

King George VI and Queen Elizabeth Pay Visit to South Africa House

A huge throng of hundreds of thousands of Canadians is that of Her Majesty, the Queen, seen here with the King as they paid a visit to South Africa House in London. On the same round of visits they also stopped at New Zealand House and Canada House. Both the King and Queen have been active in taking a personal interest in the empire's war measures since the outbreak of hostilities.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q—How can I mix a good thin tonic?
 A—Mix ½ pint alcohol, 2 oz. spirits of camphor, 2 oz. spirits of ammonia, 5 oz. sea salt. Add enough boiling water to make 1 quart. Put into a bottle and shake until the salt is dissolved. Always shake well before using. It gives a fine tonic after the bath. It gives a fine tonic in banishing fatigue.
 Q—How can I clear water that has a milky appearance?
 A—It can be quickly cleared by dissolving a small piece of rock alum in a pint of boiling water and using this much to a tub of water.
 Q—How can I prevent the inside of the silver-plating of lids of my tin cans from turning green?
 A—Coat them with a thin layer of paraffin.
 Q—How can I prepare a soup that isn't too greasy?
 A—If a large lettuce leaf is put into the soup, it will insure a greasy soup. Put in the leaf when about ready to be taken from the stove, and remove it before you serve. You will find that nearly all the excess grease will collect on the lettuce leaves and you can discard them.
 A—Mix lard with sifted white flour to the proper consistency.

"WORTH COMING DOWN FOR!"

Talk about a grand, cool smoke! You can't beat fragrant Dixie Plug—and you cut each pipeful fresh when you want it.

One of the Most Valuable Resources—"The forestry wealth of Canada ranks among the most valuable of our natural resources," Mr. Maclean King said. "The effective conservation of this forest wealth and the only youth movement program and the youth movement program, the Junior League of the Nazi party, and entirely political and militaristic in character."

All Can Contribute—"Clearly, it is our duty to see that our forest resources are not depleted, or carelessly destroyed by fire, and that depleted areas are replanted." The safeguarding of forest resources, adequate the country's needs, is the service towards which all can contribute.

SCOUTING Patriotic Duty

Five hundred boys trained under him in scouting was the number in the Scoutmaster C. F. Kempton, of the 1st Moose C.F., Sask. Boy Scout Troop, at a farewell banquet prior to his departure from the city. His accomplishments included the building and paying for all materials of a Scout Troop headquarters by the boys and leaders and members of the Scoutmaster's Committee and Auxiliary, and his operation of a Scout Troop for many years of a Christmas operation that carried Christmas happiness to many prairie kids.

Sunday School Lesson

LESSON VIII
 WARNING AND PROMISES
 Matthew 7
 Printed Text, Matt. 7:1-14
 Golden Text.—As ye would that men should do to you, do ye also them likewise, Luke 6:31.
 THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING
 Time.—Spring, A.D. 27.
 Place.—On a mountain, the exact location of which is not known. A Judge not, that ye be not judged. The strict meaning of the word "judge" is to distinguish. The Lord forbids any of his subjects making final judgment about any human being. 2. For whosoever will be a judge, he shall be judged; and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you. On the day of judgment those critics who have selected to judge themselves will be found to be full of sins and abominations which at last receive their just punishment.

3. And why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye? 4. Or how wilt thou say to thy brother, Let me cast out the mote out of thine eye; and thou shalt thou see thy brother's eye? 5. Thou hypocrite, cast first the beam out of thine own eye; and thou shalt see clearly to cast out the mote out of thy brother's eye. By "beam" here is meant a beam of wood used in building up the roof of a house; a "mote" is a speck of dust. We are all prone to suspect in the conduct of others precisely those faults of which we are frequently guilty ourselves.

6. Give not that which is holy to the dogs, neither cast your pearls before swine, lest they trample them under their feet, and turn and rend you. Here is a caution against the opposite extreme to what Christ has just been rebuking. We must not judge others, but we must not ourselves be so judged. Persons who want to be in the front rank of the kingdom of heaven must be willing to be judged by others. 7. Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened to you: for every one that asketh receiveth, and he that seeketh findeth, and to him that knocketh it shall be opened. For a parallel passage see Luke 11:9-13. Our Lord does not make any promise to us, as we are asking him to open his treasure to us. He is not a momentary with a treasury which he is opening about the Lord Christ without any casting before them the holy things of our own experiences.

8. Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened to you: for every one that asketh receiveth, and he that seeketh findeth, and to him that knocketh it shall be opened. For a parallel passage see Luke 11:9-13. Our Lord does not make any promise to us, as we are asking him to open his treasure to us. He is not a momentary with a treasury which he is opening about the Lord Christ without any casting before them the holy things of our own experiences.

