

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

GOD PREPARES A PEOPLE.
Exodus 11:4-12:36.
Printed Text Exodus 12:21-29.
Golden Text.—The Lord thy God hath chosen thee to be a people for his own possession. Deuteronomy 15.

THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING.
Place.—The passover feast itself was observed only in the land of Israel, where the Jews were living, but the final plague of death among all the firstborn of Egypt involved the entire land of Egypt.

20. Then Moses called for all the elders of Israel, and said unto them, Draw out, and take your lambs according to your families, and kill the passover. The word passover is the Hebrew word pesach and means exactly what the English translation indicates, namely, a passing over, with reference to the passing of the angel of death over the homes on whose doorposts blood was sprinkled the night of the exodus.

21. And ye shall take a bunch of hyssop. "Outside of the Pentateuch, hyssop is mentioned only in I Kings 18:38 and Psalm 51:7. The cleansing for which it was used was not only through blood sprinkling with water, though the plant must have been found in Israel in Canaan and at the Jordan time, we do not know what was the species of it. From John 19:29, it may be inferred that it had a long stalk. The lintel is supposed to mean a lattice through which it was possible to look in or out of the door.

22. For Jehovah will pass through to smite the Egyptians; and when he seeth the blood upon the lintel, and on the two side-posts, Jehovah will pass over the door, and will not suffer the destroyer to come in upon your houses to smite you. 24. And ye shall observe this thing for an ordinance to thee and to thy sons for ever. The destroyer here is the destroying angel. (Cf. 2 Sam. 24:16; Isa. 37:36).

25. And it shall come to pass, when ye are come to the land which Jehovah will give you, according as he hath promised, that ye shall keep this service.

26. And it shall come to pass, when your children shall say unto you, What mean ye by this service? 27. That ye shall say, It is the sacrifice of Jehovah's passover, who passed over the houses of the children of Israel in Egypt, when he smote the Egyptians, and delivered our houses. The passover feast was given to Israel to be perpetually kept year after year, so that Israel might never forget the wonderful redemption which God wrought for her by his omnipotent power and by atoning blood in the days when she was helplessly in bondage in a foreign land. The command to instruct the children in the generations to follow regarding the significance of this memorial feast are especially significant. For the instruction of children, see Ex. 10:2; 13:8; Deut. 4:9; 6:7.

And the people bowed the head and worshipped. 28. And the children of Israel went and did as Jehovah had commanded Moses and Aaron, so did they. The attitude of the people in worshipping clearly indicates that the whole passover observance on this dreadful, but auspicious occasion was not mechanically but reverently entered into.

FARM NOTES

Conducted by PROFESSOR HENRY G. BELL
With the Co-operation of the Various Departments of the Ontario Agricultural College.

Q.—"Can Feeding change the butterfat tests of milk?"—G. R. Oxford Co.

A.—Yes and No. Cows liberally fed and kept in good condition will give at their normal inherited ability. These tests may vary a few points from day to day, but will be very close to an average for a complete lactation period. On the other hand, under feeding, using poor quality feeds or pasturing on poor grass will lower the butterfat test below the inherited ability of the cow. And when any or all of these faulty diets are corrected the test will return to normal, and, in this way, feeding increases the butterfat test by bringing it back to normal but will not permanently increase it beyond this point. (Prof. G. Rathby, Department of Animal Husbandry, O.A.C.)

Q.—"Why is iodine necessary in the ration?"—B.T. Bruce Co.

A.—Iodine is necessary to prevent goitre in new born calves, coats and lambs and to prevent hardness in the new born pig. Feed commercial iodized salt or home mixed iodized salt prepared by mixing one ounce of potassium iodide with 200 pounds of salt. First mix the iodine with about ten pounds of salt and then add this to the remainder. Keep in a dry place and do not mix too much at a time. (Prof. S. Rathby, Dept. of Animal Husbandry, O.A.C.)

Q.—"Is it necessary to wash and build a cream separator bowl twice daily in order to produce a special grade cream?"—R.R. Halton Co.

