WEEKLY NEWS LETTER

One Critical Period for Tobacco Seedlings

Success or failure in the production of strong healthy tobacco seedlings usually depends on the first two weeks' period after the seed is sown. At this time careful regulation of both temperature and humidity is very important. Special care should be taken not to allow the beds to become too dry, especially when the plants are just coming up. Patchy, poor stands usually result if the beds are allowed to dry out at that stage of growth. Sufficient water should be applied to keep the surface moist. Therefore, frequent light waterings must be applied during the germinating period and until the young seedlings become established. On the other hand, the soil should not be allowed to remain for any length of time in a stagnant unhealthy state as certain difficulties are almost sure to result. Sufficient ventilation is therefore also important. The best temperature for germinating the seed is around 80 degrees F. Under no conditions should the temperature exceed 90 degrees F. without adequate ventilation.

The grower is inviting trouble from damping-off if he keeps the soil too moist with insufficient ventilation, especially if the plants are thick in the bed. High humidity favours the development of fungi which cause damping-off, and ample ventilation is effective when endeavouring to check the disease. Watering should not be left until night or late in the afternoon if the weather is cool, as this leaves the beds cold during the night and will check the growth of the tender seedlings. After the seedlings have leaves the size of a twenty-five cent piece, the watering should be more thorough and not so often. A slight wilting of the plants through lack of water at this tage of growth will not injure the plants to any extent and will result in less damping-off

Moulds and toadstools occasionally appear in tobacco plant beds. In this case heavy ventilation is also effective. The Dominion Experimental Station, at Harrow, has found that where large patches of mould persisted a weak solution of formaldehyde (1 dessert spoon of formalin to 2½ gallon sprinkling can of water) also proved fairly effective. This control measure apparently had no detrimental effects on either the germinating seed or the subsequent growth of the young seedlings.

Make the Farm Home More Attractive

The nurserymen's slogan, "It is not a home until it is planted," is very true; and the farmhouse which has to stand on its own merits, and is often set among unsightly outbuildings, would seem to be more in need of background and foundation planting than the town or city house which, in many cases, gains in value and appearance from the plantings on neighbouring grounds. Evergreens are being extensively used for foudation planting now and where circumstances permit, are unquestionably the most satisfactory. Once established, evergreens require a minimum of attention and are attractive at all seasons.

Dwarf Mountain Pine, Japanese Yew, and certain varieties of Juniper and cedar are most suitable for foundation planting; and, while the cost is greater than for many other shrubs, they are worth the difference.

After planning on the shrube to be planted, the work can be accomplished over a period of years. In this way the outlay at any one time need not be unreasonably high. Watering can also be better attended to when only a few are planted at a time, because evergreens must not be allowed to dry out during the first year. Detailed information will be furnished to anyone desiring it on application to the Dominion Experimental Station, Harrow.

"WHAT CAN WE BELIEVE ABOUT JESUS ?"

and age, what we need to reproduce is his spirit. We have got to realize, if you will allow me once more to quote to you words which I have already quoted before; that "A Christian is one who follows Jesus' basic teachings. Being a Christian means nothing more and nothing less. Joining a church, subscribing to a creed, performing religious rituals, attending ecclesiastical gatherings partaking of mysterious sacraments — all these things have nothing to do with the main matter. A man is a Christian if he follows Jesus in regarding every human being as of infinite value, in showing active kindness toward all those who need his help, and in trusting the Unseen but kindly God to value him, and help him as he makes his way through life. Anyone who does these things, is a Christian — no matter what his race, his creed, his church connection, or his theological opinions. Anyone who does not do these things is not a Christian, no matter how impressive his record for orthodoxy."

