

Electric Gadgets For Rural Homes

Room For More Electric Appliances on Ontario Farms

There are proportionately more electric washing machines in Ontario farm homes served by Hydro than in urban homes of the province, says the Woodstock Sentinel-Review. One in eight farm homes on rural power districts has an electric refrigerator, compared with one in five of the supposedly much better equipped urban group. The electric iron is the most generally used contrivance, with one in 75 per cent of rural homes which have the current. Radios are in use up at 71.5 per cent of the saturation mark, and toasters are in use in 51.2 per cent of rural homes connected with Hydro.

Urban homes, the Commission reports, possess nearly a half-million electric irons, or 52 per cent of saturation; 77.5 per cent of the possible total of radios, 68 per cent in respect of toasters and 45.6 per cent of washers. There are 5,361 air conditioners in urban households, none in farm homes. In the "batteries" category, the proportion of electric appliances is smaller, under most classifications, than either farm or urban.

Women Use More

In regard to variety of appliances farm women are better customers than the menfolk. The electric motor is the equipment most widely in use on the farm itself, and there are only one-quarter as many as there are washers. The total is something over 15 per cent of saturation. Something over 7,000 electric pumps represent 13.4 per cent of the potential and after that there is nothing higher than 6.6 per cent of saturation, which is the ratio for cream separators. There are 1,620 milking machines reported, being a ratio of one to 23 farms, which would be quite a disappointment to Sir Adam Beck if he were still here. Electric milk coolers total fewer than 1,000, and there are less than one per cent of possible distribution.

The latest census count indicated about 120,000 farms in Ontario, including very small ones, some of which obtain service under rates applicable to non-farm classes. There are many in remote districts out of reach of Hydro, and some, of course, without residential facilities. The Commission estimated some time ago that about 75,000 standard or large farms would comprise the ultimate total that could be served, but the regulation permitting service on the basis of two farms per acre increased the number that can be served. Last year 1,340 miles of rural line extension were approved, adding 3,955 customers. The aggregate load supplied all rural Hydro consumers in the province was 70,018 horsepower, an increase of 21.8 per cent over 1932.

Dnieper Dam Is Destroyed

Russia announced recently the deliberate destruction of her prodigious industrial achievement, the great Dnieper hydro dam and all its works, in grim proof of the Soviet determination to leave for the invading Germans no single instrument of value.

This came to an end after nine years of reality a project which had been a Russian dream since the days of Catherine the Great and which was completed in the fourth year of the first Soviet five-year plan by a United States engineer, the late Col. Hugh L. Cooper.

All measures were taken to permit the Germans to make use of the dam and its machinery. The 110,000,000 keytone of the entire Central Ukraine industrial system was shattered, its great turbines, had supplied a surrounding area of 70,000 square miles and a population of 16,000,000 persons with an annual output of 2,500,000 kilowatt hours of electric current.

Gone now, are the 149-foot dam structure, one of the largest in the world, its half-mile length, which served as a bridge across the Dnieper, and the nine generating units on the west bank, the largest ever built.

Ruined, too, are the three navigation locks on the east bank, the feature which first had attracted Russians to the idea of a dam as a means of drawing the delta feature had prevented deepwater shipping upriver to Kiev.

Premier Joseph Stalin added the hydro-electric feature, and the dam was begun in 1927.

No Ant. Election "At The Moment"

Premier Mitchell Hepburn said in an interview recently that he is not planning an election in Ontario "at the moment." He said that at any event "I would not call an election with Lt.-Col. George Drew, Conservative leader, in England. That would be unethical and unparliamentary."

VOICE OF THE PRESS

AGAINST THE GERMAN PEOPLE

When we see Americans and British going to get it through their heads that we are fighting a war against the German people, but against the German people, and in what an American friend of ours asked us:

In the last war, he said, we kept repeating that we were not fighting against the German people, but against the Kaiser and the Junkers.

Well, we had the Kaiser and the Junkers, who are far worse than the Kaiser ever thought of being. There would never have been a Kaiser and there would not be a Junker, if the German people did what we are doing now. We have the Nazis, who are far worse than the Kaiser ever thought of being. There would never have been a Kaiser and there would not be a Junker, if the German people did what we are doing now. We have the Nazis, who are far worse than the Kaiser ever thought of being. There would never have been a Kaiser and there would not be a Junker, if the German people did what we are doing now.

The sooner we realize we are fighting the German people, the sooner we understand that the German people are sufficiently behind Hitler to support him in this war, the sooner we will know that we are to have a war without a Kaiser and there would not be a Junker, if the German people did what we are doing now.

Week Of Reconciliation Starts War's Third Year

Twelve million Canadians—still firm—stand grid for their third year of war to preserve that freedom.

September 10, 1939, those twelve million Canadians, unconditionally and unanimously, and thus vowed never to lay aside the sword until the potential and after that there is nothing higher than 6.6 per cent of saturation, which is the ratio for cream separators. There are 1,620 milking machines reported, being a ratio of one to 23 farms, which would be quite a disappointment to Sir Adam Beck if he were still here. Electric milk coolers total fewer than 1,000, and there are less than one per cent of possible distribution.

