MODERN PARENTS GO SLIGHTLY DAFT WHEN STORM ARRIVES

From R.P.M.'s Column in The Kelvinian (E.C.) Courier.
At best the human animal is a queer piece of work. At best, too, the highly touted human brain is but a more decimal point removed from utter insanity.

CANADIAN NATIONAL
The SNAPSHOT GUILD
MAKE THEM "DIFFERENT"

EVERYBODY has his preferences in pictures, in reading matter, in victuals, and other things. Abraham Lincoln summed it up neatly when he said, "You get like a picture material, and will lend that precious touch of truth and individuality to your pictures." However, despite differences of taste, most people agree on one point. They feel that something individual—something a little bit out of the ordinary—is better. It is the "different" treatment—the "individual touch"—that counts. That's especially true in snapshots. A clever idea—a different pose—a little individuality in the lighting or arrangement—these give you pictures that make people sit up and take notice. And they're more interesting—these too—they give you more satisfaction. Consider one concrete case—snapshots of children. You know that most of them are "too much alike." As a rule, they tell no story.
