Several local residents smiled coyly on Tuesday when two young ladies from one of the states in the Republic to the south of us, passed through town fully equipped for an enjoyable holiday in this artic sphere called Canada. The only difficulty appear ed to be that their equipment for the holiday proved a bit cumbersome, particularly in view of the fact old Sol reigns here in much the same manner as in their homeland. Despite the fact they were keenly disappointed in the climatic conditions in Canada, nothing remained for them to do but allow their skis to protrude from the rumble seat and remain in storage as it were, until snow caps the terrain of their own beloved land, or until they become better aquainted with the climatic conditions just across the border.

It all reminds us of the lady who came across the Peace Bridge last year, and enquired with starry eyes of the Custom's Officer, "where are the Indians?"
