SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON VII
GOD'S CARE OF HIS PEOPLE.
—Psalm 23.

GOLDEN TEXT—Jehovah is my shepherd; I shall not want. Ps. 23: 1.

THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING

Time—David lived through most of the eleventh century B.C. This psalm has no date; some place it early in his life, and some late in his life; tentatively we might say that it could have been written about 1040 B.C.

The beauty of this little psalm consists first in its calm assurance of Jehovah's all-sufficiency; and second in the simplicity, variety and fullness with which this assurance is set forth. The essential thought is felt to be one from beginning to end, and that thought it sweet. The infinite God is mine, and cares for me, provides for me, is with me. Every blessing named appears as a personal gift. It is this intense personality which so greatly endears he psalm. And then there is a satisfying conclusion: it is a consummation, which delights because of the feeling of homelonging to which it appeals, and which it assures of satisfaction.

Jehovah in this psalm is Shepherd, Guide, Host — relation to whom as sheep, traveller, guest, is easily imagined by every quickened soul.

What the Shepherd Does For Us

Ps. 23: 1. Jehovah is my shepherd; I shall not want. If someone else were this shepherd, I might want. But when the Lord is my shepherd he is able to supply my needs, and he is certainly willing to do so, for his heart is full of love. 2. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; He leadeth me beside still waters. As God has clothed the earth with verdure of green, because green is the most restful of all colors for the eye, so God brings the soul into green pastures — into places where the eye of the soul will be delighted with the things that it beholds, most of all, the beauty of the Lord, the loveliness of Christ, the holiness of life itself, and the resplendence of the hope which is set before us — these wonderful truths always rest the fevered and weary soul.

Guide and Restorer

3. He restoreth my soul. Christ uses may restorative ministries. Sometimes it is the word of a friend or minister. Or it may be some lovely mood of nature. He guideth me in the paths of righteousness, for his name's sake. In the spiritual life, of which the psalmist is here speaking, the word "path" is a very simple, easily understood symbol of one's conduct, the manner of one's life, determined by the things he does and the things he does not do. 4. Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for thou art with me; Thy rod and thy staff, they comfort me. Was the Lord able to recover the soul from life's wayside weariness and hunger? He will equally defend and keep it amid life's deadliest dangers. "Thy rod and thy staff" are not synonymous, for ever the shepherd of today, though often armed with a gun, carries two instruments of wood, his great oak club, thick enough to brain a wild beast, and his staff to lean upon or to touch his sheep.

Spiritual Joy and Blessing

5. Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies. In the Lord our God we are secured against the destructiveness of our yesterdays, the menaces of today, and the darkening fears of the morrow. Our enemies are stayed at the door. We are the Lord's guests, and our sanctuary is inviolable. Thou hast anointed my head with oil. This similitude is borrowed from the usage of an Eastern feast, in which the welcome of the host to his guests is expressed by the precious unguents with which he anoints them on their entrance into his home. Our anointing is ours in the mind and intention of God; it is for us to seek it, to appropriate it, and to allow it to be the one blessed consciousness of our life. My cup runneth over. The cup is a symbol expressing man's capacity for any particular experiences, as a cup filled with sufference, or a cup of joy. Here it seems to speak of contentment. The cup symbolizes man's desires and needs, and the overflowing cup—the abundant satisfaction of these needs and desires, so that the man who has the Lord for his shepherd, and has all the blessing of which the psalmist has just been speaking, knows a life filled with contentment, peace and satisfaction.

Assurance of Hope

6. Surely goodness and lovingkindness shall follow me all the days of my life. Not goodness alone, for we are sinners needing forgiveness. Not mercy alone, for we need many things besides forgiveness. But each with the other linked—goodness to supply every want; mercy to forgive every sin. God will not break off his kindness, nor suffer his faithfulness to fail, nor forsake the works of his hands, for "his mercy endureth forever." And I shall dwell in the house of Jehovah forever. I shall be a member of his household, a member of his family, enjoying his protection, holding communion with him, and subsisting on his bounty. David surely must be thinking of life beyond the grave, of fellowship with God in a heavenly home.

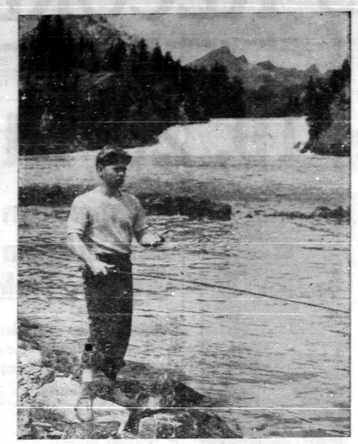
"Andy Hardy" Goes Fishing Below Bow Falls, Canadian Rockies



Sure, it's Mickey himself busy casting for trout in the beautiful Bow River below tumbling Bow Falls. He hasn't got one yet, but there's lots of trout in that river and he'll have one before long or that look of concentration means nothing. Picture was taken round the end of July when young Mr. Rooney, on holiday between pictures, was a guest for several days at the Banff Springs Hotel. —C.P.R. Photo.

