THE SNAPSHOT CLUB
Making a Hobby of One Kind of Picture Subject

ANY AMATEUR HAS HOBBIES OF FINDING SUBJECTS WHICH TO TYPOIFY a single idea, phase of life or activity. Here are two pictures from an amusing collection picture "Innocuous Desuetude".

WEALTHY ART COLLECTORS often judge their fancy by specializing in one kind of picture subject, such as landscapes of nature, views, genre sketches or portraits, and assembling the pictures in a separate exhibit.

ANYONE WHO HAS SPECIALIZED IN faces of cows and produced a collection of cow portraits wonderful to behold. It is surprising how many amusing variety there is in the expressions of cows, especially those taken when the cow is alarmed. All who see this collection laugh.

"Innocuous Desuetude" is the subject of another collection, being made up of snapshots of human beings in all sorts of attitudes of repose, and chunks of human interest—bench warmers in the park, tramps, dozing fishermen, water-front loafers, and gossipers on the steps of the country store.

STILL another, a circus fan, appreciates on circus pictures, especially those taken when the circus is in camp. You will cultivate a discerning eye for them, and have your camera flash on the antics of the circus.

PICTURE HOBBIES OF OTHERS are fire, birds, breezes and sephyras. How enthusiastic that he would hang, by lake his camera out if the wind were to blow over his pictures, one after the other in a great chance to see your artistic talent in the photography.
