"SALADA" GREEN TEA

When the United League season opens the gamblers are offered 200 to 1 that Pop Clark's New York Blues will not win the pennant. Terry Burke is the only sports writer to give them a chance. He bet $10 at Tony Murillo's restaurant in the Broadway district. In the Blues' first game Whittier, the Philadelphia pitcher, is killed with a bullet through the heart after smacking out a home run. Both Burke and Larry Doyle, the Blues' rookie shortstop, for whom Clark's pretty daughter, Frances, had shown her preference over Whittier, are suspected at first by Detective Kelly. It is Burke who discovers it was Sid Stream, notorious gambler, who wrecked a taxi with a bullet through a tire and injured four men to open a series. Then Dickin, Chicago star, drops dead, after hitting a home run from a photograph of a home run. The needle fixed in the handle of his bat. Pietro, Chicago's last boy, disappears. Clark sends Doyle to Newark. Burke will win the pennant game if Rawlins is still ill. He is absent again.

Goody Gaston was wild at the start, and tallied the first two New York batters. Shorty Dugan, who was now playing short-stop in place of Doyle, lined a hot single through Crawford on first and drove a run in. Crawford was injured in the play. The ball nearly tore his thumb off and he gave way to Steve Higgins, a rookie infielder from the Butchers' farm in Decatur. Roy Moore was just pitching along, taking his time. Moore had the theory that his outfield, and infield, too, for that matter, should do ninety per cent. of his work for him. Unerring control and a moist splitter had the batters all popping up and hitting into the dirt. There were no strikes in Moore's bag of tricks. He had control and an accurate knowledge of each batter's weaknesses.

Gaston seemed to settle down after the third. The Blues kicked him for another run in the second, but that was all. He set six men down on strikes in a row. The Butchers collected a run from Moore in the sixth. Gaston was living up to his reputation. He razed each New Yorker as he stepped up to the plate and had

Woman Is Expert In "High Style"

New York Dressmaker, French, Is Boon To The Stout

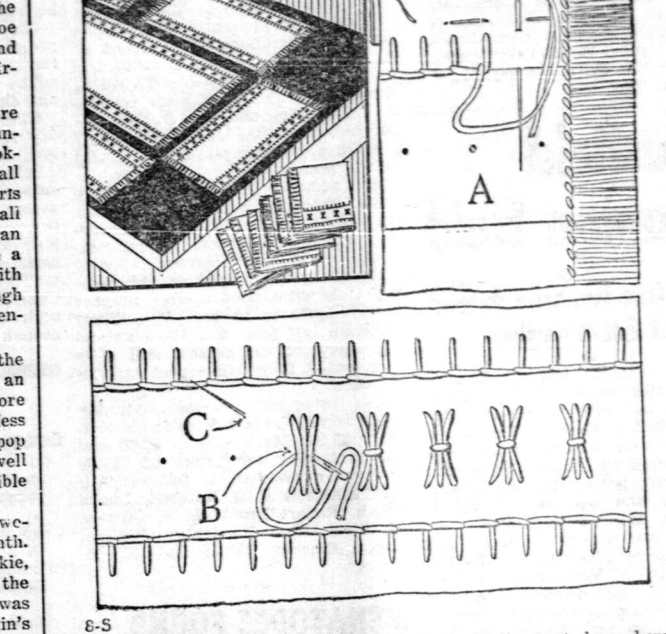

Germaine Montell, New York dressmaker, is French, of course, and she makes clothes for the "world's best dressed women." Her clientele is composed of women who wear what is known as "high style" clothes. They appreciate the value of art in classic simplicity.

Mme. Montell strives to create the clothes that enhance personality, the type that make for glamour and romance.

But there are a certain number of her models that are adaptable for larger women — the "stylish stout" figure. The lines of these gowns apparently cut off pounds from the woman wearing them. They are known as "specials" and the gives them secret ingenious darts, manipulation of materials, etc., to give smoothness and thus no simulating the lines of the materials are of the greatest importance.

Germaine Montell loves to travel, and she frequently visits her native Paris to consult and to work up new ideas with fabric designers, and also to arrange for novel trimmings, for she has a taste especially for her. She likes to attend the famous Paris openings and the races and the theatres.

HOW TO SEW—BY RUTH WYETH SPEARS

The embroidered borders used for the heavy linen set shown here are done in the typical red and black peasant embroidery color scheme on either white or natural linen. These borders are done by the free hand method, that is, with no measuring pattern. It is a good plan, however, to draw straight lines with a ruler to guide you in keeping the rows of stitches straight at the outside edges of the border in the middle line, and to make evenly spaced dots in the center for the pattern is shown here at A. The diagrams given here show the exact size of the border.