A.—The slime which forms on the separator discs contains large numbers of bacteria and other impurities of milk and if allowed to remain will seriously contaminate fresh milk coming in contact with it. Undoubtedly, the cleanliness of a separator is a factor in production of special grade cream. Then, too, it is useless to expect efficient skimming from a machine that has been standing eight or ten hours with the slime caked between the discs.

Experimental work on the effect of washing the separator after using as compared with washing once a day only, upon cream quality with other factors being equal, resulted in an invariable drop in grade from a special to a No. 1 grade during three days collecting cream. Also these results showed a dirty separator to clean only one-half as efficiently as a clean one. (W. H. Sproule, Prof. of Dairying, O.A.C.)

Q.—"Should fresh cream be precooled before mixing with old cream in the storage tank?"—S. B. Thurn Co.

A.—In the production of turning cream of high quality it is essential that the natural flavour of cream be maintained. Bacterial growth and fermentation, if allowed to develop bring about abnormal flavors in the cream and prevent bacterial growth, temperature is the all important factor. If warm cream after separating be added to the already cooled cream in the storage tank, there will be successful increases in temperature with the resultant development of undesirable flavors and souring. Therefore, it is important to cool each lot of fresh cream to 45 degrees F. before adding it to the storage can that ought to be maintained at 50 degrees F. (W. H. Sproule, Prof. of Dairying, O.A.C.)

Eggs By Male

Beausville, July 6.—Here is the now-famous Beausville egg-laying rooster, according to poultry experts from all parts of the continent, there is no second one. The bird is a hen, white, white feet, "chick" does lay the eggs from wintertime. Motherly, yet fatherly to her eggs is Arthur Atwood, well known to all poultry fanciers.

THE COMPOSITE CHICKEN

Beausville, July 6.—Here is the now-famous Beausville egg-laying rooster, according to poultry experts from all parts of the continent, there is no second one. The bird is a hen, white, white feet, "chick" does lay the eggs from wintertime. Motherly, yet fatherly to her eggs is Arthur Atwood, well known to all poultry fanciers.

Beausville, July 6.—Here is the now-famous Beausville egg-laying rooster, according to poultry experts from all parts of the continent, there is no second one. The bird is a hen, white, white feet, "chick" does lay the eggs from wintertime. Motherly, yet fatherly to her eggs is Arthur Atwood, well known to all poultry fanciers.

As Canadian Premier Visited Hitler

Prime Minister Mackenzie King, pictured at the Presidential Palace in Berlin, when he conferred with Chancellor Hitler. Mr. King refused to divulge the nature of the conversation but said he had a "Most valuable and interesting review with Chancellor Hitler."

Injures Her Back In Fall On Studio Set

Alice Faye, beautiful singing star of the screen, who fell down a flight of 14 steps during filming of a scene on Hollywood set. She hurt herself badly. X-ray was used to locate spine injury.

Male Headed For The Soap Factory

Among "vanishing Americans" are now to be listed the humble and patient mule, which has carried so large a share of farm work in the southern states, according to a speaker at the annual convention of the Texas Horse, Jack and Mule Breeders' Association.

The trend to mechanization of farms in the South is pushing the mule steadily toward the soap factory. And in this way another very useful animal is following the horse into the background of the picture of our increasingly mechanized age.

Over two-thirds of the land in the Union of South Africa could be farmed but at present only four per cent is cultivated.

The Beaming Rays

Gloves of happiness light the faces of the Dupons, Marjorie Dupon, daughter of the stage and screen; her mother, and her brother, as they held a little family gathering in New York.

Around The Dial

RADIO HEADLINES OF THE WEEK
G. C. MURRAY

Sar Casin: Thomas Thomas, the new Show Boat baritone, was born in Wales in 1913... sang first in a children's cantata... came to America in 1925 and joined the Boy Scouts... graduated from Scranton, Pa., High School... worked in machine shop and studied music for two years. Minors, soldiers, musicians... a cross word puzzle fan and rides horses for relaxation... Grace Allen who is practicing a series of new steps with Hubby George Burns for their picture with Fred Astaire, once danced in vaudeville with her two older sisters... SWING KING: Benny Goodman, whose Swing School beats the tempo of the Nation every Tuesday night over CBS, began his musical career with five piece high school band in Chicago... at 16 he was featured with Ben Pollack's band and later came up the musical ladder with Isham Jones, Red Nichols, Paul Whiteman and Johnny Green... Ferde Grofe, whose music hits a new high in tone pictures, weaves his notes like a master painter in "Hollywood Suite." He makes you feel the full sweep of picture making. Phil Spitalny, whose "Hour of Charm" is heard every Monday at 9.30 p.m. over NBC's red network, once directed a 50-piece symphony orchestra in Boston.

