AGNES MADE IT BUT FARMERS FAILED

The Federation of Agriculture didn't get much of a boost on Tuesday evening, when Agnes McPhail, ex-member of parliament and newspaper columnist, attended at the Jarvis Town Hall to speak on behalf of that organization.

We admit it was a bad night, probably the worst we will have this year, but on the other hand, we have heard pretty strong lamentations from some farmers regarding their position in our economic set-up. The lamentations have been so strong in some cases that we would have suspected many of the farmers to go through hell and high water to further the interests of any organization or group working in their behalf. The farmers come of sturdy stock, and we vividly recall tales of their forbears walking miles with grain on their backs to have it milled and then return to their homes by the same means of transportation with a hundred of flour. The forbears had to do this job because of necessity. If the farmers hope to better their position in relation to other workers in this great democracy, it seems obvious they too must do a job because of necessity. Accomplishment of this is not the work of a magician. It is a decided greater interest in their own affairs.

Surely no better speaker could have been killed by the Federation of Agriculture for their meeting in the Town Hall on Tuesday night than Agnes McPhail. She spent nearly twenty years in parliament and the farmer had no one championing their cause with greater fervor during that period than Miss McPhail. Since her defeat at the polls in 1938, she had conducted a tri-weekly farm column in the Toronto Globe and Mail. No one will deny that she is accomplishing much so far as the interests of the farmer is concerned. That is why it was disappointing Tuesday night to discover only farmers at the meeting called in by the Federation of Agriculture in Jarvis. Weather will be the excuse. It is unfortunate the weather was so bad, but too, we will have to go on saying the farmers position is unfortunate, until such time as they themselves are prepared to face the weather, and other classes do, to form a united front in demanding a justifiable share of Canada's National Income.

MILK BONUS BEING PAID FROM DEC. 22

SHIPPERS TO LOCAL FACTORY
WILL RECEIVE 40-C PER HUNDRED SUBSIDY

CREAM PRICE BEING CRITICISED

Milk shippers to the local Milk plant will be pleased when they receive their next payment checks, as the Government subsidy of 40c per hundred pounds went officially into effect on December 22nd. The Government subsidy will bring the price of milk testing 3.5 per cent. The subsidy payment is not affected by the test of the milk but will be paid on a straight weight basis. On a butterfat basis this means that the subsidy payments apply to milk being manufactured into milk powder, condensed and evaporated milk. It does not apply to milk being manufactured into cheese, butter or casein.

With a price ceiling placed on the price of butter to the consumer, it is almost impossible for the manufacturer to offer more than 38c per pound butterfat for churning cream. Therefore farmers producing milk and separating it at the farm are receiving a much lower price for their product than the farmer who is shipping whole milk to be manufactured for other purposes. Angry protests of discriminations are being heard from many farmers for years, and using the skim milk in hog production has been the usual excuse for the shortage of milk cans which now exists, and of the impossibility to separate milk from reliable sources however, that representations have been made to the Government for some equitable adjustment in milk and cream prices, and that an announcement of some action in this regard is expected in the near future.

PURCHASED DAIRY IN OTTAVIA

Mr. Fred Moore, who has been employed at the Marshall Dairy Ltd. for the past five years has purchased a Dairy in Ottawa and took over the plant last week. The Canadian Red Cross has purchased a Dairy in Ottawa and took over the plant last week. The Dairy is being run by Mr. Moore, who has had considerable experience in the Dairy Industry and is well qualified to assume the responsibilities attached to his new undertaking. He plans to move with his family to Ottawa in the near future.

The many friends of the family in Jarvis, will regret their departure, but wish for them success and prosperity in their undertaking.

WAR PRODUCTION BOARD IS NAMED

York, Jan. 5.—A War Production committee of the Haldimand Farmers Federation of Agriculture was named to-day by Roger Dennis, President, and Harry A. Hewitt, Secretary, with township chairmen as follows: Arthur Cowie, Seneca; William Walker, Moulton; Albert Ho- to, Sherbrooke; Sanford Stoen, South Cayuga; Arthur Albright, Dunn; Eugene Yager, Rainham; Earl Calderwood, Walpole; Edward James, Oneida; Morley Coverdale, North Cayuga and Carleton Place, Carleton Place. The new committee was named in co-operation with the provincial department of agriculture, as the serious shortage of farm help and other problems arising out of the war make it necessary that those left on the farms produce all possible in the present emergency.

