That the plan is feasible, thouacres enabled them with a minimum of hardship to weather the bleak period of 1931 to 1933, can testify. This feat entailed no wizardry, financial or otherwise. In most cases it meant that the farmer had realized the economic advantages of the family-size tract long before the Department under took to point it out.

For years he had followed the policy of not putting all his agriraised wheat, corn and oats, but in judicious quantities, maintained a farm flock and sold poultry and eggs; he raised pigs and livestock, kept cows and marketed milk and cream, In short, years before the phrase grew to its present popularty, he practised diversified farming. Largely because of these small but steady sources of revenue, he was able when the slump came to meet his tax and other obligations while his more "progressive" neighbors who, lured by high grain prices, had acquired land beyond their power to pay, saw their farms foreclosed.

Thanks to Jessons learned during the depression, the farmer is regaining much of what he had lost. "Chain store" agriculture. groups of farms owned by nonesident investors and operated by paid labor, is gradually becoming a thing of the past.

In calling attention to the practicality of the family-size farm, the Department of Agriculture not only points out the solution of an omic problem, but guards against a repetition of the catas trophe which befell ruralists after the First World War.

Skirl O' The Pipes Cheers Fighters On Scots The World O'er WM

Thrill Wi' This Stirring

The harsh, compelling sound of the bagpipes is not every one's music; there is a story of a Frenchman who fainted when the pipers played behind his chair as a mark of honor at a Scottish dinner. But to those who are com scious of its appeal the skirl of the pipes is heart-stirring beyond all telling. Even the finest military band, with full apparatus of shouting brass and pounding percus sion, cannot compete with the sends the blood tingling and calls p an involuntary cheer. Emphati cally the pipes are instruments of war, meet to sound the charge.

abandon and to mourn the fallen. In this war, it seemed that the pipes would be stilled, that Scots men would fight without their eary summons-just as they were sent into battle without the treasured panoply of kilt, bonnet and sporran. But when the commandos struck at Nazi garrisons in Norway, lo, it was a bagpipe that spurred them on! True, it was an Englsihman who carried it-Major Jack Churchill (a good name; Corporal John bore it efore they made him Duke of Marlborough), who had learned the art of piping in France early in the war But the effect upon the young ommandos was the same as if a pipe-major of purest Highland ancestry had officiated. "As the bar-ges touched shore," one of the men who took part in the raid explained, most of us were slightly scared, but fright disappeared when Major Churchill leaped ashore with his bagpipes and began to play. You know what the pipes be to a Scot. The change was remarkable. Every one of us was full of confidence. There is a lesson here, although unfortunately Major Churchill was badly wounded in driving it home. The dehumanization of war has not yet progressed to such a degree that the music that makes soldiers fight can be ignored. Major Chur chill, Southern though he may be, deserves an honored place in the Canadian Naval strength, now standing at 27,000 officers and ratings, will be increased by another 12,000 by March, 1943, Navy Minister Macdonald told a press conference recently. He said this would mean that in just over three years the navy would have grown from less than 2,000 officers and men to 40,000. The output of ships was "excellent" and during the past summer had averaged two a week of all types.

Floating Dry Dock For Atlantic Coast

Two million rivets and 10,000 tons of steel plates are being put together to make a floating drydock at Halifax, the first or the Atlantic coast. Already the three base sections of the huge drydock have been launched and the job is expected to be completed this spring. Upperwork of two of the sections is nearing completion. Launched separately, the two have been joined together and may be used to repair ships before the third is added to them.

From the end the floating drydock looks like a huge "U". ship going into the dock floats into the "U", the tanks are pumped out, and the dock rises with the ship high and dry inside.

Says Price Ceilings Have Aided Farmers

Price ceilings have been of ma terial benefit to farmers, Professor W. M. Drummond of Guelph recently told members of the Ontario Vegetable Growers Assoiation in annual convention.

Professor Drummond, head of the agricultural economics department of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, said the price ceilings halted the tendency owards widening the disparity between prices of farm products and those of commodities the farmer himself had to buy.

only 10 per cent of the national income was spent for war purposes, he added. The present fiscal year would show 45 per cent of the national income spent for war. Agriculture had not been considered a war industry until recently, but was gaining rapidly n this respect. They Are Prepared

The story is being told of an Italian tank captured in Libya which was found to have three reverse speeds and one forward. The British captor thought he would have some fun with the Italian in charge. "Why", he inquired, "do you have that forward speed on there?"

He wished to preach where the message had never been heard; he desired to save those to whom had been given no opportunity for life. 1. "And when he entered again into Capernaum after some days, it was noised that he was in the house. 2. And many were gathered together, so that there was no longer room for them, no, not even about the door: and he spoke the word unto them. 3. And they come, bringing unto him a man

And when they could not come nigh unto him for the crowd, they uncovered the roof where he was: and when they had broken it up, they let down the bed whereon the sick of the palsy lay." To understand the scene, it is necessary to remember that the house was most likely a fisherman's cottage, low and flat-roofed. The roofs were made by laying first large beams, and then across them rude joists. On them were laid flat stones or slabs of tile or dried clay, on

There have been a number of nportant time changes in Canadian Network shows, which affect all listeners: The daily Happy Gang show is now broadcast at 1.15 to 1.45 p.m. -- three quarter hours earlier than before. The Musical Beauty Box with Bob Farnon conducting, has been moved ahead one hour on Thursday nights — to ten o'clock, E.D.S.T. Share the Wealth, however, will be broadcast at the usual time, 8.30 Saturday nights. Blended Rhythm also stave in its accustomed Tuesday night 8.30 time. We will pass along news of further expected changes. Freddie Martin, whose sweet band was the sensation of 1941, really has the knack of picking the 'Splotlight' tunes: He was the first hath authority on earth to forgive sins (he saith to the sick of the palsy), 11. I say unto thee, Arise, take up thy bed, and go unto thy house. 12. And he arose, and straightway took up his bed, and went forth before them all, insomuch that they were all amazed, and glorified God, saying, We never saw it on this fashion." Strange it was that these so-called spiritual leaders of the people should be so bitterly opposed to the One who was bringing such great spiritual blessing to multi-tudes of people, which they them-selves could not confer. But Jesus knew how to silence their questionings. Of course only God could forgive sins. His declaragiven had to do with an inner matter, and his critics could deny accomplished. But for this man, helpless with paralysis for year to now stand up, leave his bed and walk away, was an external fact, which no man could deny. Jesus certainly meant, by per-forming this miracle, that He, whe had power to deliver this man from his paralysis, was also the One, and only One, who had christicic. Many people have more money to spend now than they have had for many years. This is the time they may be tempted to purchase things which they will soon discover are just white elephants and of little use in their households. Although it is fun to spend money, war is a grim business and aw is the time to save, not spend. There will be enough goods in Canada to go around only if people do not buy extravagantly but are sureful in their purchases. Now is the time to save money for war savings' stamps, certificates and bonds. Save money to win the war and when it is won and the industries again begin manufacturing for civilians—spend those savings and keep the wheels of business turning.

Britain Sets Record For Seed Production

Great Britain's extensive sugar beet war crop has been harvested this year entirely from seed grown at home says the St. Thomas Times-Journal. Before the war, almost half of the country's sugar beet seed came from abroad; the war has so developed home production that Britain will continue to support herself in sugar beet when peace returns. This year, with fewer workers and remarkably bad weather, she is producing a larger acreage of
