEST TROT RACE IN CANADIAN HISTORY

Greatest Three-Year-Old Trot in Canadian History to be Raced in Toronto July 21 When Hambletonian Stars go to Post.

Toronto, Ont., July 17—Without the proverbial shadow of the customary doubt, veteran horsemen and dopesters of the Raging Grand predict that Thorncliffe Park here will witness the fastest, hardest fought classic of the 1934 harness turf when the continent's speediest three-year olds clash in the $1,500 William H. Cane Stake on next Saturday, July 21.

With eligibles to the Cane event also candidates for the $40,000 Hambletonian Stake, to be raced at Goshen, N.Y., Aug. 15, Toronto and Ontario will see the final top-notch dress rehearsal to the blue ribbon race. Since faster time than was made in the 1933 Hambletonian already has been chalked up by leading three year-olds invading Toronto within a few days, and a widely scrambled field of aces are switching the spotlight from one to each other, the Cane Stake is already at the boiling point.

Reynolds, with Marvin Child's bright crimson flying up behind, romped home in one heat of the historic Matron Stake at Toledo in 2.03¼ so handsomely that this colt, owned by Henry H. Knight, one of the sponsors of the Toronto speed carnival, July 1.—25, is certain to remain a prime hard to beat in every encounter here.

Almost winning the Matron Stake by giving Emily Stokes, eventual victor, the scare of her life, Reynolds also started at Cleveland earning second money in the rich Championship Stallion Stake. As a sure fire ace in the Cane Stake July 21 Reynolds can be expected to knock a few speed marks into the discard.

Muscletone, unable to let Reynolds get away with too much glory, if any. Piloted by canny "Doc" Parshall, this great colt with two victories already clinched on the Grand Circuit, will be far from trailing when the Stake is trotted. Having already clipped off a quarter second from the fastest time which the Hambletonian boasted last year, Muscletone is certain to make anybody that beats him outdo every previous effort of the major league harness turf.

Vramine, with Will Caton, season ed sulky veteran driving, has shown plenty of class to date, with an inherent ability to trot fast and sure the whole route, guaranteeing a sizzling performance by this colt in the Cane Stake, as well as the Hambletonian.

Others in Toronto's classic three-year-old trot from which plenty will be heard are: Bertha C. Hanover; Princess Peg, another of Egans hopefuls who tucked away victory in the Peninsular Farm purse at Toledo; Fay Mack, the "Old, grey mare"; Lord Jim and Mame McElwyn.

WEED WEEK CONSIDERED SUCCESSFUL

Attention Focused on Weed Menace

Weed Cutting Week, instituted in the County of Haldimand last year and continued this year, has received wide publicity beyond the boundaries of the County, as is noted by several editorials appearing in the daily and weekly press of the province. One appearing in the "Mail and Empire" hans already been copied by members of the press. Another appearing in a weekly newspap er "The Waterloo Chronicle" is worthy of attention. It reads as follows:

"Weeds Cost Ontario $18,000,000. The people of Waterloo and other counties in Ontario, who have occasion to motor over the provincial high ways, note with satisfaction the successful efforts of the farmers and municipalities in keeping weeds under control. The week of July 2 to 7, inclusive, has been set apart in Haldimand as a special weed cutting week. All citizens are requested to have a special clean-up in respect of weeds during that period. By way of co-operation, the various road overseers are arranging to have weeds cut along the county roads within the time specified. It is expected that township and provincial officials will fall in line. Weed control is an important problem who se solution requires a concerted war fare waged by property owners, tenants and rural county municipalities. In the matter of reduced crops and lower quality of yields, additional labor and heavier machinery required to be purchased, weeds are said to cost Ontario $18,000,000 annually.

Results in the county have been most satisfying and in a recent letter received from Mr. A. R. G. Smith Chief Weed Inspector for Western Ontario, this thought is expressed. Mr. Smith's letter reads in part as follows:

"I desire to congratulate you on the activity found in your county during the weed week just ended.

"I enjoyed meeting your Warden on two occasions and greatly appreciated his patronage for the importance week.

"Your weed inspectors in Haldimand are well informed, enthusiastic men who command the respect of the municipalities they represent. We greatly appreciate it when the weed inspectors are kept continuously in office as it takes some time for a weed inspector to know the part he has to play and the area he has to know.

"The road authorities deserve to be commended on their co-operation "The very serious pasture situation has brought the attention of hundreds of municipalities to the necessity of using the native sweet grasses so abundant on the roadsides. We have found many copying the example of the township of Willmot in Waterloo county where for many years the cost of cutting weeds was less than half the income received for roadside pasture.

"We take the position that the municipality should be the example of the people.

"I was much pleased with the progress in one year from the time your Weed Cutting Week was instituted. I found your people in hearty sympathy with the scheme."

The results, while gratifying, should spur us on to greater efforts and to aim at making Haldimand County the cleanest county in the Province.

PRICKLY HEAT

If babies could talk, they would certainly tell us that prickly heat is a most annoying complaint. They should likely mention, at the same time, that a down pillow is not a cool resting place on a warm day, and doubtless they would, in chorus, proclaim how comfortable they feel after a bath, and how they like to sleep after they have been cooled off by a bath or a sponge.

Prickly heat is most common in summer, but it does occur at all seasons of the year among infants who se clothing is too warm for the weather, and among adults whose occupation exposes them to excessive artificial heat. The name "prickly heat" suggests the cause, hent, and the outstanding symptom, prickling —a tingling, itchy sensation.

Excessive or prolonged heat overworks the sweat glands, an, as a result, they are apt to become inflamed and blocked up. This is shown by the appearance of small red spots which change into little blisters, accompanied by an almost intolerable itching. The rash usually appears on the head, neck, chest or shoulders and the mother will notice that the baby's skin feels rough.

Babies are clothed much more sensibly today than were those of a generation ago. Many mothers, however, are still fearful of taking off most or all of their babies' clothing on very hot days; they want to keep their babies well-clothed. Baby should wear enough clothing, but, on very hot days, baby should be clothed according to the thermometer.

Prickly heat can usually be prevented by using light-weight clothing, with soft muslin or linen next the skin. The baby should have a tub-bath once a day and in the hot weather several cool sponges. The skin should be carefully dried by pat ting not rubbing. If the skin is thoroughly dried in this way, there is little need for talcum powder, but some powder may be used in the creases and folds of the skin.

To limit the attack of prickly heat and to hasten recovery, rest the sweat glands and keep the skin as dry as possible by avoiding anything which causes perspiration. Care should be taken not to cause further irritation to the skin with rough clothing. The parts affected should be sponged frequently with bicarbonate of soda and water, or powder ed with starch and boric-acid powder (two parts of starch with one part of boric acid). The condition will clear up fairly quickly provided the skin can be kept reasonably cool

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

Radio broadcasting stations will be seen in operation in the Electrical and Engineering Building at the Canadian National Exhibition this year.

In the Live Stock Pavilion at the Canadian National Exhibition there is accommodation for 2000 head of cattle, 1500 sheep and 1200 swine.
