SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JESUS CALLS TO PRAYER Luke 18.
PRINTED TEXT, Luke 18: 1-14 GOLDEN TEXT-Lord, teach us to pray. Luke 11: 1.
THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING Time.-March, A.D. 29.

Place.—Peraea.

Do we know of anything in Christian life today more needed than a return to prayer as a great real ity, a source of power and victory. Our Lord in this lesson tells us some of the conditions which must prevail in our hearts when we approach God in prayer, if we are to expect to have Him gladly, instantly, hear our petitions

How To Pray Luke 18: 1. "And he spake parable unto them to the end that they ought always to pray, and not to faint;" "Faint" here means rally "to give in, let go, or give up." Christ declares in effect that this is the alternative before every one of us, to pray or to faint, To the virtue mighty, the victory as sured. When a man faints in the day of adversity, it is because a line of communication has some-how been cut, he has become separated from his spiritual resource es. 2. Saying, There was in a city a judge, who feared not God, and regarded not man: 3. And there was a widow in that city; and she came oft unto him, saying, Avenge me of mine adversary." A widow is typical of defenselessness. This poor woman was being beset by someone who was, the parable would imply, without any justice whatever trying to take away her property or her small inheritance The widow went to the judge.

The Unrighteous Judge 4. "And he would not for a while: but afterward he said within him celf, Though I fear not God, nor regard man; 5. yet because this widow troubleth me, I will avenge her, lest she wear me out by her continual coming." To attend to her plea, at first meant trouble for the judge; not to attend to it, is going to mean greater trouble. The judge was vulnerable only on the side of his selfishness. His reason for listening. 6. "And the Lord said, Hear what the unrighteous judge eaith, 7. And shall not God avenge night, and yet he is long suffering over them? 8. I say unto you, that he will avenge them speedily." In other words, if that unrighteou judge, to save his own miserable life from bruising, gives in answer too, that God who is teous will act speedily? Because we have a God quick and ready to answer every cry of the oppressed in the right way, prayer can be maintained constantly. "Nevertheless, when the Son of man cometh, shall he find faith on the earth?" Christ rather hints here His promise may almost disappear be more madly defiant than ever. and more discouraged than ever. just before He comes to 'avenge His own elect' and answer the cries of centuries.

9. "And he spake also this par oble unto certain who trusted in themselves that they were righteous, and set all others at nought.' There are many people in the world exactly like those to whom Christ addresses this parable, people who think they are absolutely sufficient in themselves, who believe that because of philanthropies, or because they have a large payroll and make good provision for their ployees, because they contribute to the support of a minister, because they say prayers every night, or go to mass every morning, or takings, and have never killed anyone, or ever come home drunk, that they certainly must stand well with God. These are the kind of people who, sufficient unto themselves, despise others. The word here translated "despise" means "to treat as nothing, to regard as mere ciphers.'

Two Prayers 10. "Two men went up into the temple to pray; the one a Pharisee and the other a publican." The Pharisee was a man, self-righteour who kept the Law in all of it minute details. The publican was cimply a Jew whose profession was that of a tax-gatherer, prone to con ruption and bribery. 11, "The Phar isee stood and prayed thus with himself, God, I thank thee, that I am not as the rest of them, ex-tortioners, unjust, adulterers, or even as this publican, 12, I fast twice in the week; I give tithes of all that I get." This really is no prayer at all—merely an utterance of self-congratulation. He does not even thank God that he is not as the others. 13. "But the publican standing afar off, would not lift up so much as his eyes unto heave but smote his breast, saying, God,

The publican was as possessed with his own sinfulness as the Pharisee was possessed with his own rightcousness. 14. "I say unto you, This man went down to his house justified rather than the other: for every one that exalteth himself shall be humbled; but he that humbleth himself shall be exalted." This publican was not without sin. He had sin. But he asked God for forgiveness and received it. When God 'justifies' a sinner. it does not mean that that moment that man becomes in his own character a person, absolutely righteous, without any sin whatever, but it does mean that God has cleared this man of all guilt in the matter of sin.

"COME WIND, COME WEATHER By Daphne du Maurier One of the most spectacular ef forts at maintaining morale among the bomb-shattered population of Great Britain has been the reception given Daphne DuMaurier's little book, "Come Wind, Come Weather" which sold over 600,000 copies during the closing months' of 1940. It is now being re-published in the United States and trans lated into a number of foreign tongues. In Canada, Ryerson Press announces publication of an edition to sell at .25c.

A special foreword "Word to Canada" cabled by the authoress says that the book was written for the people of Britain in the hope it would bring courage and strength to them in a time of crisis, and concludes with an eloquent appeal to the people of the Dominion to march "shoulder to shoulder until victory is finally won."

French-Canadian Songs Explained

Many of Them Have A Rhythm to Correspond to the Movements Used by Pioneer Workers - Spinning, Paddling Canoes

One aspect of French Canada was shown to the Overseas Felwship meeting in Montreal last week when folk songs were sung by the Quartet Alouette and were aterpreted by J. Murray Gibbon, who associated them with cus-toms and events in the early history of the country. Mr. Gibbon told the audience that many of the songs had been brought to canada centuries ago. They had lived on because they became fit-ted into the domestic life of the people.

New Year ceremonies in the world are to be seen in Bali, Dutch East Indies, where time seems to stand still. The people are quite simple and unspoilt and their belief in demons and gods remains unchanged. On New Year's morning the temples are decorated by the girls of the village, and women, kneeling three blossom, which is held between their palms, to invisible gods. Then the pick of the year's coconut and banana crops is brought to the temples for the and evil spirits are appeased, and each village has a procession in which masks and effigies are carried. It is supposed that the evil spirits, faced by their grim counterparts, will vanish in fear during the New Year.

"Auld Lang Syne," the most famous New Year song in the world, was composed by Robert Burns in 1789 as an example of an old Scottish song. The words were set to the present familiar tune about ten years later.

The ces produced by the planets. The planets studied were Mercury, Venus, the Earth, Jupiter and Saturn. The first three are small planets, but relatively close to the sun, while the latter two are very large, but at considerable distances. The half periods of the planets and the combination of their effects were studied with reference to positions on the sun's surface and not to space co-ordinates. Allowance was made for the rotation of the sun and the manner in which disturbances move on its surface. He reports that the tidal effects give a curve which corresponds to the curve of the sun-spot cycle. The cycle has a length of about 11.25 years which corresponds to the sun-spot cycle. HEALTH

Early Symptoms

In an article written for "Health", official organ of the Health League of Canada, shortly before his death last month, defines the early symptoms of erculosis as: Being too easily tired,

Loss of weight, Indigestion, and A cough that hangs on.

Pleurisy may be one of the first signs of tuberculosis in adults, as may be a spitting of blood, however slight. Nervous-ness, disturbed sleep and a run-down condition are all symptoms to be suspected.

The tubercle bacillus is passed from person to person in various ways, Dr. McCullough points out. The consumptive who coughs with uncovered mouth sprays the air around him with the bacilli. If he spits on the floor or side walk the germs are likely to be mixed with dust and blown about for others to breathe. Bacilli may be deposited on a spoon, drink-ing cup, pipe or other article held in the mouth of a victim. If these are used without a thorough cleansing by a healthy person, he may contract the disease as a result.

BY WAY OF PREVENTION Unpasteurized milk, if taken from a tuberculous cow, is likely to infect the drinker. A tu-berculous mother who kisses her