TRIPLE PLAY... Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians, who will guest star on the "Magic Key" program at 2 p.m. will be heard on all three major networks this week... They air their own commercial at 5.30 p.m. over WABC, CBS, and then do a bi-weekly program over WOK on Wednesday and Thursday... Andre Kostelanec, who will be presenting Kitty Kelly at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York from Ireland, will be in the strange city, Michael O'Donoghue, beginning Monday, July 1st, at 11.15 to 1.30 p.m. The sketches were introduced by Columbia network Monday, July 1st, at 10.00 to 11.15 P.M. The programs are broadcast from 1.15 to 1.30 p.m. The sketches were introduced by Columbia network Monday, July 1st, at 10.00 to 11.15 P.M. The programs are broadcast from 1.15 to 1.30 p.m.

and turned the finger of suspicion toward the Blues.
"How do we know," Terry asked, "that the crimes are connected with baseball at all? It is true that each of the victims thus far has been a figure prominent in the national game, but how do we know that these crimes are motivated by anything in the baseball world? Perhaps the police have been too anxious to cover up their failure to solve the crimes. Has there been sufficient search into the lives of the people murdered? Have the reasons for not using this public suspicion been investigated to their full extent? Why should this wholesale slaughter have anything to do with the game? We are new in mid-section. Will there be a murder in Detroit? Will there be a murder in Cleveland? How do we know that clever criminals are not using this public suspicion to cover their own tracks?"

Terry typed words and words and words, not believing any of it, but he felt better and hoped that the murderers would leave him out of their calculations in the future.
Craven had been restless while Terry worked. As he walked up and down the lounge car, he would stand and look over Terry's shoulder. Once he stopped and said, "You don't believe all that belly-wash. Why write it?"

"If something doesn't happen we will have a wave of hysteria all through the baseball world. If this thing keeps up, the game may be called off for the rest of the season." Terry was serious.
"Say, depression or no depression, this is the greatest year this league has had in years. It's a wonder the Consolidated League hasn't started a few murders of their own to bring up their gate. People are ghouls. They love it and I'll bet the first day in Detroit will find the park jammed to the limit. They'll hope to see a murder committed right before their eyes."

What do you think about all this?" Terry asked.
"I think it is some gang trying to force the Blues into first place."
"Wouldn't you think the police would have some clues? Suppose you were suspicious. How would you go about finding the guilty people?"
"Search me, I'm no detective," Craven pulled a flask from his pocket. "Let's have a drink before we go back for dinner."
After the steward had brought glasses and water, Terry leaned forward and said, "Listen, Craven, I want to tell you something. Keep it under your hat; don't even breathe what I'm saying unless I should disappear. If I do, go to Kelly in New York and tell him anything you may know about me. Will you promise?"
"Sure, but I think you're nuts. This thing is getting under your skin. You need a rest."
Then Terry told him about the telephone call in St. Louis and his narrow escape from something, he did not know what.

Craven whistled, and then said, "But why should he be after you? I see. You know too much, or they think you do."
"We learn things we see things. It's part of our job to do that. If the time comes when I turn up missing, just keep your eyes and ears open, will you? You may be able to help me out of a hole. Anything unusual that you see or hear might be just the thing. I'm not quitting on this murder business. I've some ideas and I'm going to follow them up in my own way."
"What are they?"
"I can't and won't tell you, or you might find yourself in the same boat."
"Death on the Diamond"—Ed July
"I see. What do you want me to do?"
"I don't know. Just be on the job always."
"Like what?"
"Well, for instance—Army has a mascot, hasn't it? A mule, and you always see that mule when you see the Army play, don't you?"
(TO BE CONTINUED)

