

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON V
THE TWO WAYS — Psalm 1:
Golden Text: "For Jehovah knoweth the way of the righteous; but the way of the wicked shall perish." — Ps. 1:6.
THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING
Time — While we do not know when the First Psalm was written, the words quoted from Matthew were spoken in the spring of A.D. 27.

Place — No one is able to identify the place in which the First Psalm was written; neither are we quite sure where the mountain was located on which Christ delivered this great Sermon, though it is generally understood to be in Judaea. In this lesson we perceive life is never a failure unless there is a cause for that failure, whether it be in one's own conduct and character, or in outside circumstances. God does not want men to fail in life, to come to disaster, and the verses which we study in this lesson are divine instructions from our heavenly Father telling us how to live so that life may be all that we want it to be and all that God desires it to be.

A GODLY MAN
Ps. 1:1: Blessed is the man. By the term "blessedness" we understand the highest good that man can receive, a gift from God, or as enjoyed in some divine relationship. Throughout the Bible this is contrasted in the idea of blessedness and the great spiritual passages in the Old Testament we conclude that God's desire is for every man to be truly blessed, to be satisfied with life, and that God continually instructs man how this blessed life may be obtained. In this psalm the negative aspects of such a life of blessedness precedes the positive. That walked not in the counsel of the wicked, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of scoffers. 2. But his delight is in the law of Jehovah; and on his law doth he meditate day and night. The secret of his deliverance from a life of wickedness is to be fully occupied with the things of righteousness. How can one know what the way of the Lord is? By studying the word of God, meditating upon it, testing one's life by it.

HE SHALL PROSPER
3. And he shall be like a tree that is planted by the streams of water, that bringeth forth its fruit in its season, whose leaf doth not wither; and whatsoever he doth it shall prosper. The life of the godly man is maintained by the support of grace drawn from constant communion with God through his revelation. The law of the Lord is at once a guide and strength. In the aspect of facing a life to it gives stability; in the other, freshening and means of growth. The psalm anticipates Christ's teaching of the good tree bringing forth good fruit, and also tells how his precept of making the tree good is to be observed — namely, by transplanting it from the soil of self-will to that of delight in the law. The last clause of verse 3 must not be taken as a promise of wealth for everyone who lives according to the word of God, but a promise of success in whatever such a man undertakes. The man of God is a strong man, a man whom men will honor and trust and reward in the things of this life.

AN UNGODLY MAN
4. The wicked are not so, but are like the chaff which the wind driveth away. Compare Ps. 35: 2, 3, 5, 6, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100.

TWO ALTERNATIVES
6. For Jehovah knoweth the way of the righteous; but the way of the wicked shall perish. Here, as it was before, emphasizing God's infinite presence and omnipotence. Matthew 7:24. Every one therefore that heareth these words of mine, and doeth them, shall be likened unto a wise man, who built his house upon the rock.

And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell not; for it was founded upon the rock.

And every one that heareth these words of mine, and doeth them not, shall be likened unto a foolish man, who built his house upon the sand:

And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and smote upon that house; and it fell; and great was the fall thereof.

Throughout the Scriptures there are continually recognized only two major classes of men, the righteous and the wicked; those who know God, and those who do not know God. The truth which the Psalmist at the beginning of the Psalter sets forth in a parable of the tree, our Lord here sets forth, even more vividly, in a parable of building houses. Every man builds. But notice the difference. It is not in the man who builds; or in the materials with which they build; but in the foundation upon which they build. The foundation is everything. Hear then, the imperial claim of Christ. He says: Take these sayings of mine, and build on them; and no storm can destroy your building.

Two Eastern Emperors Exchange Handclaps

Saving Ontario's Natural Resources

By G. C. TOMER
(No. 1)
Talk of the conservation of our natural resources has become fashionable of late years. Few people, however, seem to understand the true meaning of such conservation. More than that, it means that we should keep our wild life, our forests, our fishes, undisturbed and unutilized, with the natural increase checked away from the people. Others believe that some portion of these resources should be harvested but that to take account of the comable becomes unbalanced. A few look forward, believing our resources are being used up, to the environment under scientific management.

