In this lesson we should discover one of the great fundamental char acteristics of the entire ministry of the Lord Jesus on earth-living for others. Here we have the Lord bringing blessing to the home of a centurion, to a humble servant, to a widow who had lost her son. exercising tenderness toward the one who had baptized Christ and first proclaimed him the Savior, having infinite compassion on an unchaste woman who was despis ed by all those of the community, and then showing infinite patience with his own slow-to-understand

Example Still Best Teacher

Wise Parent Acts as Model For Child's Good Manners

Exampe is still the world's greatest teacher writes Alice Den-hoff, psychologist. That is a truism that the wise parent re cognizes when it comes to child training. Every mother wants her child to be polite, but unfortunately not every mother practises what she preaches to her child. The best way to inculate true politeness, the kind that comes from the heart, is to display it on all occasions. Then it will become second nature to the bserving child. LESS FREE EXPRESSION There seems to be a swing away from the idea of allowing a young child all the freedom i the world and permitting it to express itself in all matters in its own way. After all, what's the use of allowing a child to do something that he or she won't be permitted to, once childhood days are over? It's a pretty sad awakening to find that one has to conform after all, and that because one's parents permitted all the self-expression in the world, no one cares a hoot. The youngster who learns by example, who is permitted self-expression only so far as it makes for self-reliance, isn't going to have a rude awakening when he goes out into the world CHILD AN EQUAL The wise mother treats her child as an equal. When it is feasible to do so she consults sister or junior and asks for and destyle - and on this show the orfers to their judgment should ircumstances warrant it

Babies Need Open Air And Sunshine Sunshine is necessary for the ticularly for the prevention of rickets. The infants should be kept in the open air and sunshine whenever possible. In the winter time he should be placed outside in the sunshine each day between the hours of 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. It is possible to place so that his eyes will be kept away from the direc rays of the sun. Sun baths should be given daily whenever possible. As the sun's rays are not effective through ordinary window glass, the infant may, in cool weather, be placed in front of a window which covered with cellophane has been inserted. On mild days he may be taken out of doors. The clothing should be gradually removed, ex-posing the hands and feet to the sun the first day for 15 minutes then arms and legs the second da and proceeding each day in this nanner until the child's whole body is exposed to the sun's rays. Dont's For Baby Don't omit giving plain water without sugar between feedings; don't take the baby to a house where there is sickness; don't allow anyone who is sick to come near the baby; don't feed the baby from a spoon or cup that has been used by any other person without first washing it thoroughly.

Remember, also, fond mothers that the baby should not be play ed with just after it has been fed; it should never be kissed on the mouth; don't let the baby use & pacifier or "comfort" or suck on an empty bottle; don't take the baby out at night; don't test the heat of the baby's food by putting the nipple in your own mouth; don't use a baby walker; babies should not be encouraged to walk or stand until they are ready for it; don't forget to give the baby cod liver oil and orange juice. Don't let flies get on the baby or anything belonging to him; don't neglect diarrhoea but consult a doctor imme don't give the baby tea, coffee man's faith rose at one bound above all these restriction Raised From the Dead 11. And it came to pass soo afterwards, that he went to a city called Nain; and his disciples went with him, and a great multitude. In this first year of his ministry, before the deadly opposition to him had gathered head, while as yet the Pharisees and leaders had not come to an open rupture with him, and he had not sifted his follow ers by "hard sayings," our Lord was usually accompanied by adoring crowds. 12. Now when he drew near to the gate of the city, behold, there was carried out one that was dead, the only son of his mother, and she was a widow: and much people of the city was with her. 13. And when the Lord saw her, he had compassion on her, and said unto her, Weep not. Christ's Compassion There are two features of the compassion of Christ that stand out very clearly in this story. First it was in individual compassion It singled out the woman from the throng. It doalt with her as ar individual personality. The other feature of our Lord's compassion is