SHOW BOAT PLANS TO USE TELEVISION... The exact reason why Charles Winninger, "Captain Henry" of the new Show Boat hour picked his cast so carefully was made clear when his sponsor filed a formal application with the National Broadcasting Co. for an option to sponsor radio's first commercial television broadcast. The option application was filed with Roy C. Witmer, vice-president in charge of sales of NBC. Television classes were included in every contract of the new river show. The application also revealed that the entire new Show Boat cast of 75, consisting of principals, orchestra, chorus and dramatic players, is being decked in costumes reminiscent of 19th Century Mississippi River Show Boat attire, and that spotlights and curtains are being installed to make the weekly radio program and ideal subject for television.

Mascara almost ruined a television performance by Hildergarde, NBC singer now filling guest engagements abroad. During the last of four programs for NBC television, Hildergarde raised her eyes during an emotional moment in the song... and got make-up in her eye. She finished the song with her eyes closed.

Much interest has been aroused in the past few years over the service the CBC has been giving to the hundreds of men who are following the trails in the far North. On each Saturday evening the CBC has a special program which sends personal mes-

From the Jungle Into a Maze of Figures

Professor W. Woolly Monksby from the Amazon jungle is to be bent on statistical research as he opens a file in the office of the reporters who brought him in as part of a shipment of animals.

Green tea at its best

SALTED GREEN TEA

DEATH ON THE DIAMOND
BY CORTLAND FITZSIMMONS

and turned the finger of suspicion toward the Blues.
"How do we know," Terry asked, "that the crimes are connected with baseball at all? It is true that each of the victims thus far has been a figure prominent in the national game, but how do we know that these crimes are motivated by anything in the baseball world? Perhaps the police have been too anxious to cover up their failure to solve the crimes. Has there been sufficient search into the lives of the people murdered? Have the reasons for not using this public suspicion been investigated to their full extent? Why should this wholesale slaughter have anything to do with the game? We are new in mid-section. Will there be a murder in Detroit? Will there be a murder in Cleveland? How do we know that clever criminals are not using this public suspicion to cover their own tracks?"

Terry typed words and words and words, not believing any of it, but he felt better and hoped that the murderers would leave him out of their calculations in the future.
Craven had been restless while Terry worked. As he walked up and down the lounge car, he would stand and look over Terry's shoulder. Once he stopped and said, "You don't believe all that belly-wash. Why write it?"

"If something doesn't happen we will have a wave of hysteria all through the baseball world. If this thing keeps up, the game may be called off for the rest of the season." Terry was serious.
"Say, depression or no depression, this is the greatest year this league has had in years. It's a wonder the Consolidated League hasn't started a few murders of their own to bring up their gate. People are ghouls. They love it and I'll bet the first day in Detroit will find the park jammed to the limit. They'll hope to see a murder committed right before their eyes."

What do you think about all this?" Terry asked.
"I think it is some gang trying to force the Blues into first place."
"Wouldn't you think the police would have some clues? Suppose you were suspicious. How would you go about finding the guilty people?"
"Search me, I'm no detective," Craven pulled a flask from his pocket. "Let's have a drink before we go back for dinner."
After the steward had brought glasses and water, Terry leaned forward and said, "Listen, Craven, I want to tell you something. Keep it under your hat; don't even breathe what I'm saying unless I should disappear. If I do, go to Kelly in New York and tell him anything you may know about me. Will you promise?"
"Sure, but I think you're nuts. This thing is getting under your skin. You need a rest."
Then Terry told him about the telephone call in St. Louis and his narrow escape from something, he did not know what.

Craven whistled, and then said, "But why should he be after you? I see. You know too much, or they think you do."
"We learn things we see things. It's part of our job to do that. If the time comes when I turn up missing, just keep your eyes and ears open, will you? You may be able to help me out of a hole. Anything unusual that you see or hear might be just the thing. I'm not quitting on this murder business. I've some ideas and I'm going to follow them up in my own way."
"What are they?"
"I can't and won't tell you, or you might find yourself in the same boat."
"Death on the Diamond"—Ed July
"I see. What do you want me to do?"
"I don't know. Just be on the job always."
"Like what?"
"Well, for instance—Army has a mascot, hasn't it? A mule, and you always see that mule when you see the Army play, don't you?"
(TO BE CONTINUED)

Postcards handled by the British Post Office in the last fiscal year numbered 7,850,000,000.