Temper—Your Voice

When angry a person invariably raises his voice in pitch as well as in volume. Hundreds of experiments with the human voice have been conducted by two eminent professors, Dr. Grant Fairbanks and Dr. Wilbert Pronovos, of the State University of Iowa, in which film and stage actors as well as business men and women in all walks of life have figured. They have discovered that when rage or fear grips one, the voice goes up a full octave above the pitch level for indifference, contempt, or grief. These three range in the neighbourhood of low C. When actors portray emotion their voices cover a pitch range of fully three octaves.

AUTUMN FORECAST

Although this hot weather keeps us well aware that it is summer it will not be long until the cooler fall days, and all the new programs of the 1941 season will be making their bows. This fall will see great changes in faces and casts, as well as types of shows, on all the networks and major stations.

The public is clamouring for new radio shows — not something just done over from the old pattern, as the Charlie McCarthy show was. This season will see Eddie Cantor back on the air lanes, Fred Allen in a new show on a new network—and you will hear many newcomers to radio taking star parts in the new programs.

So you can look forward to a real season of top-notch entertainment this fall and winter!

A MODEST BEGINNING

Playing stooge to a star is not always an ignominious role. Nicolas Massue is an example. He is the well-known Montreal tenor who is frequently heard as guest soloist with the "Sevillana" programme, presented over the CBC network Saturdays at 8.30 p.m. He tells this story of his modest beginning in the world of opera: He was sitting patiently awaiting an audition in an agent's office in Milan. In the sanctum sanctorum a well-known prima donna was singing for the agent. When she came to her favourite aria from "Butterfly", she refused to sing without the aid of a tenor. The agent knew better than to cross her, and in desperation he faced the line of aspirants in the waiting room. "A tenor," he cried—"any tenor". Massue answered, sang with the soprano and when the audition ended, he, and not the lady, was handed the contract. The following week he made his debut as the Duke in "Rigoletto."

GOLF CHAMPIONSHIPS

CBC listeners will have an opportunity of following the progress of the 1940 Canadian Open Golf Championship tournaments which are to be played on the course of the Scarborough Golf and Country Club. The special events department has arranged to cover the story in a number of specially scheduled periods on three days of the play. Thursday, August 15, and Friday, August 16, at 1.00 to 1.30 and 7.00 to 7.15 p.m., EDST; Saturday, August 17, at 1.30 to 200, 6.15 to 6.30 and 6.45 to 7.00 p.m. EDST are the times announced for the commentaries, running reports of the play, and, finally, the description of the Seagram Gold Cup.

T. O. Wickland and Roy Dilworth will handle the broadcasts, which will be made available through the use of a double short wave set-up. Pick transmitters and Mobile Unit No. 1 will contribute to the technical efficiency of the broadcasts, so that golf enthusiasts hundred of miles from the scene will be able to hear the top-notch club wielders in their great moments.

Saving Ontario's Natural Resources

(No. 3)

Much has been written about the passenger pigeon and its disappearance. The best account we have for the species in Ontario is by Margaret H. Mitchell in Contribution No. 7 of the Royal Ontario Museum of Zoology and I do not intend to repeat a too familiar story. But every bit of evidence we have shows that man was solely responsible for the extinction of these birds. In one year, 1878, at Petoskey, in Michigan, market hunters shipped over a million pigeons from one colony. No bird, no matter how abundant, could stand such destruction.

RECORD OF DESTRUCTION

White pine makes the best lumber of any of our native soft woods. Formerly it grew in a great belt across Ontario from Lake Huron to the Ottawa. Lumbering for this pine started early in the 19th century. The trees were made into square timbers that were floated down our rivers and shipped around the world. The only virgin stands of white pine that remains are in Algonquin Park for it took only 60 years to despoil the growth of centuries.

WE CAN REPLENISH

The record of the destruction and waste of many of our natural resources can be duplicated everywhere on the continent. Looking back we can see the mistakes but our forbears believed that the wild life, the forests and the fishes would last forever. This was quite understandable but we should endeavor to avoid similiar optimism. We can replenish many of our depleted resources but it will take a long time.

Farm Notes . . .