NOTICE RE SNOW REMOVAL FROM SIDEWALKS

In view of the fact many complaints have been made regarding the removal of snow from sidewalks, citizens are hereby notified, that under the provisions of a Snow Removal By-Law of the Village of Jarvis, the Council is authorized to have the snow removed and the cost of such work charged against the property owner. It is not the wish of the Council to carry out the provisions of this By-Law, and citizens are therefore requested to co-operate and keep the sidewalks adjoining their property clear of snow.

JARVIS WAR FUND DROPS CHARTER

The Jarvis District War Fund was released from its Charter under the Canadian War Services Act last week after functioning for more than a year.

Organized locally in 1940 to amalgamate the collection of funds for the various war services, the Fund accomplished the purpose set out to achieve with efficiency, and curtail the usual five or six drives for funds to one. The organization was set up under the Canadian War Services Act and operated under Charter from the Canadian Government.

Rev. W. H. Fuller was President, A. B. Blight, Secretary Treasurer. These men along with their committee deserve credit for a job well done.

The following is a complete statement of receipts and expenditures, and it is gratifying to note that administration costs was only 1.6 per cent of the money handled.

Winston Churchill At Ottawa

BY A. L. MILLER

Tuesday, December 30, 1941, was a memorable day in Canadian history. The day Prime Minister Winston Churchill stood in the House of Commons at Ottawa and addressed a joint session of that Chamber and the Senate, as well as dignitaries and other high officials. Members of the Daily and Weekly Press were also privileged to hear this man at first hand.

It is seldom, if ever, a small weekly newspaper has a reporting assignment of such a nature. The task is made more difficult, because most readers through other mediums of transmission are already aware of the details of the visit in a broad sense. Our observations therefore, will not deal with routine details, but rather with personal impressions.

Your reporter motored to Toronto late Monday afternoon and was fortunate in securing accommodations on the night train to Ottawa. The pending visit of Winston Churchill was even evident in Toronto, particularly at the Union Station. Aboard the train were three classes, Senators, Members of Parliament and Newspapersmen. The topic of conversation in the smoker was Winston Churchill. The usually decorous parliamentarians were in measure reminded of the looks of children at Christmas eve. No one seemed to want to retire on that train—probably they were afraid they would oversleep and not awake in time to be on hand for the greatest attraction in Canada.

The Churchillian atmosphere noticed in Toronto the day before was magnified many times in Ottawa, the busy City of Public Servants. Right here we were met with a realization of course, to the impetus to war work given those servants by the utterance of Winston Churchill that on that day at least the excited atmosphere of the City was a deterrent to sleep. That was to secure the priceless ticket to the Commons Chamber Armed with a telegram of invitation issued at the request of

Save Money For Duration Then Go On Spending Spree Is Advice Of Ex-Lady M.P.

In an open discussion with a half dozen persons at the Jarvis Town Hall on Tuesday night, Miss Agnes McPhail, said that in her public address to women audiences, she has been urging them to curtail spending while the war is on, and to go on a spending spree with their accumulated savings when demobilization takes place.

Miss McPhail said she viewed with a certain perplexity conditions which she believes will develop when the war is over. The thousands of men in our forces, as well as the thousands of people now busily employed in war industries, will cause a terrific strain on the labour market, when the people are no longer needed in the prosecution of the war. This strain, said Miss McPhail, will be eliminated to a degree, if the women of our country forego the purchase of consumer goods during the period of war, and then go into the market with their accumulated savings, when these thousands of people are required to find work in peacetime industry. Miss McPhail said she failed to see how a depression similar to that following the last war could be avoided, unless unforeseen developments take place. She also expressed her approval of the Co-operative movement, and said it is making great advances in Ontario. Sixty Co-operatives are now successfully operating. She also outlined the success of the Co-operative movement in Sweden, which country she visited a few years ago.

Miss McPhail spoke highly of the work of Mark Senn, M.P. for Haldimand in the interests of the Canadian farmer, in parliament. "He has a thorough understanding of Agriculture and we agree on all matters of Agricultural policy, except the tariff," said Miss McPhail. Due to the fact only eight persons were present at the meeting, Miss McPhail said she was disappointed on behalf of the Federation of Agriculture, who had sponsored her speaking engagement.