The ends of both mats and napkins are fringed, the top of the fringe is whipped with the red thread to keep it from fraying. Use mercerized strand embroidery cotton for this and the border. Remember that you are working for a bold rather than a delicate effect, so use all six strands of the cotton. Add a row of stitches. The mats and napkins are fringed, turn and hem the three-eighths inch that makes the outside row of the border pattern, as shown in diagram A. The blanket stitching of both edges of the border is done in black.

The red stitches that make the center of the border are called heddles. To make them, take three or four strands of the three-eighths inch cotton, as at B in making the last of the three-eighths inch cotton, and bring the needle out ready for the next heddle, as at C.

New Stethoscope Able to Warn "Dad"

ATLANTIC CITY. — Expectant fathers can be warned in the future of the danger to their future children to prepare themselves for one, two or five children, two university of California physicians said this week by use of a new instrument similar to the sound detectors used by army to locate enemy airplanes.

The instrument is a new stethoscope, called a "symphonophone" by its inventors, Dr. William J. Kerr and Dr. A. M. Bassett. With it the physician for the first time can determine the exact location of sounds inside the human body and pick up the pre-natal broadcasts of infants long before they come into full voice. They demonstrated the device before the American Medical Association.

The physician can also use the instrument to make more specific studies of heart troubles, including the timing and pitch of heart sounds; of diseases of the lungs and the respiratory tract and friction within the lungs; of troubles in the vocal cords of opera and other singers; and the various "engine knocks" of the human body.

A Summer Snack

What is more delicately appetizing for a summer snack than golden sponge cake, creamed strawberries and sponge cake? We can't think of anything that would taste better and so we give you this recipe for a particularly suitable cake for summer because it is light, golden and very tasty.

True sponge cakes never call for baking powder. If, therefore, they are made light, solely by the air that is beaten into the eggs. But there is an added kind of sponge cake that can be made with baking powder and which we have chosen because it is economical and is quite as good as the more expensive kind.

There is one thing you must remember, however, in making this cake and that is to use finely milled flour. If you specify the finest flour on the market when you buy from your grocer, you need have no fear that this cake won't be a success.

Champion Spice Cake

1 1/2 cups sifted cake flour, 1/4 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 4 egg yolks, 1 1/2 cups sugar, 4 egg whites, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 2 cup boiling water.

The four eggs, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Beat egg yolks gradually, beating constantly. Beat egg whites with flat wire whisk until light and frothy, then add sugar very gradually and continue beating until stiff enough to hold up in definite peaks. Add vanilla and lemon rind. Add boiling water to egg yolks, stirring well; then add flour all at once and beat with spoon until smooth. Turn into ungreased tub and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 1 hour and 15 minutes. Invert pan 1 hour, or until cool.

Few Girls Remain In School When Married

TORONTO.—Unlike a case recently reported from Britain, Toronto college girls who marry do not stay in school after they undertake to be wives and homemakers.

There have been a few cases in Toronto where girls attending school have been married, but principals report that they know of no cases in which a young married woman remained a student.

"It is not surprising that a few of them get married so early—we have some remarkably good looking girls among our students, and nowadays they are taught something of domestic science," said Principal F. H. Clarke, of Jarvis Collegiate.

"There is no law against a girl student being married, other than the requirements as to parental consent," said Dr. C. C. Goldring, superintendent of schools.

W. E. Dunlop, issuer of marriage licenses, said that if a girl were under 18 the consent of her father, or in certain circumstances her mother, would be necessary.

At the university, say the authorities, it is quite a rare thing for married men to be in attendance, and almost unknown for married women to be regular day students.

Secret of Longevity

It is pleasing to find a variation in the prescriptions for good health at great age. Too much they have been limited to long walks, total abstinence, regular drinking and the like. Brigadier-General Samuel E. Tillman, who will be 90 in October, astonished the ship news reporters the other day by attributing his fine physical condition to the fact that he has never supported his trousers with a belt. Suspenders are his secret, now revealed by a man who has gained distinction as soldier, astronomer, chemist and geologist.

There is much to say for the Tillman theory. Suspenders may be

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON XIII

Genesis 1:1-14; 12:1-13; Galatians 3:1-14; Hebrews 11:1-10; 12:1-13

Text — "These all died in faith, not having seen them and trusting that they were strangers and pilgrims on the earth." — Hebrews 11:13.

THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING

Time — A.D. The teaching of Jesus in Luke 17 was given in the presence of A.D. 33. Paul wrote the Epistle to the Galatians about A. D. 57. The date of the Epistle to the Hebrews may be placed about A.D. 65-70.

There are so many different places recorded in various parts of the Bible that it would be confusing to mention them, except to say that the examples of faith given in Hebrews are from events which took place in Palestine, in which the apostles also lived. Paul wrote the Epistle to the Galatians while at the same time he was writing to the Hebrews. The Epistle to the Hebrews was written in Rome.

Paul understood that the faith which he had in mind was not the faith of the living God, but the faith of the living God, which he had in mind when he wrote the Epistle to the Hebrews. The faith which he had in mind was not the faith of the living God, but the faith of the living God, which he had in mind when he wrote the Epistle to the Hebrews.