THE SPRING WHEAT THAT CAME THROUGH

Winter-killing of Fall Wheat is one of the commonest arguments against seeding this important crop, writes Prof. Henry G. Bell, fo the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph. Winter-killing may be occasioned by poor drainage, continued drought in fall, dessication or drying out due to cold blistering winds in late winter and early spring, or starvation due to deficiency in plant-food. A well-nourished Wheat crop will usually survive low temperatures and drying winds of winter and early spring.

Ten Fall Wheat growers in the Niagara Peninsula reported little difference in appearance between fertilized and unfertilized Wheat last fall. In spring they reported an average winter-kill of unfertilized Wheat amounting to 24%, but only 8% winter-kill of adjoining fertilized Wheat.

AN OUTSTANDING SURVIVAL

One outstanding survival occurred on the farm of Mr. Morrison Comfort, St. Anns. Last fall as winter set in, Mr. Comfort reported the unfertilized Wheat about 80% normal, and the unfertilized about 40%. His soil test showed the field to be acid in reaction (5. Op H) medium well supplied with nitrate nitrogen and potash, but very low in available phosphoric acid. Fertilizer was applied at 250 lbs. per acre to half of the area. This spring the Agricultural Representative of Lincoln County graded the fertilized area 90% normal, and the unfertilized 30%.

The average yields and weights per bus. for fertilized and unfertilized Wheat in the 1939 tests were as follows:—

Fertilized—43.9 bus. per A. weighing 59.0 lbs. per bus.; Unfertilized—33.1 bus per A. weighing 58.0 lbs. per bus.; Gain from fertilizer—10.8 bus. per A. and 1.0 lbs. increase in Wt. Per Bus.

One-Sided Beings

Limbs on the right side of the human body are nearly always bigger than those on the left.

Champ Hair-Splitter

The Americans claim to turn out the finest machine tools and is George G. Webber, of Cleveland, Ohio, whose steel blocks are have for the species in Ontario finished so perfectly that when placed together they stick as though welded, and must be slid apart. Recently he was engaged in a job where he had to to eight millionths of an inch measurement so fine that it is difficult to imagine. It is like cutting a hair, and then subdividing it eight or ten times. When it comes to such limits, Mr. W takes into consideration the of his body and the light thrown off by the electric bulbs in workshop.

Modern Etiquette

BY ROBERTA LEE

1. Should one make any kind explanation when refusing a gift?

2. How should one introduce a stenographer, who is a new employee, to an executive of the company?

3. When a man takes a girl to a public dining place, is it all right for him to suggest something on the menu, that he knows is good?

4. Isn't it poor form for salespeople to address customers as "honey," "dear," "girlie," "doctor," "captain," "brother," "sister," etc.?

5. When a formal dinner begins at eight, at what time should a guest depart?

6. Should a man comb his hair in public?

Answers

1. "No, thank you" is sufficient. It is not at all necessary to explain or apologize. 2. "Miss Moore, this is Mr. Carter, our President." 3. Yes. 4. Yes, and it often means loss of business. 5. A well-bred person resents such familiarity from a stranger. 6. Eleven, or a little before, unless dancing or some other form of entertainment follows. 6. No; this is considered effeminate.

Beef cattle exports to the United States for the first half of 1940 amounted to only five-eighths of the number shipped to the end of June last year. However, shipments of dairy cattle held level and calves were down only see-seventh.

His Majesty King George Visits Fusilier Recruits

King George looks on as a recruit does maintenance work on a Bren gun carrier. The King inspected the camp of the Royal Fusiliers, situated near the London area, recently. The men attached to this division have had only a few weeks training, but are ready for any eventuality.

HEALTH TOPICS

Take It Easy; Save Your Nerves

We want to be energetic and peppy all of the time, and never feel lazy or tired. We have a notion that healthy and happy people never become fatigued. The truth is that they do get tired periodically, but know how to rest and recuperate. They experience normal, not chronic fatigue.

Normal fatigue is good. It is part of normal, healthful living. It may be recognized by a general heaviness of the body, which is not unpleasant and which may be dispelled by rest and sleep, and by increased nourishment. Everyone who has known the joy of good work has known the joy of normal fatigue.

If men and women would only accept normal fatigue as an accompaniment of work or effort, and would get the necessary recuperation through rest, more serious forms of fatigue would never develop. Life would then be balanced.

BREAKS IN ACTIVITY

Plan for at least two breaks in activity during the day. During each break, just stop doing anything for five minutes. Don't talk. Don't think. Just sit with your head drooping forward toward your knees. Or, better yet, lie on the floor with your head propped up on a chair.

South Africa's Dog Detectives

Thrilling stories of the exploits of police dogs in the detection of crime are given in the annual report of the South African Commissioner of Police, Colonel I. P. de Villiers, of Cape Town, in his annual report.

