A pleasant social time was enjoyed in the Sunday School room at Wesley United Church last Thursday evening, when a large number of friends joined to honor Harry Gowan, who recently received his wings as a Pilot in the R.C.A.F. It was a friendly gathering and the hearts as a Pilot in the R.C.A.F. It was a friendly gathering and the hearts of all present was full with pride and good wishes for the guest of honor. More might be said, but we must be mindful of the admonitions of the Press Censor.

are pushing the organization of calf clubs to an even greater extent than normally.

A new departure this year is the inclusion of girls in calf club work. This is the first year that this has been permitted. In announcing the temporary setting aside of the policy of confining this project to boys only, Mr. R. S. Duncan, Director of Agricultural Representatives states that it is in recognition of the important part that girls are being asked to play in the 1942 Agricultur all programme.

With the extreme labour shortage and the great need for maximum production, farm girls are being asked to devote more and more time to outside work on the farm including milking cows, feeding livestock, operation of machinery, care of the garden, hoeing, planting and other types of field work. Since farm girls in large numbers will be assuming these outdoor farm tasks it seems particularly fitting that they should be permitted to take part in this project.

In instilling and maintaining an interest in better livestock has long been recognized and their place in the war-time program is even greater. In order to increase our dairy production to meet the ever increasing demands for more food, livestock men will have to put into practice the very principles that are being taught in calf club work.

With this in mind the Breeders Clubs and the Departments of Agriculture both Ontario and Dominion, are pushing the organization of calf clubs to an even greater extent than normally.

Both services will be given over to the administration and explanation of the rite of Baptism. Several children are to be presented at sociation to her home for the May meeting.
