LESSON XII MICAH: A MESSENGER OF

SOCIAL JUSTICE Micah 3:1-12; 6:6-8 Golden Text - What doth Jehovah require of thee, but to do justly, and to love kindness, and to walk humbly with thy God? Mic.

THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING Time - Micah prophesied from about 735 to 715 B.C. Micah, the sixth of the twelve minor prophets, was a native of the country, born about twenty miles southwest of Jerusalem. He was pre-eminently a prophet of the or and a friend of the oppressed. Jerusalem in his time had become hotbed of actions and intrigue. The custodians of the law abused their power; nobles fleeced the poor; priests taught for hire. Commercialism and materialism were supplanting the ethical and the spiritual. Then Micah appeared, a prophet of the people.

Sins of the Rulers And I said, Hear, I pray you, ye heads of Jacob, and rulers of the house of Israel: is it not for you to know justice? 2. Ye who hate the good, and love the evil; who pluck off their skin from off them, and their flesh from off their bones; 3. whe also eat the flesh of my peom and break their bones, al chop them in pieces, as for the pot, and as flesh within the caldron. The people are likened to sheep who are devoured by the shepherds who should protect them. People are being similarly oppresday, in Germany for instance.

There are hundreds of legends about the rose in all lands where the nightingale flying towards the perfume thrust one of the thorns against its breast, and spilt its blood over the petals. Ever since the rose has been red.

Another story says that the red rose was originally white, but it blushed with joy when Eve kissed

UNWELCOME NEUTRALITY: A story has been going the round, that it would be cheaper for Brit-ain and France to have Italy an enin this war than an ally be marched to the front, so it is said, and spied upon at home. But to have Italy neither an ally per an enemy! This strategy of the Axis powers is presenting Britain and France with a difficult prob-lem to solve. Had Italy come into he war on the side of Hitler, then france could have attacked vulne northern Italy first thing, taken over its industries, and gon Germany from the south. So fa the French army is confined to the ily-fortified western front, has no excuse to attack Italy. Britain also is unable to go after Italian $450,000,000 WORTH:

ole in the Second Great War may not become important by virtue of our sending an expeditionary force our sending an expeditionary force (such may yet be found next to useless) but because we are able to supply in limitless quantities, foodstuffs, raw metal, planes, small arms, tractors . . . Almost half a billion dollars in gold has been deposited with Canada by European financiers which may go to pay for the above-mentioned purchases here or across the border in the United States. We are to be a reservoir for supplies, not men.

AMERICAN OPINION: A survey made by "Fortune" magazine just before the war broke out showed that the majority of Americans op pose intervening in a conflict to save Fugland and France, "even if they are losing." 65 per cent. of persons interviewed in the survey were opposed to the United States entering a war "at all." 24 and a half per cent. said they favored entering the war if the democracies were losing. The sinking of the "Athenia" may change this proportion, but it would require a rare combination of circumstances, we believe, to effect a right-about-face n American public opinion.

MILITARY GUESSES: The ex pressed opinion of neutral military servers and some retired British and French officers in London last week had it that: Germany's Siegtried Line and France's Maginot Line will stalemate each other all along the old Western Front for at east a year, perhaps longer; Polish resistance will require the attention of at least half the German army for six months or more. (the annihilation of Poland's army is the primary German objective); Sending of British and French ald to Poland will be a tremendous task — due to difficulties of access supplies might have to go around by the Mediterranean and up through Rumania.

First Peppermint Being Processed Commercial Crop Being Turn-ed in Port Franks District

The production of commercia peppermint for the first time in Ontario was started late in August at the new peppermint plant estal lished at Port Franks, Ont., several months ago. According to M Petro, manager of the plant, the peppermint is cut and allowed to dry for at least 24 hours before it can be put through the plant. It is then taken to the still where it is put into a large, underground tank. forced into it. In about 15 minutes the oil rises with the steam and it goes through a coil that has cold water around it. As the mixtur goes through condensation takes place and the oil and some water come out at the end of the coil where it is separated. All the peppermint used in Can-ada is imported and it is reported that the new industry is finding a ready market for its product.

Their leader is small, 44-yearsold Mrs. Alice McColgan, who, when she heard a few weeks ago that there was a shortage of kilts for Highland regiments, wrote to the War Office and offered her help. With her father she had made Army kilts during the war, and she was able to persuade the War Office to let her tackle the Two and one half tons of tartan and an order for 1,000 kilts arrived at the little shop which she has opened.

But Mrs. McColgan was faced with a problem, for there are no unemployed kilt makers in Scotland and she had to have help. She remembered the women with whom she had worked many years ago in her father's business. Most of them were married, but she traced 15 of them and asked them to help.

"Most of them have families, but they are all patriots and were all eager to help," she said. "Arrangements have been made for house keepers to look after their homes.
"They are coming here and we are starting at once on kilts for the Seaforth Highlanders." When the housewives have com-pleted the 1,000 kilts it is expected they will receive another contract.
