—and then we are reminded that our own automobiles shutting along the highways, are more of a menace to the human race than all the beasts of Africa and the jungles of the East.

The man who laughs in Dedham, Massachusetts, a certain gentleman went to a movie comedy. As the comedy unfolded he chuckled to himself and then gave way to unrestrained laughter. The infection spread and soon the whole audience was convulsed. The laughter multiplied itself, the whole audience being in sympathy and laughter shared merrily itself. The comedy itself, together with the hearty laughter of this one particular man, combined to generate such a mood in the audience that it laughed till the tears came.

Then the lights came on and the audience earned its merry hour. Suddenly aha! the man in question realized he was the attraction of all eyes and searched about for a hasty exit. He looked at the whole audience and then he saw that the man who was responsible for the infection of false advertising in the newspaper advertising, appearing in printed form, is there in a permanent record, and can easily be checked up, and heavy penalties await the man who is responsible for the infection of false advertising in the newspaper.