Demand Abolition Distinction Between Wives and Spinsters

British Feminists Consider All Adult Women Should Have Common Title

LONDON.—Feminists are on the march again. This time they demand abolition of the distinction between wives and spinsters.
Leading the battle, Mrs. F. Pethick-Lawrence asked a Women's Freedom League meeting why single women should be obliged to broadcast the fact by calling themselves "Miss."
She said that she had always felt that women should not have to be divided into "Mrs." and "Miss" when there was no indication of whether a man was married or unmarried.
Declaring the title "Miss-Lawrence" inferiority, Mrs. Pethick-Lawrence said any woman was now free to call herself "Puan."
One thing that aroused her ire was that women must state whether or not she is married on an income-tax form and other official Government documents.
"I consider it definitely degrading for her to have to do this," Mrs. Pethick-Lawrence said. "No man is asked to put 'married' or 'single' after his signature."
"It is a question of giving a woman adult status by using one title for all women, just as you do for all men. I don't like the word 'Mrs.' I would much prefer the word 'Madam' such as they use in Scotland for all women, or the word 'madam' which is the common title for all women in France."

Jotting Down Car Numbers

We have suggested it before, but again we suggest the jotting of automobile numbers as a hobby. All good citizens, observing cars being driven in suspicious manner or circumstances, should make a point of jotting down the numbers. Many times such a habit has resulted in the arrest of criminals.

In Schomberg, a woman was able to give the police a valuable clue which had landed them the number of a car which had been driving to and from the streets of that place, which showed the direction travelled by a gang of robbers. Many a hit-and-run driver has got away, leaving his victim dead or dying on the highway and which is the common title for all women in France."

A Baby's Smile

The man who has not a kindly word and a smile for a baby as it passes him on the street looks something in his mental and spiritual makeup, observes the Port Rowan News. Long before civilization began its march to glory land, the

A BUTTON-ON PIQUE HAT—By RUTH SPEARS

A white hat is absolutely essential with summer dresses and here is one that is easy to make and laudable. One-half yard of 36-inch pique, some white cotton thread, a big pearl button and a piece of brown paper for your pattern are all you need to make it.
The paper for the pattern should be 12-inches wide and 17-inches deep, as shown in the diagram at the upper right. Rule this paper into 1-inch squares and then outline the pattern pieces over the squares so the lines of the pattern cross the ruled lines of the squares, just as you see them here. The numbers around the edge of the diagram will help you in counting the squares.
The pattern piece marked A is for the center portion of the hat and the one marked B is for the side section. The long straight edge of the center piece is placed on a fold of the goods in cutting as indicated. The hat is lined with self material so you will need to cut two center pieces and four side pieces. This pattern is for a 22-inch head size. To make it larger or smaller, add or trim away the necessary amount at the seam lines.
Stitch the outside and inside sections together. Clip these seams along curves and press them open as at C. Now, place the outside and inside layers with right sides together and stitch around the edges, leaving an open space through which to turn the hat right side out, as shown here at D. When the hat has been turned through this opening haste along the turned edge to hold it in a firm line while being pressed, then stitch around the hat very near the edge. Sew a button at the back of the center piece of the hat and make a buttonhole in each side end. Button both sides to the one button.
NOTE:—Mrs. Spears' new book, "Sewing For The Interior Decorator," contains 47 other fascinating things to make for the home with step-by-step instructions. Now ready for mailing upon receipt of 14c (10c plus 4c postage). Address: Mrs. Ruth Wyeth Spears, 73 Adelaide Street West, Toronto.

