Synopsis

Slim Loyale is paroled from prison after serving 18 months for a crime he did not commit. He returns to his Circle L ranch to find his father dead and sinister forces at work, trying to make him violate his parole so that he can again be railroaded to prison.

The Brockwells and their gang are plotting to gain possession of Circle L ranch and the property of Mona Hall, a neighbor and life-long rriend of Slim Loyale. Slim discovers that Sheriff Starbuck has joined the plot against him. With the help of Dakota Blue and his cowboys, Slim Loyale defies the land-grabbers to do their worst.

He knew that there had been a might secretly despise him.

Well, Slim decided savagely, he'd certainly find out if Mona was deep, elemental bond between his father and himself. But he had been content merely to be back in the sunshine of his father's presence and to enjoy and value it with a fervency he could not, or would not analyze. As for Mona, she quieted him, made him feel that the world was complete and good. And he had been content

Leo Brockwell's ears were evidently keen, for he turned in his chair. "That's right, Loyale," he sneered. "Tell her everythin. Tell her how it feels to be a convict with a number on yore back. Tell her how it feels to walk lock-step in a line of other crooks. Tell in a line of other crooks. Tell

A red haze seemed to gather in room. Mona, her race gone white, caught at his arm, but he pulled away from her. Beside Leo Brockwell's chair Slim halted, rocking slightly on his toes. "Yuh dirty, cowardly whelp!" he rasped

Then he recalled that she had especially asked him over that night and he had promised. So he straightened his shoulders, set his jaw and went up to the door, knocking firmly.

It was Mona herself who opened the door. And when the warmth of her welcoming smile fell upon Slim, he was glad he away. He caught her outstretched hands and squeezed them. "Like old time, huh, Mona?" he drawled better way of insinuating them into a diet than in desserts. These cus-

Slim nodded. "If there's an argument, it'll be him who starts it, not me." (due to colds)

In the living room, Leo Brock-well and Abe Fornachon, Mona's well and Abe Fornachon, Mona's foreman, were seated at the centre table arguing mildly over some tally sheets. Evidently Mona had said nothing to young Brockwell about Slim coming to visit her. At sight of Slim, Leo came to his feet rather quickly, a half-formed snarl twisting his dark features, still swollen and bruised from the weight of Dakota Blue's fist. Mona spoke quickly.
