Headquarters for Big Event at Jarvis Hereford Farms

Arrangements are now complete for the twelfth annual Plowing Match under the auspices of the local Association on Thursday, October 24th. The headquarters will be on the famous Hereford farm owned by Mr. Fred W. Reicheld and Son, about two miles south of Jarvis on the Nanticoke sideroad. A field across the road on the farm of Fergus Quee will also be used. This is a very central location and in addition to being able to see some of the finest being able to see some of the finest plowing a person is also given the privilege of seeing the prize win-ning stock which is kept on the Reicheld farm.

Mr. Reicheld has spared no effort in building up a herd of first quality.

Tractor work is being stressed with additional prizes and a new class has been added for ladies only. This is an innovation for Haldimand county and it is expected will create a good deal of interest. A long list of specials is presented and altogether the list is a most attractive one.
