but he did get the fun of writing them, although the reading he did in the trenches preparing the first weakened his eyesight and forced him to wear glasses.

He is married to the former Yvonne Desaulniers, whom he met while he was house surgeon at an Ottawa hospital in 1906, has three sons, and "a boy of two," as he refers to his grandson.

His family is grown up. All are married, and none of them live in Ottawa. James, 30, lives in Parls, where he is assistant trade commissioner for Canada; Paul, a year his Hon. Dr. R. J. x-Temporary leader. In the 71 years since Confed-In the 71 years since confederation, Conservative premiers have been in power in nine ministries of the 16, and twice Conservatives headed Union Governments, during the war and immediately after. Concentratives have held power for and immediately after. Conservatives have held power for approximately 41 years, if the Union regimes be included. Every permanent leader of the Conservative party has had a turn as premier, Thus, Dr. Manion would be establishing a precedent if he, too, did not eventually become head of the Canadian government.

Because he is so often invited out of town as a speaker at various public functions, Dr. and Mrs. Manion spend much of their time away from their home in Ottawa.

They usually travel by automobile, which the doctor drives at as furious a pace as the law will allow. So tar he has never had an accident—"touch wood," he says—in the 29 or 30 years he has been driving.

When he started to practice in Fort William he used a horse and buggy, but about 1908 he bought a "horseless carriage," and has driven one ever since. The first vehicle he describes as a "heck of a looking thing."

He smokes as sparingly as he eats, seldom goes to the movies, preferring to stay home with books on biography, history, economics or political economy, which he varies now and then by reading various biographies vof Abraham Lincoln.

His wife's chief criticism of him is that he doesn't play as much as he should. But the necessity for exercise, he maintains, does not exist for one who follows his sparton rules of diet. What exercise he does get he takes in infrequent walks, "I don't,' he said, without batting an eye, "want to give away all my secrets."

C anada's unique inland sea voyage across the Great Lakes is a delightful holiday outing in addition to being a pleasant and interesting alternate route on a cross-Canada trip.

More people every year are turning to the Canadian Pacific Great Lakes Steamship cruises for a holiday that possesses attractions out of the ordinary. The 542-mile trip is along a magnificent lake and river shoreline, and its sometimes completely out of sight of land. Leaving Port McNicoll, the beat threads its way overe a historic Indiam water route through beautiful Georgian Bay; strikes out into Lake Huron, second largest of the Great Lakes, the international boundary; passes Sault Ste.
