A Weekly Review Of National Affairs

(By "Spectator")

Ottawa, February 8th — The debate on the Speech from the Throne which occupies several days at the beginning of every session, while not immediately productive of legislation gives a panoramic picture of economic and social conditions existing in the country. It lays before the people the difficulties which confront the people, and suggestions are advanced for their amelioration. Not that all the suggestions are very profitable. They too often bear the mark of strong political partisanship. But the speeches cover a wide field and from the ore of oratory which fills the pages of Hansard may be extracted a good deal of gold of sound common sense. It is the work of our leaders to smelt the gold and coin it into legislation for the good of the people.

This session Mr. Bennett started the ball rolling by making a general attack on the Speech from the Throne and on the record of the government. He criticized the ambiguous language of the Speech. With vigor and an occasional flash of satire he attacked the National Defence department for not maintaining secrecy about its defence of the Pacific coast; on the economic side he pointed to the change from a favorable to an adverse balance of trade with the United States. He found fault with the "political" nature of the administration of the committee in charge of Western rehabilitation and relief. He thought an independent committee should be in charge of this work.

On the very important question of the revision of the constitution, Mr. Bennett thought the will of the people should be on amendments contemplated. He gave as an example the way constitutional changes are carried out in Australia. The government he said should have a policy for building up domestic markets to take up the recoil when in times of depression some foreign markets might be lost or decline in value. He charged that there was a great deal of electoral corruption rampant in Canada. On these and a number of other points he made out his brief against the government. He moved an amendment to the Speech from the Throne in which regret was expressed that the government have not taken or "contemplate taking efficient measures to deal with unfavorable economic conditions in Canada and that no legislative action is proposed to deal effectively with the prevailing uncertainty and insecurity resulting from the inadequate incomes of large numbers of our people."

According to custom the prime minister replied to the attack of the leader of the opposition. In his speech Mr. King mentioned the pride he felt as a Canadian in hearing at the Coronation the oath of the King which recognised Canada's nationhood. In regard to the amendment moved by the opposition leader Mr. King said figures speak more eloquently than any speech from the Throne. Drought lessened the amount of wheat available for export and this accounted for the decline in recent exports of which Mr. Bennett complained. The total trade of 1937 was the highest since 1929. The balance of trade last year was 316 million dollars. Revenues had expanded, employment had greatly increased and the number of people on relief was much lower than in any other year since the beginning of the depression. Relief camps have disappeared; over 26,000 young people have received training in various types of useful and profitable work. Large numbers of single unemployed have been placed on farms. Mr. King touched on differences of opinion which had arisen over the Shaw report on the marketing of agricultural products in Britain. The report has been in certain particulars revised. Referring to Mr. Bennett's expressed opinion that the discussion of constitutional amendments should be in the hands of a conference rather than a Royal Commission, Mr. King said the Royal commission had been appointed not to change the constitution but to examine facts on economic, financial responsibilities, etc. "When it comes to a question of change this parliament" he said "and the provincial legislatures would have their full say."

In regard to the much discussed question of the export of power, Mr. King said the matter would be fully discussed in parliament and the question of policy "further and fully considered here."

Mr. Blakmore as leader of the third largest group in the house the Social Crediters continued the debate. He felt that a grave year was before Canada. There had been too much "jockeying for political advantage" in the speeches so far. There should be a spirit of co-operation in this trying time. The propaganda which has been going on in Alberta he said was a "standing disgrace to the people of the Dominion." He pleaded for the cessation of shipments of metals used in arm ments to Japan. In relation to the record of the government he felt they had done good work under the financial structure but the structure was "fundamentally wrong." The country would never solve its problems until the financial structure was changed.

Mr. Woodsworth spoke at some length on the iniquity of shipping war materials to Japan and on the apparent inflexibility of the constitution in the face of economic suffering. He was followed by a number of other speakers of all shades of politics.

government contracts, but I should like to direct the attention of the house to the fact that there is no provision that fair prices shall be paid for farm products purchased by public institutions.