In one case a dog called "Echo" tracked down a thief who subsequently admitted that he had wrapped his feet in sacking to escape detection. In another instance a dog followed a trail one and a half miles to a hut in the middle of a compound of 38 huts with 135 inhabitants and pointed out the native.

Bamboo Useful Tropical Tree

Makes House-building Simple —People of the East Eat It, Too

The bamboo tree is one of the most useful trees in the tropics. It grows as much as sixteen inches in twenty-four hours, and attains a height of more than one hundred feet.

The tree is hollow, but at each of the many joints the cavity is closed. Saw off one complete section of the thick stem and you have a perfect pail, or cooking vessel. Smaller sections form ready-made bottles.

Bamboo makes house-building simple. The stems are used as scaffolding, walls and roofs can be all made from it, and split sections form the floors. Masts for ships and rods for fishermen are other uses.

People of the East eat it, too. The grains of bamboo seed are regarded by the Chinese as a food delicacy, while the Hindus mix them with honey to form a succulent dish.

In China the bamboo is cultivated with as much care as other crops. Introduced in Europe in 1730, the bamboo is hardy everywhere in sheltered positions in rich loam.

HAVE YOU HEARD?

There were only three people left in the bus; an old lady and two men. Suddenly one of the men said "25," and the other immediately burst into laughter. When he had ceased chuckling he called out "121," and the other man now roared with laughter. This went on for some time. No sooner would one call a number than the other would laugh.

The old lady, doubting the mentality of her two companions, turned to them and said, "Excuse me, but I don't see anything funny in shouting a number."

"It's all right, madam," one replied, "we are commercial travellers and we know all our jokes by numbers."

What Science Is Doing

COMBATS HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

A possible antidote for high blood pressure in animals has been found at the University of Illinois School of Medicine.

It is an antiserum, that is, made like an antitoxin, a substance formed in living tissues which neutralizes the poisonous products of germs.

This discovery is a new approach to the mystery of human high blood pressure. The animals were dogs with forms of high pressure closely resembling the widespread and highly fatal human malady.

SUNSET ON VENUS

Four young scientists have returned from a mountain-top camp with 1,500 photographs of sunsets on the planet Venus.

They said probably not more than a dozen astronomers had observed the phenomenon during the last 200 years. They described the photographs as the first successful series of pictures of the sunsets ever made.

They saw Venus as a thin silver crescent, the horns of which bent toward each other until the planet was visible as a delicate ring of light. Astronomers picture Venus as a gigantic "dust bowl."

FINDS SHIP POSITIONS

A combination sound and radio buoy which will enable ships to determine their location accurately with respect to the buoy, has been developed by the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey for use in ocean surveys. In operation, a ship explodes a small TNT bomb. The current that explodes it makes a mark on a rapidly moving tape. The sound of the explosion is picked up by the distant buoy, which immediately sends out a signal. This is received by the ship and causes a second mark to be made on the moving tape. From the distance between the two marks the distance of ship to buoy can be calculated.

Identity Game

Here is an amusing game. Before the time of playing arrives, make a slip of paper for each guest. Write on each slip the name of a famous person, an historical figure, a movie star, or a present-day hero.

Without letting the guest see the name, pin the slip on his back, telling him to discover who he is by asking anyone in the room any question he likes which he thinks will help him to identify himself.

"Am I alive?" "Am I a man?" "Am I a woman?" "Do I live in Europe?" "Am I a singer, actor, politician, soldier?"

How Can I?

BY ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I clear up water which has a milky appearance?

A. Dissolve a piece of rock alum about the size of a lima bean in a pint of boiling water. This much will purify one tub of water.

Q. How can I clean used paraffin so that it can be re-used?

A. Heat the paraffin to the boiling point and strain through three thicknesses of cheesecloth over a funnel. Repeat if necessary. If not too dirty, it can sometimes be cleaned with a brush and warm water.

Q. How can I restore cut flowers that are slightly withered?

A. Pour a weak solution of camphor into the water in which the flowers stand.

Q. How can I clean brushes in which paint has been allowed to dry?

A. Soak in turpentine, gasoline, or hot vinegar for about an hour. Then wash thoroughly in strong soapsuds.

Q. How can I make a good dish of macaroni and cheese?

A. Take 8 cups of boiling water, ½ teaspoon of salt, 2 cups of broken macaroni. Add salt to water. Add macaroni. Boil for 20 minutes. Strain and rinse in hot water. Drain and add to the sauce.

Q. How can I clean patent leather shoes and handbags?

A. They can be made to look like new by means of a milk bath. Merely dampen a cloth with milk and rub over the shoes or bag; dry with another clean cloth. This treatment is also very good for the leather.

Hot, sticky weather induces rapid growth of mold, so keep bread and cake boxes spotless.
