Haldimand M.P. Cites Need of Stability In Price of Farm Products

In addressing the House of Commons last week, Mr. Mark Senn, M.P. for the County of Haldimand, expressed the belief that if the government could be assured of prices which were commensurate with the cost of efficient production, our unemployment problem would gradually disappear.

Mr. Senn's remarks dealt largely with the problem of the farmer and he made mention of the fact that in the speech from the Throne much attention had been paid to the problem of unemployment, while little had been said of the problems facing agriculture.
