Spain's Decline Spain has been a cockpit of battle for 1,500 years, has been a rich, mighty nation, famed for valor, has fallen to decay, stands today as a third-rate Power. Her history is rich in romance, in adventure, in a noble literature, yet blotched at intervals by cruelty, by decadence, degradation. Time was when the Spanish army was the model for Europe, renowned for its discipline and valor. Spain's soldiers won triumphs on all battlefields, her sailors dominated the seas, her adventurers were everywhere... Ottawa Journal.

Another Problem A mechanical planter which sets and waters plants at the rate of 12,000 an hour is being used at Spiveton, near Norwich, for planting cabbage, celery and strawberries. Unless the way is found to distribute more purchasing power to consumers, sound money will have to find a mechanical device to cut them. People can no longer be persuaded that destroying the crops is a profitable way... Ottawa Citizen.

Nova Scotia in Scotland More than 300 years ago (in 1625, to be exact) Charles I, by royal mandate declared part of the soil of Nova Scotia what is known as the 'Esplanade', that broad plateau that lies in front of Edinburgh Castle. And that bit of land remains part of New Scotland in Old Scotland to this day...

Immigration for Defence Mr. Savage, the New Zealand Prime Minister, has recently declared that population is the first line of defence, and a similar view appears to be gaining currency in Australia. It is significant and reassuring that the two Dominions should have begun to realize this aspect of their security...

Tattooed Chickens

CHATHAM.—Something in the nature of a break for the harassed chicken farmer has been provided by the Ontario Government, in the introduction of registered "brands" or tattoo marks for poultry.

Tattooed on Wing The innovation is designed to provide a ready means of definite identification, and to act as a curb on the chicken thief. By means of the "brand," tattooed on the web of a chicken's wing, not only the owner, but any police in the province who have a list of the registered brands can tell to whom the chickens rightfully belong.

MIRROR GLASS INITIALS Soft calf skin bags have inlaid initials cut on mirror glass. Education is the leading human sin, and that is what is best, and making it so, you have the philosopher's stone... Franklin.

HAVE YOU HEARD

A wisecracker maintains that when a politician makes up his bed he should lie in it. Unfortunately, he seems more inclined to make up his bunk and lie out of it. The little man had applied for a deed of separation from his wife on the grounds of cruelty. Asked to prove his case, he replied: "One night I dreamed I had won $100,000, and in the morning my wife nearly killed me for not putting it in the bank before I woke up."