Conservation of natural resources means the wise use of everything that grows or lives upon the land. It means the maintenance of our soil and water. It means that our natural products must be utilized in such a way that an ample surplus is left for seed or breeding stock. It means that the harvesting must not spoil the environment. These views seem to be common sense rules, easily applied. Actually, they are disregarded and the result is depletion.

THE NEW VIEWPOINT
The changes that have taken place in the lumbering industry illustrate the new viewpoint. To go into the woods and make a clear saw, taking everything merchantable and leaving the debris as a great fire hazard, far too often this debris has been left when this happened it took several years for every berry bush to cover the scar. In some cases it required generations before desirable timber covered the countryside again. Often this has destroyed the humus of the soil and rains soon washed away the fertile upper layers. The bedrock is near the surface, over much of the country. Scientists know the speed with which these changes take place in the lumbering industry. The modern way of lumbering is largely selective. Only the desired trees are cut, the remainder carefully protected so that another crop will come on quickly. The debris is handled in such a way that it is not a great fire menace of under-brush in drought periods. The wild creatures are not unduly disturbed and the soil is left intact. Enough young trees are left to hold the snow and the rain so that the underground water table is not lowered. All the work is planned to keep the forests on a sustained yield, managed as a crop rather than like a mine.

CONSERVATION HEAD
Conservation means planning ahead for sustained yields of all natural resources. This planning must include every animal and every plant for they interact upon each other in many ways. An important part of any effort is scientific research because it is only through the applications of biological principles that we will be able to conserve some of our resources now sadly depleted. Trees are turned into lumber with very little disturbance of the environment by the modern forester. Our fishes, fur-bearing animals and game must be managed in a similar way.

Watch Sunburn
Watch that sunburn, advised the Health League of Canada, in a recent bulletin. Sunlight is necessary to vigorous health, and so are eggs, meat, milk and cheese. But after being deprived of direct sunlight on the greater part of the skin for many months, one should no more expose himself to hours of direct sunlight than he should indulge in a banquet of a dozen eggs, half a bullock, a gallon of milk and an entire cheese at one sitting.

Burma Highway Is Like Movie Dream

Threads Way Through The Snow-Capped Hills and Rice Fields
The Burma Road, which Great Britain has agreed to close to halt a flow of war supplies to the Chinese Central Government, is a highway which might have been conceived by a Hollywood director and executed by the Pharaohs of ancient Egypt.

It is a vital part of the 2,000-mile long trade route from Burma's seaport of Rangoon to the Yangtze river, connecting the Burma-Burma railroad at Lashio with Kunming (formerly called Yunnan), the capital of Yunnan Province, on the most difficult stretch of the great new road, between the Burma border and the fall of 1937, when military exigencies caused the British authorities to cut through a freight route to British Asia to ship products to regions cut off by the Japanese occupation of Pacific ports.

The Hollywood setting is provided by sparsely settled regions of snow-capped mountains and rice-bordered plateau lakes, tropical jungles of bamboo and teakwood, and forests of towering evergreens where bands of gibbons scream in the shadows and strange birds chatter and sing.

Canada's Making Wild Life Survey
Dominion Government Is Sponsoring A Study of the Fur-Bearing Population of Our Country
Many of Canada's valuable fur-bearing animals are subject to a marked fluctuation in numbers, according to the Department of Mines and Resources which, with the assistance of the Bureau of Animal Population, Oxford University, and the Hudson's Bay Company, is making a study of wild life population.

This survey takes the form of an annual questionnaire distributed to resident trappers, trappers, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and officers of government departments stationed in the Northwest Territories. The investigation is carried on year to year because the situation is changing continually and it is hoped that the work will produce data from which a forecast can be made relating to the expected abundance of each important species.

The results of the study may also suggest measures to prevent unnecessary depletion of any species of wild life during the periods of scarcity.