In the British Isles today are more than 100,000 Canadian soldiers, sailors and airmen. Over 1,200 Canadians have figured on casualty lists; 736 of them killed in action, 195 missing, the remainder dead from natural causes.

The Canadian Active Army is calling for yet 7,000 volunteers from 250 to 400 and to boost his personnel from 25,000 to 32,000 by March of next year. The Royal Canadian Air Force is to 27,000 by March of next year. The Royal Canadian Navy is to add another 2,000, to go this year. And Canadian women are to be voluntarily enlisted in auxiliary forces of the Army, and the Air Force, to release more and more fighting men for active duty overseas.

Two years ago, Canada was spending less than $3,000,000 a day on arms. Today Canada is spending between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 a day on war; two years ago, the arms bill was less than $1,000,000 a day, and by March 31 next, the war bill will have passed $2,000,000, including well over half a billion to finance purchases for Britain.

In addition to assuming heavier taxes, Canadians have bought war bonds and savings certificates worth $1,460,000,000; they have contributed about $20,000,000 to auxiliary war services, and outright gifts to the Government total nearly $2,000,000.

Fund shipped to Britain includes 200,000,000 bushels of wheat, 700,000 barrels of flour, 15,000,000 lbs. of honey, nearly 15,000,000 dozen eggs, millions of pounds of concentrated milk, thousands of tons of canned goods. By December, 800,000,000 lbs. of pork products will have been sent; by March next, 112,000,000 lbs. of cheese.

At the dawn of the third year of war, all Canadians are asked by their Government to reconsecrate themselves "to the democratic cause against Nazi tyranny."

Reconciliation Pledge

"At this time of peril for my country, in this fight against the evil powers which threaten to engulf the earth, conscious of my duty toward Canada and toward my fellow man, I solemnly pledge before Almighty God that I shall do all that lies within my power, and deem it my right to triumph, that justice may prevail and that a righteous peace may reign throughout the world to this end, reconsecrate myself, with faith, with courage and with the knowledge that, though the path be hard and the day be dark, our efforts can not fail."

Text of the prayer and grace—

O Lord of Hosts, in this time of our reconsecration to thy service and in defence of the light brought into this world by Thy Beloved Son, we turn to Thee in prayer.

We pray for our fighting men on land, on the sea and in the air that they may be imbued with courage to persevere and strength to vanquish the dark forces which now seek to rule this earth.

We pray for endurance for all those who, in any way, are engaged in this great conflict, and, for our peoples, understanding of the truth.

We pray for mercy for the stricken, consolation for the bereaved and eternal rest for those who, having blazed the path, have been gathered to Thine Arms.

These things we ask, O Lord, so that in the fullness of time the great conflict may cease, the right may triumph, and our children be brought up to serve Thee and to do those things which are of good renown, to know and to spread the Christian light.—Amen.

Reconciliation Grace

For the courage of our fighting men and the devotion of those who stand behind them, for our continued freedom and for these blessings of our unscarred earth, we give thanks in this week of reconsecration to the Lord of Hosts, Who is the only Defender of the right.—Amen.

COOKIES WITH CRUNCH FOR SCHOOL-GOING LUNCH

Fruit for freshness, sandwiches for "fillers," hot cocoa in a thermos bottle for energy, and healthful, crunchy cookies of bran and peanut butter make up a balanced school-going lunch trolley for the car. It is nice of you to look us up so soon.

A New Angle

Elise called Valerie into the afternoon, asking her to lunch the next day. She said nothing about Valerie. Valerie happened to be in her own room when the call came. She had a curious illusion of watching closing in as she tried to think frantically of some reason why she couldn't go. Again it was Mark who saved the day.

"I couldn't promise without asking my father." She was almost faint with relief.

Elise became reproachful, Valerie could practically see the drooping red lines of the window, "How ridiculous—with me?" she asked.

Somewhat Valerie told the couple to say she was afraid to say Valerie must ask him that very day, and telephone her at once. Valerie promised she put the telephone down, and sat staring at it. Lucy came in and found her a few minutes later. "I wondered if you'd like a couple sets of trousers, or a swim in that adorable pool?" she asked. "I'm not going to make bookwork of you, you know."

"—of course—" said Valerie obediently.

"In other words, you and not Valerie." "What's happened to you?" Valerie asked. "I'm not comfortable about it, as these often was when you were supposed to talk and didn't. Lucy just sat and looked out of the window, "Paring, how ridiculous—with me?" she asked.

Some Requests About Lamb

The leg of lamb for roasting and the chops for broiling are generally well known cuts of meat. Cook on breast, shank and neck.

In cooking lamb the cardinal principle is the same as all meat cookery, that is, "cook at a moderate temperature, at least most of the time." Any meat cooked at high temperature loses juice as the high temperature loses the shrink and flavor and become dry.

For roasting tender cuts there are two important rules. The first—use no lid on the pan; the second—add no water. Covered roasters and added water go to make steam and when meat is cooked with steam the flavor is lost and also the fat juices.

There are two general hints on lamb, and let on lamb hardens at higher temperature than the fat on other meats so be sure to serve lamb either piping hot or cold.

