Thrilling True Story Feature Coming To The Gem Theatre Port Dover

The furore that the Hauptmann trial created was merely a ripple compared with the amazement caused throughout the entire world when it was learned that John Lee, convicted slayer of his aged mistress, had been three times placed upon the scaffold and that each time the trap had refused to work. The entire story of Lee's life, into which was woven a tale of undying love and a woman's noble sacrifice is utilized in the 100% talking feature "The Man They Could Not Hang" coming to the Gem Theatre, Port Dover, for two days commencing next Friday, September 9th with matinee on Saturday at 1:15 P.M.

A special feature of this show is the atmospheric Prologue introduced by the well known stage and screen actor (in person) W. Leonard Howe. A friend of Lee's who recently visited with him the scene of the crime during his appearance displays many of the shots of places and people concerned, he took. This show has played the world over at advanced prices, but will here, by special arrangement, be presented at our usual admission.

A WEEKLY REVIEW OF NATIONAL AFFAIRS

the market. When speaking before the international convention of agricultural economists at St. Anne de Bellevue, the secretary of agriculture in the United States government said that the United States would work in a cooperative spirit with the Canadian trade in marketing wheat. It is believed here that this means in effect that there will be no dumping. The United States government will finance its bonus plan through money appropriated by act of congress for customs receipts. This act provides that thirty per cent of these receipts may be set aside for the purchase of agricultural surpluses from regular markets. With the carryover of about 200 million bushels of wheat the United States will have a total surplus of about 400 million bushels this year's crop of wheat and spring wheat has been about 900 million bushels and the domestic consumption is about 700 million bushels.

St. Lawrence Waterway
In a letter written by Prime Minister Mackenzie King to Premier Hepburn of Ontario, Mr. King has invited the province of Ontario to join in a joint technical study and discussion of the St. Lawrence seaway project with federal officials. The provinces would not obligate either the province or dominion in any way. They would be simply for the guidance of the governments. The proposals of the United States, Mr. King stated, "suggest a plan for outstanding phases of the development of the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes system which are of interest to both Canada and the United States." The questions include the development of the international section of the St. Lawrence, the improvement of the scenic beauties of Niagara, with increased use of its power resources, the diversion of water from the Hudson Bay watershed into Lake Superior with recognition of this additional water could be used by Canada for power purposes, the interchange of power and the permanent solution of the Chicago drainage canal question. In the cost of work on the international section of the St. Lawrence Canal will be credited with $125,000,000 which Canada has spent on the Welland Canal. In a letter to Mr. King, Mr. Hepburn reiterated his opposition to the project. The Province of Ontario had, he said, surplus power on its hands, and it would be many years before it could utilize the million horsepower which would be Canada's one half share of the power to be generated at the international section. The main feature of the proposed plan is denouncing the section of the St. Lawrence east of Lake Ontario and that construction of dams which would generate two million horsepower of electric energy.

At the opening of the Thousand Islands bridge President Roosevelt strongly advocated the construction of the seaway. In a letter to Mr. King, Mr. Hepburn reiterated his opposition to the project. The Province of Ontario had, he said, surplus power on its hands, and it would be many years before it could utilize the million horsepower which would be Canada's one half share of the power to be generated at the international section. The main feature of the proposed plan is denouncing the section of the St. Lawrence east of Lake Ontario and that construction of dams which would generate two million horsepower of electric energy.

TRANSPORT CRACKS OFF HYDRO POLE
Three Tons of Goods Scattered in Ditch and Field. Driver Unhurt

A single unit truck belonging to the Leonard Transport of Hamilton took the ditch a half mile west of here about eight o'clock Tuesday night, crashing into a utility pole and breaking it off cleanly six feet from the ground. The truck turned over on its side and the cargo of mixed freight it was carrying.

W. Reid of Hamilton, driver of the truck, claimed he was crowded off the road by a car he was meeting but was unable to give a description of the car. The truck travelled along the ditch for twenty feet before hitting the pole, which was a long, thin, and brittle. The driver, who was not hurt, escaped by jumping out of the cab in time to avoid being crushed by the falling truck.

The truck was a 1937 model, and was carrying a load of mixed freight, including a large quantity of hardware. The driver, who was not hurt, escaped by jumping out of the cab in time to avoid being crushed by the falling truck.

Hydro crews were sent to replace the pole and provide light for residents living west of the damaged pole.

article appeared in the last issue of The Pilot. Mould, Manitoba: A farmer not far west of us reports that the grasshoppers are so big they prevented him from getting the stock in the field, and that a big grasshopper would jump on one side of it and devour it. After a few dozen of these he was forced to shoot the central grasshopper and chase them into the summer house where they finished stock.

We think that particular farmer should have sought a more permanent cure of the curse, such as dumping Lake Umbagog on them and drowning the whole works.