It is only reasonable to suggest, therefore, that agriculture stands alone in that its price structure is not constant and is determined by factors which the individual farmer cannot control and which are too often unsatisfactory and unfair. The policy of relying upon foreign markets as a solution for the problems of the farmers in my judgment can never be successful. With the exception of wheat and cheese, from 85 to 95 per cent of all Canadian farm products find a place in the domestic market and are consumed here. It seems to me the domestic market is the farmer's most valuable asset. The price realized in foreign markets for the small remaining surplus that must be exported determines to a large extent what our domestic price shall be. Unfortunately in foreign markets our products come into competition with goods produced in other countries where climatic and other conditions ensure a low cost of production. Therefore we cannot expect that a fair or satisfactory price structure in Canada can be maintained upon this basis.

Personally, Mr. Speaker — and I am speaking for myself alone — I see no reason why farm prices cannot be regulated in this country along the same lines as the prices are regulated in other industries that I have mentioned. It is already being done in the fluid milk field in a number of provinces and in the tobacco growing areas of both Ontario and Quebec, and has been successful in both cases. It is worthy of note that those engaged in the collection grading and resale of fluid milk and tobacco have not suffered in any way by the stabilization of prices to the grower. Different schemes, of course, will be necessary to stabilize prices in different lines of agricultural production, but I am confident that by experimenting and study such methods can be devised. It is needless to say that such schemes would be impotent unless the farmers' home market were safeguarded from exploitation through the influx of foreign goods. I repeat that the domestic market is the farmers' most valuable asset. It can remain such only if it is carefully preserved and if some reasonable and stable price structure for farm products is devised.

These are the reasons why I was disappointed with the policy of the new marketing division, as outlined by the Minister of Agriculture. I am not condemning these policies merely for the sake of fault-finding. I believe other policies could have been adopted which would have been much more satisfactory and worthwhile. May I say to the house that I am making these proposals simply because I believe they contain the only constructive remedy for the stagnation which exists in the agricultural industry of Canada at the present time.

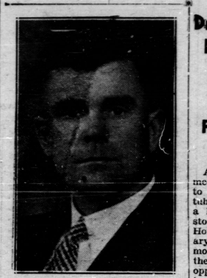
Live Stock Breeders To Take Action on T.B.



FRANK LAIDLAW

President of Haldimand - Norfolk Live Stock Improvement Association re-elected at a meeting of that body in Cayuga on Monday.

Dr. Moynihan Explained Federal Policy in Connection With Bang Disease and T.B.

Frank Laidlaw Re-Elected President

A definite request that some immediate action be taken with regard to Haldimand County becoming a tuberculosis free area resulted from a largely attended meeting of live stock breeders held in the Court House, Cayuga, on Mcnday, February 14th. On a standing vote a motion was passed to the effect that the meeting believed the time now opportune for such action to be taken, and a petition to the County Council requesting such action was largely signed.

The occasion was the annual meeting of the Haldimand-Norfolk Live Stock Improvement Association and the Court House was well filled by breeders and live stock owners. Interest and enthusiasm was very keen The President, Mr. Frank Laidlaw, pointed out that it was not the object of the Association to force this issue but rather was it the wish of the Officers and Directors to conduct an educational canpaign and then to take action if, as and when the live stock owners of the county desire such to be taken.

The principal speaker of the day was Dr. Wm. Moynihan, District Inspector of the Federal Health of Animals Branch at Toronto. The speaker confined his remarks largely to an explanation of the Federal policies dealing with Bang's disease and tuberculosis. Some considerable discussion took place and questions were asked and answered. It was pointed out that in so far as Bang's disease was concerned, the bulk of the infection came from contaminated feed. Dr. Moynihan also touched on calfhood vaccination as a means of controlling Bang's disease but pointed out that his Department had not yet recognized this means of control as being satisfactory.

Under the present policy no compensation is being paid for reactors to the blood test for Bang's disease. On the other hand, compensation was paid for reactors to the T. B. test under the restricted area plan, and under this plan compensation was only continued to pure bred breeders only but all cattle reacting were subject to compensation. Dr. Moynihan also stressed the modification in the Act which permitted a freer movement of feeder steers into restricted areas with the present plan being that steers could be imported under license without the necessary period of isolation at point of purchase, and furthermore, no isolation was necessary after the test was completed. The fact that market demands at present were for disease free animals has a direct bearing on this question. The United States market as well as the market in Great Britain demands tuberculosis free animals, and the sooner this disease is eliminated from our herds the sooner will we be able to enjoy the benefits from these markets, so stated the speaker.