The Love of Reading

Pointing out that a librarian, whether he, or she, works in a small library or a large one, and is to be a guide, philosopher, and friend to those who come seeking knowledge, Hon. Martin Burrell remarked at the convention of Ontario Librarians that the love of reading must be counted one of the greatest blessings in life. It leads to health, and happiness in the mortal who acquires that love in youth. Free to all, that great storehouse of books contains the records of all human endeavor back to the twilight of history.

Blackheads

Blackheads go quickly by a simple method that just dissolves them. Get two ounces of persicaria powder from your druggist, rub this with a hot, wet cloth gently over the blackheads—and you will wonder where they have gone. Have a Hollywood complexion.

Mosquitoes

Mr. Arthur Gibson, Dominion Entomologist, knows as much as any man about making war on mosquitoes and his letter to Mayor Lewis offers a hat's a on which definite and continuous action should be planned.
Mr. Gibson says it will cost about 10,000 a year to assure "comparative freedom" from the mosquito plague in the metropolitan area which covers fifty square miles in which reside more than 200,000 persons—in other words, five cents per capita per year. This money would provide for a general supervisor; would allow considerable expenditure on cutting ditches, removing brush, other permanent measures; oiling on a large scale; the purchase and maintenance of the necessary equipment.—Ottawa Journal.

Issue No. 30—37

Issue No. 30—37

Issue No. 30—37

AFTER EVERY MEAL

Home Hints

By LAURA KNIGHT

A Fine Pudding

Chocolate is a universal favorite at any time of the day, any season of the year. And it reaches its peak of perfection in desserts, particularly puddings. Rich in flavour and color in this delicious chocolate molded pudding. The ingredients which go into it tell you that it is nourishing and healthful and the relish with which it is consumed tells you that it is tasty.
It's attractive looking too with its creamy garnish of whipped cream. Serve it soon as a desirable treat for your home.

Chocolate Velvet Cream
1 with whipped cream. Sprinkle with chopped blanched almonds or chocolate over top, if desired. Serves six.

World Travel

Miss Cora Hind, for long Farm Editor of the Winnipeg Free Press and author of Western crop reports that have enjoyed the highest prestige in grain circles, has lately returned home from a two-year period of world travel that included some 25 countries. While thus engaged she kept her eyes keenly open in the interests of Canada and she had published many of the conclusions reached from these observations.

Among other things, Miss Hind thus advocates: "Consideration of wheat areas, with experts abroad to keep Canada posted on what the world is doing. A well-organized and constantly operating system for selling our wheat."
"Utilizing of markets, however small, with a willingness to buy as well as sell."
"Early consideration of a fresh meat trade with Britain."
"Better support for our Trade Commissions and close cooperation between the Department of Trade and Commerce and the Intelligence Department."

Conquest of England

New York Times—Every once in a while some British purist or arch-enemy sounds a warning against the ravages of American slang in the inviolate island. His cause is hopeless. Even in girls' schools, which might be thought the last defence of the proprieties and pedantries of speech, the keen humorous immigrant has made his way. At the annual conference of the Association of Head Mistresses a high school teacher said that modern life is so fierce that the younger generation wants something soothing and relaxing. They are bored by sentences from the classics "whereas slick Americanisms meet their need and are far more effective." One teacher "thought 'de-bunk' was an excellent word and defied any one to find a better. She recalled that not so long ago a head mistress would have been fired if she had been guilty of saying "bun." Evidently she believed in selective slang; for she didn't "think children ought to say to their mothers 'O.K., big baby.'"

Estate of Willys

Is $1,264,069 Net
NEW YORK.—John N. Willys, the automobile manufacturer and former ambassador to Poland, who died Aug. 26, 1935, left gross assets of $2,414,729 and a net estate of $1,264,069. It was shown in an estate tax appraisal filed last week.
The only property taxable here belonging to Willys, who was a resident of Palm Beach, Fla., consisted of real estate and personal effects totaling $23,422.
Appraisal papers also listed additional property and furnishings outside New York State amounting to $241,549.

Baby's Own Soap

Baby's Own Soap

Baby's Own Soap

Baby's Own Soap

Baby's Own Soap

Baby's Own Soap

Baby's Own Soap

Baby's Own Soap

Baby's Own Soap

Baby's Own Soap