Stuffed Breast of Lamb

3 lbs. breast of lamb
1 tablespoon minced onion
1/2 cup diced celery
1/2 cup butter
6 cups soft bread crumbs
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1 egg
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon thyme
1 egg are slightly beaten
1/2 cup boiling water
1/2 cup mint jelly
1/2 cup vinegar
3 tablespoons flour
2 cups water

Sprinkle the lamb with salt and pepper. Fry the onion and celery in the butter until delicately browned. Add the bread crumbs and about one tablespoon of the mixture to the pan, mix gently. Remove from the heat and add the salt, pepper, seasonings and egg, tossing with a fork until well mixed. Place stuffing on one side of each piece of lamb and fold the other side over the stuffing, making two or three rolls. Tie each roll separately and place in a baking pan. Bake in an uncovered dish in hot oven for 15 minutes. Add the vinegar. Bake uncovered for 15 minutes longer, basting frequently. Pour off the excess fat, leaving the lamb in the pan with the dripping. Add the flour, blend well and add two cups water. Stir constantly and cook until smooth and thickened. Season to taste and serve with the lamb. Yields 6 servings.

Lamb Fricassee

2 lbs. breast of lamb
6 cups boiling water
4 small onions
4 small carrots

Peeling Machines For Army "Spuds"

The Canadian army isn't what it used to be. It is now a well-equipped force of potato peelers. Neither is it a potato peeler. For the Munitions and Supply Department has announced that "no longer our boys spend dreary hours peeling potatoes." They now use potato peeling machines and 155 were being recently.

Potato-peeling machines already are a well-established equipment in the United States army.

Tie up to Ogden's!

Ask any old timer how to get the greatest satisfaction from your own and he'll tell you to tie up to Ogden's—the light green package smokes of your life! For Ogden's isn't "just another fine cut." It's different, gorgeously different—a distinctive blend of choice, ripper tobacco. Try it today.

Only the best cigarette papers—"Vogue" or "Charmelle"—are good enough for Ogden's.

Probably Seize French Islands

If Germany tries to establish a consulate on the French islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon in the Gulf of St. Lawrence the Canadian Government would have troops walk in and seize the islands.

This was the very definite opinion expressed in Ottawa regarding a reported radio announcement from Lyons, France, of Nazi intention to send a consul to the French Isles.

Such a report is not credited, but if anything of the kind is attempted, the Canadian Government would move promptly. The islands are only 12 miles from Newfoundland and comparatively close also to Nova Scotia and the Gaspe coast of Quebec.

Australian Savings

Savings bank deposits throughout Australia at the end of July were the highest ever recorded, amounting to almost $700,000,000. It was announced recently. War savings certificates sold to the public since June totaled more than $52,000,000.

Test Pilots Make Record Plane Tests

Officials of Noorduyn Aircraft Limited, Montreal, have announced that they believe to be a new Canadian record for the testing and acceptance of planes used in military war effort. They said that recently the company's test pilot, E. L. Caprell and P. G. R. Lortie tested eight new planes and seven repaired machines in one day. So far as they knew, officials added, the mark never has been equalled in wartime either in Canada or the United States.

MARRYING MARK . . .

CHAPTER 14

Elise at once became all feminine; "Oh, but how marvelous! I mean to have a real wedding. It looks like wonderful luck for you all. I suppose you've done a lot of teaching Miss Tredway?"

"But how terrific!" cried Elise pathetically. "What will she think of the rest of us when she finds out? But what can you expect? Nobody pays the least attention to a woman alone, nobody cares."

"The car is ready. She looked appealingly at Mark; if she expected him to contradict her, but he only sang and gave her message to Chiffers.

After a minute he followed the better into the hall. He would order his own car. He stepped out onto the terrace, breathing deeply. At this time of the year, the place was like a huge bouquet.

"Any sign of Mrs. Waterford's chauffeur?" he asked Chiffers at his elbow.

Lucy watched her, and wondered if she would say anything more. (To be continued)

U.S. Army's Tires

The United States Army is conserving strategic materials. It has announced plans for putting new tread on worn tires and substituting of plated steel forks and spacers to save zinc and nickel.

Navy Takes Credit In Downing Planes

Gunfire from ships and naval aircraft destroyed or damaged more than 1,900 German planes from the start of the war to August 1, the Admiralty has announced.

The statement said 537 of those destroyed were shot down into the sea, and 581 additional planes were damaged. Of the latter, 203 were observed to be so heavily damaged as to be classed as probably destroyed although they were not seen to crash.

The Admiralty credited certain destruction of planes as follows: 55 to armed merchant ships and fishing vessels.

245 to Royal Navy ships, including 73 to mine-sweepers, trawlers, and other small vessels. 122 to the fleet air arm. 12 to allied vessels.

Peeling Machines For Army "Spuds"

The Canadian army isn't what it used to be. It is now a well-equipped force of potato peelers. Neither is it a potato peeler. For the Munitions and Supply Department has announced that "no longer our boys spend dreary hours peeling potatoes." They now use potato peeling machines and 155 were being recently.

Potato-peeling machines already are a well-established equipment in the United States army.
