DEATH ON THE DIAMOND
BY CORTLAND FITZSIMMONS

SYNOPSIS
Since Pop Clark disbanded his famous Blue Fire-eaters ten years ago he has been vainly trying to win the United League pennant with his Royal Blues. Sport writers give them little chance.

"I'm sorry, Larry. I've nothing against you as a person, and if you weren't a ball player maybe I'd like to have you for a son-in-law. Frances told me where you were this afternoon and I told Kelly. That established your alibi. I know why you wouldn't tell Kelly. You didn't want me to know and you didn't want Frances brought into this. I appreciate your feelings on that score."

"But Kelly couldn't really believe that I had anything to do with it. I don't know what Kelly thought and I don't care. Frances had to tell me and that's what I care about. You know how I feel about her and ball players. Every ball player in the league knows my feelings about Frances. Up to now, my wishes have been respected. First it was Whitper who defied me, and then you. I won't let it go on."

"You mean you will get rid of me?" Larry asked.

"Yes, unless you—"

"But the team—"

"I know, but all the things you want to say. You are important on the team. I wouldn't have taken you on if you weren't. I don't want to get rid of you, but I will if this thing goes on. You know what the papers have been saying about me? They say I'm old and I'm through and I don't know it. I'm old, but I'm not through—I'll never be through until I drop. There are two things more I want out of life—another winning team and to see Frances happily married."

"Don't you believe in love?" Larry asked with all the full seriousness of his abounding youth.

"Doesn't it make any difference if Frances and I really love each other?"

"You are a ball player. You were
