

WINGS OF FORTUNE

BY LESLIE BERESFORD

SYMPHONY
Sylvia Darwin, an orphaned and employed as a travel bureau. She meets John Christopher and goes to Paris and Monte Carlo.

"At any rate," interposed Paula, "there's no need for us to lose our heads. If the money does prove to have gone, we must look on it as a piece of unexpected bad luck, and decide what to do."

When, as she had imagined, it came, she had seized on it with widely eager hands, only to find it a myth and a delusion. At this moment, she was happy to be rid of the delusion, so far as the fortune went. That why had she been so cruel to her, as to bring her love, and turn that into a delusion too? What had she done that she must suffer for the rest of her life that which was in her heart, which all the fortunes in the world could not fill?

It dissolves clogging grease—never harms the plumbing. Why are you annoyed by stoppings up drains? It's so easy to keep them clear and free-running. Simply sprinkle Gillett's Pure Flake Lye down each week. Use it full strength—it will not in any way harm the enamel or plumbing.

It's easy to be your own plumber this workless way, and you've no unwelcome bills to pay afterwards! Get a tin of Gillett's Lye from your grocery dealer. It will save you hours of unnecessary scrubbing and rubbing all over the house.

GILLETT'S LYE EATS DIRT

"Oh, you can't frighten me, Sylvia," she said, "I'm not quite the simple fool you think I am. What good would it do you to acknowledge the existence of that will—especially now that it's worth nothing at all? He sides—"

She hesitated for a moment. Should he tell him what, no doubt, would frighten him much more than he was allowed to believe? Should she speak of the matter to him, as she had followed by a crash of the kind landing them both in hospital. And just then, with her vivid memory of Stella Darlingford's cutting over her, she was inclined to be very indifferent as to what he might say.

"Please Stand Down"

Canadian Industries and Agriculture, Inspiration of Huge New Moral Agriculture is linked with industry in the 34-foot canvas, "Canada Builds a Great Nation," shown above, which with its 26 striking scenes depicts Canadians, as a race of builders, emerging from the handicaps of depression with redoubled energy. Unprecedented in the Dominion, very modern in treatment, it was painted by the Swiss-Canadian artist, Carl Mangold, to stress the Canadian Nation's position among the world's nations at the present time. The idea originated with a Canadian Industrial group, including invitations to place it on view in New York and London as a symbol of this country's present-day progress.

KITCHEN KINKS
If you have a vase or flower jar that is porous enough to let water seep through and mar the table, make it waterproof by setting the bowl in the warming oven until you melt some paraffin. Then, when entirely cool, you may safely use this pottery container without fear of table marks.
