

NEWS PARADE ...

The Second Great War broke a record in its fifteenth week — for excitement. Two events, one of unexcelled dramatic interest, the other world-shaking in importance, held the spellbound attention of newspaper readers, radio hounds, and all countries. We refer to the "suicide" of the Graf Spee, the expulsion of Italian troops from the League of Nations.

What a week! The Italian fleet altering her course, the Gipsy struck her? Was it a gesture of bravado, or was she up in order that the secrets of her construction might not fall into enemy hands? With regard to the action taken at Geneva, many thinking people felt regret and annoyance that the League had not previously done something to stop the aggression of Hitler, the rape of Albania by Mussolini. The League had never even discussed the disappearance of Austria, Czechoslovakia or Poland (see map). Looking ahead, too, world wondered whether Russian expansion would not throw U.S.S.R. and Germany closer together.

Italian Foreign Minister Count Ciano's speech to the fascist Chamber embodied the first clear and comprehensive statement of Italian policy since the beginning of the war. He asserted, first of all, that the Rome-Berlin Axis remains strong as ever despite Italy's neutrality. Extenuating Hitler's pact with Stalin, he declared that Italy knew of the accord in advance. Further, he said, Italy formed the Reich last May, that swing to the effects of the campaigns in Ethiopia and Spain, she would not be prepared to engage in warfare for three years. Such a statement is added to end for moment any hope that Italy will be induced to come in on the side. (Same week: Virginia, one of Mussolini's mouthpieces, in a radio address declared that Italy must have sea outlets Gibraltar, the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus.)

During the week U.S. Ambassador Kennedy returned to Washington from his post at London. In a report on the war by word-mouth to his chief, he emphatically urged the States to stay out of the conflict at all costs. "This is our fight," he said.

At home in Canada, the final draft of the momentous Empire air training plan was completed. Highlights: estimated cost of plan for three years, $400,000,000, with Canada's bare, $100,000,000; required establishment in Canada of 67 schools of all types; nearly 40,000 men required to carry out plan exclusive of students; about 60 new air fields to be constructed and 20 existing fields enlarged; United Kingdom to supply most of aircraft, including engines and spares, as her share in cost; Canada, Australia and New Zealand to contribute to total cost in proportion to size of population; training of these countries; excising cost of aircraft supplied by Britain; Canada to bear cost of initial and elementary training in Canada and about four-fifths of remaining costs of program; program to be administered by Dominion Government, with supervisory board composed of representatives from four countries involved; great majority of pupils will be Canadians; pilot training to take about 26 weeks, many thousands of pilots to be turned out each year.

The War at the end of 1939 was not one war, but three: between the Allies and Germany; between Russia and Finland; between Japan and China — Western, Eastern, Far Eastern.

Will Get View Of Six Planets

Astronomer Says Unique Grouping In February Display Is Seen Only Every Few Thousand Years

The people of today will be privileged to witness something which neither their children nor their great-grandchildren will see — a grouping of six planets in the western sky next February. Dr. Frank S. Hogg, professor of astronomy at the David Dunlop Observatory, Toronto, told the Royal Canadian Institute in an address last week.

"It's only every few thousand years that you find as many as six planets in the same region of the skies," he said. "Along with earth, there will appear in the western sky during the latter days of February the planets Mercury, Jupiter, Venus, Saturn, Mars and Uranus."

Will Regulate Hog Industry

Ottawa Acts to Prevent Scandals Like in Last Year

Blanket regulation of Canada's hog industry — designed to guard against any repetition of the bacon scandals of the last year — is to be an immediate result of the arrangement now concluded with the British Government for large-scale purchases of Canadian bacon last week. It is a story in the Windsor Daily Star.

To Supervise Industry A bacon control board is being set up by the federal government to supervise all phases of the nation's hog industry. It will regulate not only the price to be paid to the primary producer, but also the operations of the packing plants. The board will be rigidly specified by the federal bacon authority.

Makes Tomatoes

O. A. C. Lecturer Plans to Develop New Types — Takes Seven Generations to Fix the Variety

C. E. Mighton, of Guelph, is a young plant wizard who has set himself to perform a real feat of horticulture — two of them, in fact. He has determined to be the Burbank of the tomato.

This young lecturer at the Ontario College of Agriculture promises to reach into his scientific hat and pull out a bigger, redder, juicier tomato than any now grown in Canada, and present it to the catnip preservers and tomato juicers of Western Ontario.

"Small, Round, Firm," Wanted He promises to reach into another hat and pull out a little, firm round tomato, more prolific than any grown in Canada, and to present it to eastern Ontario canners who have been looking for a tomato that won't go squishy in the can.

"There'll be no hocus-pocus or 'abracadabra' about it," said Mighton, in a recent address at Toronto. "We are working along strictly scientific lines, and I think we are meeting success."

Strictly Scientific "Once you have found the characteristics you want, it takes from six to nine generations to fix them," he said. "At O.A.C. we grow two generations a year, one outside and one in a hothouse, so it will take three to five years to fix our variety or we find it."

SUPPORTING THE TOWN BAND Interesting is the result, the passing of a by-law at Fort Erie to spend a quarter of a mill annually for the town band and that is not a big price to pay for band concerts. It is possible Fort Erie may set a fashion elsewhere in the province. — Niagara Falls Review.

PRESERVE SPIRIT OF DEMOCRACY If there is to be democracy after the war is over, democracy must not be abandoned while the war is on. The spirit of democracy must be respected, not suppressed, within the democracies themselves. The thing for which the war is fought abroad must not be lost at home. — Toronto Star.

WARNINGS UNHEEDED Another case of poisoning by mosquito gas has been reported. It is regrettable that, in spite of all the warnings that have been published for years regarding the danger of this deadly gas, fatalities still occur to those who thoughtlessly tinker with their motor cars in closed garages while the engine is running. — Bradford Express.

Nobleman Gave "Sandwiches" Name

The origin of sandwiches is interesting. In the reign of King George III there lived a famous nobleman who was very fond of gambling. He passed whole days at the card table and would not leave his game even for a meal. Naturally he found playing on an empty stomach uncomfortable work, and so devised a plan by which he might eat with as little trouble as possible.

He ordered his servant to cut two thin slices of bread and place meat between. The meal proved satisfying.

The famous nobleman was the Earl of Sandwich, and so popular did his slices of bread and meat become that they were called by his name.

Juicy steaks and roasts of buffalo meat about 35 cents a pound are available all over Canada now.