Other business transacted at the meeting included the election of Officers and Directors with the following being elected:

President, Frank Laidlaw, R.R. 1, Jarvis, Vice President, Ross Martindale, R.R. 3, Caledonia; Secretary, Treasurer, A. Gordon Skinner, Cayuga; Directors, J. W. Richardson, R. R. 2, Caledonia, Thos Peart, R.R. 3, Caledonia, J. Watson Roulston, R.R. 5, Hagersville, Herbert Bartlett, R. R. 1, Dunnville, Hugh Bradford, R. R. 1, Dunnville, Henry Lyons, R.R. 9, Dunnville, Oscar Daley, R.R. 2, Delhi, Harry Parsons, R.R. 2, Cayuga, Thos. Cleaver, R.R. 4, Simcoe, W. R. Anderson, R.R. 1, Wilsonville.

At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, it was decided to foster a number of special live stock and poultry meetings during the month of March with further announcement regarding these meetings being made later.

Home and School Club Meeting

Members to Hold Card Party Friday Night

The Home and School Club of S. S. No. 6 Walpole, held a meeting on February 10th. The Pounders Day program featured a candle lighting ceremony, a tribute to Mrs. A. C. Courtice, who twenty-two years ago founded the association. Mrs. Earl Post presided over the ceremony and read the history of the organization.

Mrs. Wilfred Columbus and Mrs. Earl Stallwood read The Home and School Creed and The Parents Code of Ethics. Four candles, lit by Jack McCarthy, Mrs. Bert Fallis, Mrs. Gordon Saunders and Mrs. Chas. McBride, burned in memory of Mrs. Courtice, the National, Ontario and local Home and School Associations.

Mrs. Saunders read New Ways In the Little Red School, giving an understanding of the new course of study in the schools. The program included a duet with Mrs. Gerald at the piano, and two very interesting contests conducted by Mrs. Bert Fallis.

A card party for all members of the school section and their families will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Fallis Friday night, February 18th. The next meeting in the school will be held on March 10th at 8 P.M.

J.A.S. SPONSORING TWO WORTHWHILE PROJECTS IN 1938

At a meeting of the Directors of the Jarvis Agricultural Society, held in the office of the Secretary, on Thursday last it was decided to again hold a Field Crop Competition for Banner Oats. This contest is open to all paid members of the Society and Registered seed must be sown. The Society have purchased 125 bushels of registered seed of 2nd generation, coming from the farm of 1937 Oat King of Ontario, Mr. A. M. Stewart, of Alma Craig. Members desiring of entering this contest should get in touch with the Secretary, or any Director of the Society as soon as possible. It is expected at the present time that the entries will be numerous.

The other project that is being sponsored is reforestation, and it is the desire of every Director, that the membership as a whole should avail themselves of this opportunity to fill in waste land with trees. The Society will furnish all needed instructions in planting and caring for them while planting. Any member of the Society wishing to take up this project will never have a better opportunity to assist in reforesting this community then now. Get in touch with your nearest Director, or leave your order for trees with the Secretary.

The prize list revision committee have been at work on the complete revision of the Prize List for 1938 and have added much to any former list. As a purely agricultural fair the Jarvis Fair stands second to none in the Province. Every farmer should become a member and assist the Directors in every way in making the Society of still greater benefit to the community. This is the 85 th year of its existance. Join with others in making it the outstanding year since organization in 1853.

Council Meetings Open to Public

Some councils have the erroneous idea that they should do the corporation's business behind closed doors and that if persons appear before the council for some particular business, as soon as that item has been concluded the ratepayers should then leave. This is contrary to the provisions of The Municipal Act (R.S. O. 1937, chapter 266), section 211, which states that the ordinary meetings of every council shall be open and no person shall be excluded therefrom except for improper conduct. If it is desirable to have a special meeting it may be either closed or open according to section 214, but if the meeting is to be closed to the public it is necessary that a resolution in writing be passed stating that it is in the public interest to do so.