RADIO NOTES AND NEWS

By MADGE ARCHER
 The PUBLIC DICTATES
 Canadians and Americans are the most radio-spoiled people in the world. They are like precocious children who cry for what they want, and again when they cannot get what they want. No thought is given to the hundreds of millions spent every year on their entertainments and the catering to their wishes. For in America it is the public that dictates the type of programs that are broadcast. Where else in the world can 150,000,000 people depend upon a consistent season of complete operatic broadcasts? For this is what we get from the Metropolitan each Saturday afternoon during the winter months. Through these broadcasts we are becoming familiar with the whole season of complete operatic broadcasts. These broadcasts are becoming familiar with the whole season of complete operatic broadcasts. How To Fatten Up Your Turkeys

Start a Month Before Selling Them—Birds Thrive Best in Open

Turkeys thrive best in the open, even during the fattening period, and the fattening period should start a month before the yellowed feathers on the wings should be sold them. Fatness should be commenced gradually with mashes in the morning and at noon, and whole grain in the evening. When turkeys are shut up in pens they very often get out of their feed and frequently die.

Recommended Mash
 A recommended mash for turkeys is made up of equal parts of ground oats, barley meal, cornmeal and wheat bran. Buckwheat may take the place of barley. Mix thoroughly and moisten the mash with water or skim milk about two hours before feeding. Enough liquid should be used to make the feed crumbly and not sticky or sloppy. The mash should be given in thoroughly cleaned "T" shaped troughs and to more feed should be served than the turkeys can clean up. The same mash may be used for the morning and noon feeds. Whole corn is the best grain for fattening but it should not be fed heavily if the weather is warm. Along with regular feeds, the turkeys should have plenty of fresh water and grit.

How To Select The Best Hens

How can the best laying hens be selected in culling? This question was asked of C. E. Robbe, of the Missouri College of Agriculture recently. He answers, as follows:
 At this season of the year, early-molting eggs will be observed as having much yellow color in their beaks and shanks. The amount of yellow-shank color varies with the length of time these individuals have been on a ration. The deepest colorings denote the longest vacations, and usually the poorest-producing hens.

Good, profitable hens present quite a contrasting appearance at this time of the year. These individuals have a rugged, rough appearance. Their feathers are thick and matted to be brittle. Frequently the main tail and wing feathers have been worn or broken off. The tail feathers of the comb are frequently missing, giving a bald appearance, and the beak and shanks of birds of yellow-shank varieties are practically devoid of any yellow color. They appear bleached, because these individuals have been producing eggs at a rate which resulted in the placing of all the yellow pigment, obtained from their food, in egg yolks rather than in storing it under the skin on visible body surfaces. Handling and examination of these individuals will also reveal the desirable characteristics of width and depth of body, bright, clear eyes, and heads which have a clean-out appearance and with beaks which are short, slightly curved, and strong.

Royal Estates Become Farms

Measures approved by The King for increasing production of food on his private estates have been announced by the British Ministry of Agriculture.
 Early this year, in response to the Government's appeal for increased domestic food production, 50 acres of grassland were put under plough at Balmoral, but the extent has not yet been decided. Permission has been given for 80 acres of grassland at Norfolk Farm Windsor Park to be ploughed. The Royal gardens of all The King's estates will plant a considerable area in vegetables.

What Science is Doing

HELPS TRANSPLANT ORGANS
 It has now been found that the drug heparin by keeping blood fluid and preventing clots, has made possible an operation involving the cutting away of a section of artery, and substituting in the gap a section of vein—an operation which previously had been dangerous because of blood clots.
 Moreover, the effectiveness of the substance now established "the transplanted possibility" of transplanting organs from one part of an animal's body to another for physiological study.

IMPROVES ADDISON'S

Striking evidence that a new synthetic hormone causes remarkable improvement in persons having Addison's Disease, a disorder of the adrenal gland, usually fatal, is reported.
 Hope of finding an effective treatment for the adrenal insufficiency was aroused when research workers isolated crystalline substances from the adrenal gland and then, about two years ago, made the synthetic product. It has the chemical name "esters of desoxy corticosterone."

No Need to RUB AND SCRUB

USE a solution of Gillette's Pure Flake Lye to take the grease off pots and pans. Use it to keep clogged drains running freely. It cuts through heavy dirt of any kind... just washes it away!
 "Never dissolve lye in hot water. The action of the lye itself heats the water."
 "Come, come, my man. You have been looking around for a long time without buying. What do you want?"
 "Gee, I want another floor-walker," said the man addressed. "I'm the owner."