Many Blind Given Wage-Earning Jobs

TORONTO.—Placement of blind persons in wage-earning jobs and to prevent blindness, were two activities of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind during the last year which won recognition in reports presented at the annual meeting.

L. M. Wood, president, said the growth of the placement department has been one of the outstanding features of the work and he noted that the investment in that department had increased from $74,434 to $90,627.

On March 31, 1937, J. F. Clunk, national director of unemployment, reported there were 42 employed across Canada with a total payroll of $28,042. During the fiscal year of 1937 there were 271 employed with wage benefits of $105,273.

In the field of prevention, Captain A. E. Baker, managing director, said the appointment of an ophthalmologist to the staff has made possible more extensive study of the causes of blindness. He noted the effort of the Dominion Government to combat trachoma among the Indians, particularly in British Columbia.

New Klondike Found In Montreal

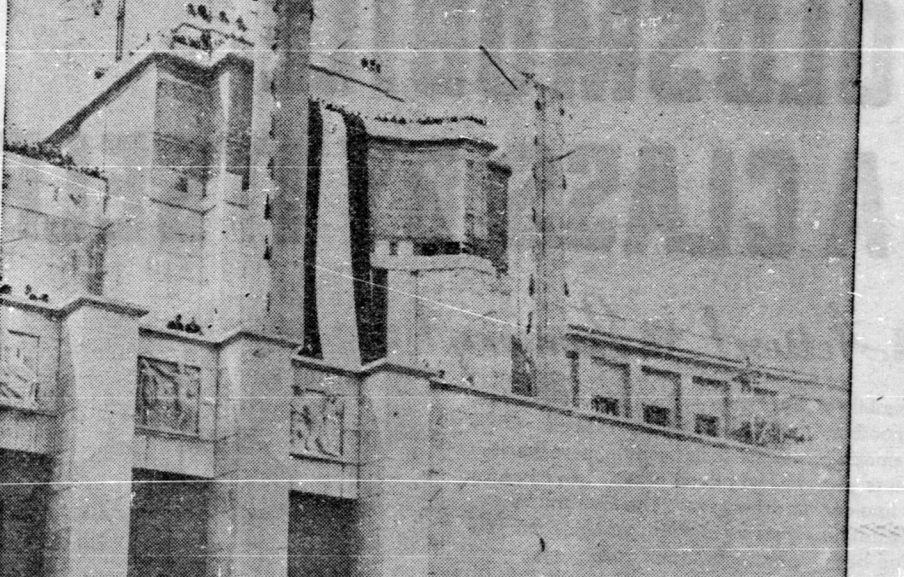

A rival to the mining fields of northern Canada appeared this morning when diggers such as those shown above began to mine in vacant lots at William and St. Martin streets. They dug up chunks of iron ore, looking exactly like coal but much heavier, which the miners said sometimes finds its way into coal bags in Montreal.

Movie-radio gossip

Executives at the Twentieth Century Fox studio are disappointed the public hasn't made more of a fuss over Simone Simon, so they are going to put her in a comedy and see if she goes over better. They are teaming her with Jack Haley, who made such a hit in "Wake Up and Live," in a fast-moving comedy called "Love at Work."

Motion picture studio officials always change the subject when any one asks if their stars really sing or if some singer substitutes for them. But radio listeners can remember their favorite voices under any circumstances. They insist that Buddy Clark of the Hit Parade did Jack Haley's singing, that Virginia Verrill sang for both Jean Harlow and Virginia Bruce in "The Great Barrier," and that it was Francis White who sang for Miss Bruce.

Donald Fairbanks, Jr. has decided that he likes the United States better after all. While he was in England, he realized his ambition to become a producer, and felt so grateful to the countrymen who backed him that he thought he would live there always. Coming back to Hollywood to make just one picture, "The Prisoner of Zenda," he found when it was finished and he was free to go back to England that he just couldn't bear to leave all his childhood friends.

Warner Brothers have arranged to borrow Miriam Hopkins for two pictures and it looks as if it would keep the entire studio busy for weeks flitting stories to which she would always. Miriam Hopkins "Episode" supported by Ian Hunter and Charles Winberg. After that, the Warner Brothers studio would like to have her in "Sisters," with Kay Francis.

ODDS AND ENDS — Joe Penner doesn't mention diets even once in "New Faces," which is being filmed by R-K-O. and furthermore he appears black face for the first time. — Rex Murray always dresses most conservatively, when he shows up for a broadcast, but around home he goes in for the dizziest, colored smoking jackets and lounging robes. — Motion picture producers are wildly enthusiastic over the intimate, caressing voice of Rosalind Greene who announces Mrs. Roosevelt's radio program, and since they have heard that she is young and extraordinarily beautiful they are rushing to get with contracts for the pictures.