Well Known Couple Observe Fifty-Fifth Wedding Anniversary

Fifty-five years of married life is an event very few couples enjoy or even anticipate on this journey through life. Mr. and Mrs. R. A. McCarter, however, have reached the fifty-fifth anniversary of their marriage and are still young, quite able to enjoy the fruits of the earlier labors and hardships faced when they started life together fifty-five years ago.

The anniversary was on Tuesday and the occasion fittingly observed at a quiet dinner at 6 P.M. with members of their family present. Mr. and Mrs. McCarter have three daughters, Mrs. A. R. Coleman, of Brantford and Mrs. A. A. Miller, and Mrs. J. A. Duncan of Jarvis. This is the first time in many years that all members of the family have been able to be with them on their anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Coleman resided in Saskatchewan for many years and the distance made frequent trips impossible. Mr. McCarter is one of the best known men of this community and has served as a County Constable under four Soverigns. According to Mr. McCarter he is really going to have a celebration on the occasion of their diamond wedding which will occur in 1943.

R. S. Colter of Cayuga Municipal Board Head

Succeeds Hon. Eric Cross To Important Government Post

Other Appointments Made

Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn officially announced on Monday, following a meeting of the Cabinet Council, the appointment of R. S. Colter, K.C., ex-M.L.A. to the chairmanship of the Ontario Municipal Board.

The announcement was not received with widespread surprise in this district, in view of the persistent rumors that the Government would in some way recognize the action of Mr. Colter in making way for the election of Hon. Eric Cross in the last Provincial election. Although more than a year ago it was rumored that Mr. Colter would resign his seat to accept a County Judgeship, the rumor faded as time went on and of late his name has been connected with the Municipal Board Post. Mr Colter who was the member for Haldimand-Norfolk in the previous Legislature, will succeed Hon. Eric W. Cross, Minister of Welfare and Municipal Affairs, representing Haldimand-Norfolk. The appointment is one of the highest and most remunerative in the gift of the Government.

Other appointments announced on Monday include: John Harold, of Paris, to the chairmanship of the Workmen's Compensation Board and R. B. Whitehead of the Industry and Labor Board to the Chairmanship of the Ontario Securities Commission.

Rev. H. L. Roberts Begins Seventh Term

Assumes Control Service Station

Fred Cresswell New Proprietor of Imperial Station

Early this week arrangements were completed whereby Fred W. Cresswell, purchased the Service Station on the South-West corner of Main and Talbot, which was formerly owned and operated by George Parkinson.

It is understood Mr. Parkinson decided to sell the business and building which he erected in 1936, because of ill health.

Although Mr. Cresswell has been carrying on the business for the past few weeks, the formal transaction were only completed this week It is his intention to handle the same products as previously sold at this station, and to offer the public a complete service.

A Letter to the Editor

Dear Sir:

It was in the year 1838, I understand, that Lieutenant-Governor Sir Cudmore Hill first came into the district which is now Haldimand County, commencing his work as a missionary of the Anglican Communion at York, and working out from there up and down the banks of the Grand River, and across the country side.

Far and wide he went, in season and out of season, in weather fair and foul, preaching the Gospel and administering the Sacraments, the faithful pastor of a far-scattered flock. For many years he labored, gradually, as age crept on and other clergy came in, restricting the field of his labors until at last he died, and his body was buried in the old country churchyard at York, hard by the Church of Saint John, of which congregation he had been rector for so long a time.

It is to be hoped that this year, the Centenary of the Coming of Hill to Haldimand, appropriate Celebrations may be held; and that a much more complete history of his labours and the foundation of the Church of England in these parts may be obtained.

There is much of the earlier history of our land which remains unwritten, although there is a large body of oral tradition, stories and history and anecdotes which have been handed down from our fathers and our grandfathers. Some of your readers know something of this early history, and I would be grateful to any who would write me of any such especially concerning this pioneer missionary and the Church in this locality. There must be very much of interest stored away, and I will appreciate anything of interest which is sent me (no matter how unimportant it may seem) which will increase our knowledge of the past hundred years, especially concerning the Reverend Bold Cudmore Hill and the coming of the Church to Haldimand.

Besides your own readers, there are doubtless Editors of other newspapers who will be glad to co-operate and who are interested in our own land's early history, or whose readers may be interested and able to give some light on the past hundred years.