Canadian National Railway Revenues

The gross revenues of the all-Canadian National Railway System for the 10-day period ending October 31, 1939, were $6,852,076 as compared with $6,322,880 for the corresponding period of 1938, an increase of $529,195 or 8.66%.

Modern Etiquette

BY ROBERTA LEE
 1.—When a young man meets a girl who lives in another city, and would like to further the acquaintance by correspondence, may he ask her to write to him?
 2.—When a hostess asks a guest to take another helping of some dish, isn't it all right to say, "I couldn't possibly eat another bite"?
 3.—Isn't it poor taste to speak frequently of the cost of various things, clothes, food, etc.?
 4.—When a woman invites another woman for luncheon in a quiet place, who should give the order?
 5.—Isn't it nice for a person engaged in any kind of sport or other work to praise his opponent when the latter makes an exceptionally good play?
 6.—Is a woman's second wedding as elaborate as her first?
 Answers
 1.—Yes, if he is concealed enough to think she will embrace such a wonderful opportunity. Otherwise, he can tell her that he would like to write to her, and if she possesses the least intuition he can tell whether or not she seems pleased with the idea.
 2.—Merely say, "No, thank you."
 Such expressions as "I am already too full," or "I feel as though I never would want to eat again," are not good form.
 3.—Yes; it is very poor taste to do so.
 4.—The guest should give her order to her hostess and the latter gives both orders to the waiter. This same rule applies when a girl is dining with a man.
 5.—Yes. A good sportswoman will be quick to do so, and it is a sure way to become popular.
 6.—No. The specific arrangements vary according to the age of the bride and the attitude of family and friends toward the second marriage.

Have You Heard

Hilfer died, and went below. Satan answered his knock, told him to wait a minute, went away and returned with a box of matches and a bundle of firewood.
 He gave both to Hilfer, with the remark: "Listen, Adolf, there's a link to what even we can stand. Take these and start a Hell of your own."
 Teacher: "What makes you so late this morning?"
 Pupil: "You see, sir, there was a demon in our family." Teacher: "Well? Pupil: "And the alarm was set for eight."
 A recruit wearing size 14 shoes enlisted in the army. One day the officer missed him.
 "Officer: "Has anyone seen that recruit?"
 Voice from Rear: "Yes, sir, he has gone to the cross-roads to turn around."
 Then there was the atlas publisher who pulled a horse and waited for it to come true.
 A theatre in an American town had a burglar alarm fitted in the box office. You just had to press a pedal on the floor, and a bell rang at police headquarters.
 Two days after it was installed, a gangster poked his gun through the box office window, and demanded the cash. The girl pressed her foot on the pedal, stalled a bit, then began to hand over the money.
 At this point the phone rang. The gangster grabbed the receiver.
 "What is it?" he asked.
 "This is the police station, damn you," said an angry voice. "Say, do you know you've got your foot on the pedal and we can't hear ourselves talk because of that blooming alarm bell!"
 "Come, come, my man. You have been looking around for a long time without buying. What do you want?"
 "Gee, I want another floor-walker," said the man addressed. "I'm the owner."

Pioneer Deaths Occurred Early

Our First Settlers Didn't Live To A Riped Old Age—Theory About Their Healthful Diet Exploded
 Popular belief that pioneer settlers of this country lived to a ripe old age in spite of the meagre diet on which they subsisted has been exploded by Dr. J. J. Talman, Ph.D., assistant librarian at the University of Western Ontario.
 Few Reached 90
 "Most deaths in pioneer days were recorded in the age of one year or less and the next cycle of high mortality came at the age of 18, very few reached the age of 60," he declares.
 Opinions given by the Western by the greatest living authority on historical and international affairs. The study of the life of the pioneer is not a study of the narrow way, but a study of the broad road that leads to the future. Marriages In September Up 68 1/2 Per Cent

First Month of War in Canada Shewed Cupid A Busy Man
 Cupid and his bow and arrow did a land office business during the first month of the war, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics disclosed at Ottawa.
 The first month of war quite evidently plunged many Canadian young people into the sea of matrimony in advance of their original intentions, said the bureau. "During September the number of marriages throughout Canada was 7,966 which was 68 1/2 per cent more than the September total of a year ago."
 Births registered in 66 cities and towns having populations of 10,000 or more numbered 7,455 in September. Deaths were 3,838. In September, 1938, births were 7,226, deaths 4,016 and marriages 4,729.