Modern investigation has changed the traditional picture of Jesus, but it has given us a bigger Jesus than did traditional Christianity. After making due allowance for all that investigation has done to the older picture, even to the point of making those who follow the new lines reluctantly turn away from many of the wonders that are recorded in the Gospels, the fact still remains that Jesus stands, beyond any shadow of a doubt, the one great supreme figure in history. He is the supreme revelation of what God must be like. Today we hail him as the saviour of the world, not because of any theory about his death, but because of his life. More and more we are coming to realize that salvation will only come to men when they begin to live as lovingly and as unselfishly as he did. When mankind as a whole can catch his spirit, when they begin to live as "Children of God," and not "Children of earth," then that great day will dawn, when his prayer shall be answered, "Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven," and the Kingdom of God; that kingdom of righteousness, peace and joy shall be born among men

Hearken to the message
That the robins tell.

OBITUARY

TILLIE McPHERSON

Word was received last week of the death, at her home in Khedive, Saskatchewan, on Sunday May 20th of Tillie McPherson, beloved wife of Thomas Jacques. Deceased was born in the Township of Townsend, and after being united in marriage, resided in the Township of Woodhouse until they moved to the Province of Saskatchewan in 1905 where they since resided. As an old friend and neighbor for many years it is a privilege to offer a loving tribute to the devoted wife of this estimable friend, mother and companion, whose life was a life of service to all the sick and needy in the community in which she lived, an affectionate mother and a loving and constant companion to her beloved husband Khedive, Sask. and Lorne B. of Simcoe.

The Record, along with hosts of old friends in this community extend to the sorrowing husband and family sincere sympathy in their bereavement.

MRS. JESSIE ANN GEDDES

Once again we are called on to remind our readers that life is uncertain and that we little know who is to be the next to be called home and once again it it our sad duty to record the passing of one of the town's most estimable residents, one who has been for over thirty years actively associated with the church and social life of the municipality. The news of the passing of the one referred to, Mrs. Jessie Ann Geddes, widow of the late Forbes B. Geddes, on Monday morning, spread through out the community with rapidity, leaving behind it a trail of sincere regret and sorrow. The day previous Mrs. Geddes had enjoyed an auto ride with her son and cousin, returning in the evening feeling the better for the ride. She retired as usual and apparently had a good night's rest, but about 6 o'clock her son,

Victoria Day Celebration Is Usual Huge Success

The annual May 24th celebration held on Thursday last under the auspices of the Jarvis Board of Trade was the usual success of former years. Hundreds of people lined the streets to witness the Calithumpian parade that has each year created such outstanding interest to the spectators. Fewer entries were in the parade this year, nevertheless the entries were more outstanding on the whole. Uncle Tom's Cabin, the winner of the Comic Vehicle was outstanding and those responsible for the creation are to be complimented on their work. The Holstein Cow with Jack Mitchell on the front legs and Wilfred Willis on the hind quarters also created considerable interest as did the tooneville trolley with Harold Holland and Jim Brown doing their best to get her into high. Henry Leatherdale as Barney Google with Spark Plug as is usual was outstanding and would have no doubt taken first place in the race had the judge not ordered him out because he couldn't score. The first prize motor vehicle driven by Mrs. Pearl Harris, was a treat for all as was the Booster Club entry which took second place. Port Dover swung into easy victory to take first place for the comic band.

In the afternoon the majority of the crowd took their place along and around the ball diamond to see the initial games of the Haldimand County Baseball league. In the first game Jarvis and Dunnville provided a closely contested game with Jarvis coming through in the tenth innings to win the game 5—4. In the second game Hagersville won over Caledonia by a score of 4—2. The first game was the best game from a spectators standpoint due to the even score throughout and it was anybody's game until that final run came in by Kindree after a nice hit by Whitehead. The battery for Jarvis, was Aaron and Whitehead and for Dunnville Martin and Parke.

Freddy Wurker and his orchestra provided real rhythm for dancing in the arena throughout the afternoon as well as the evening. Good crowds were over evident throughout the afternoon but the evening dance attracted over four hundred and fifty which very nearly reached the capacity of the spacious arena.

A great deal more interest than usual was evidenced in the children's races which provided plenty of excitement for the children in the afternoon.

In all the Celebration was a wonderful success and it looks as if Jarvis is favorably regarded as the logical centre for the crowds to come to enjoy a complete Victoria Day Celebration.
