Amazing New Invention of W. C. Coleman Uses 96% Air. 4% Fuel. Brings Convenience of City Gas to Small Town and Rural Homes Utilizing the principle of carburization used in present day automobile engines, W. C. Coleman, noted inventor

w. c. coleman dinary lead-free gasoline.

W. c. coleman device converts liquid fuel into vapor gas—then mixes it with fresh, live air so that the fuel, when it reaches the burner, is actually about 96% air and 4% vapor gas. This remarkable invention has effected fuel-saving economies which, combined with the heating efficiency of the Coleman patented Band-A-Blu Burners, makes the new Coleman Safety Range cheaper to use than wood, coal or kerosene. Housewives everywhere express appreciation for the convenience, safety, economy and beauty of a stove which provides cooking equaling that of the finest city gas range.

In the military and naval service of Britain there is an order which covers just about every contingency that may crop up. New fleet orders have just been issued, regarding the procedure in drinking the King's toast—that it shall be drunk sitting except when the National Anthem is played, when it shall be drunk standing. The custom is said to have originated in the days of the old "wooden walls," when there was insufficient head room for a man to stand between decks. An interesting survival of ancient custom.