LARGE CLASS GRADUATE AT B.&C. SCHOOL

OBSERVERS AND GUNNERS INCLUDED IN NEW YEARS CEREMONY

O.C. COMPLIMENTS CLASS

"Go out and get the enemy before he gets you. You have had the best of training and you will get the best equipment in the world. Have no doubt about that." Group Captain G. E. Wait, Officer Commanding No. 1 Bombing and Gunnery School, R.C. A.F., at Jarvis, told a big class of observers and gunners who got their "AG" and "O" half-wings and Sergeant's stripes on Wednesday.

They went on New Year's eve into homes all over the Province because more were from Ontario in these two classes than has been the case in a long time at Jarvis.

Royal Air Force men from the British Isles, Americans from many States of the Union and Canadians from British Columbia to Nova Scotia were included in the classes.

They were the gayest crowd of young airmen the station has seen. Some of them were less than an hour out of training. Battling the weather and time to "get in under the wire" for New Year's and wings both, they worked hard until the last minute.

Group Captain Wait commended the classes for their effort. He said they had done a fine job under difficulties the weather occasioned. The instructors also had done well.

Two district graduates were John Frederick Myrick, Tillsonburg, and Robert Clive Stuart, both gunners.

AIRMEN INJURED IN CAR ACCIDENT

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bull are patients in the Simcoe Hospital as a result of injuries received in a motor accident on No. 3 Highway, just east of Hagersville, Thursday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Bull were returning home from Simcoe when their automobile collided head-on with an automobile in which three Air Force boys were riding. Mrs. Bull (nee Marjorie Grinter) received injuries to her face, a broken nose, cuts and scratches about the head and mouth. Mr. Bull was only slightly injured, receiving cuts and scratches about the face and hands. Their automobile was badly damaged. The other car was driven by Cpl. Carley, of this Hagersville Squadron, and the other occupants were Sgt. Goulet and Porter of the Jarvis School.

Mrs. Bull suffered considerably from loss of blood and it was necessary to administer a blood transfusion on Thursday. Although her injuries were quite painful, Mrs. Bull is resting as comfortably as could be expected, although she will be confined to the hospital for a few days. Mr. Bull is expected to leave the hospital this week.

SKATING RINK NOW OPEN FOR SEASON

Roy Hazlett was able to open the rink for skating on Monday night, after very suitable weather for ice making over the week end. Many skaters were on hand opening night and every night since.

A good sheet of ice has already been made and if the present snap continues the usual difficult task of getting a good ice surface will be accomplished. The rates for skating are the same as in previous years, and we hope the management enjoy a successful season through the patronage of local skaters.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

A. L. Miller, Esq.,
The Record,
Jarvis, Ontario

Dear Mr. Miller:

May I take this opportunity of expressing my sincere appreciation of the fine co-operation and assistance extended by your publication in recent months in supporting the War Weapons Drive.

One of the chief contributions to this phase of our war effort was the excellent support and generous allotment of space provided by newspapers throughout the country for feature articles, news items and typewritten advertisements.

The newspapers have rendered invaluable help in their editorial and news columns and in no small measure, are responsible for the success already achieved by the War Savings Movement.

Yours very truly,
J. L. ILSLEY
Minister of Finance

Ordinary Seaman Jeeves

by Judith Robinson

Just so nobody forgets who is taking this war for the rest of us: This is why the King has given the George Medal for brave conduct to Stephen Robert Jeeves, "body-maker's assistant, Southern Railway (now serving as Ordinary Seaman R.N.).

A large number of incendiary bombs fell on a railway station and inspection sheds in which were six box wagons loaded with anti-aircraft shells and bombs. Two of the wagons caught alight, causing explosions in other wagons and the flying metal made the isolation of the blazing wagons dangerous. Jeeves led the attempt to subdue the blazing trucks of exploding shells. With two volunteers he ran forward with a hose but had gone only a few paces when he was hit in the chest, fatally injured by a shell fragment. Jeeves carried on, but was eventually forced to give up because of the failure of the water supply. He then helped to deal with the other fires.

Having dealt with them, body-maker's assistant Jeeves went, as above, and joined the Royal Navy as an ordinary seaman. Somebody should remember it to tell to Mr. G. Wodehouse later, when he tries to return from his stay at the Hotel Adlon, Berlin.

Even though Mr. Wodehouse never, let us pray, to return to the United States, it is not likely that Seaman Jeeves will. When the chances are he is going to being a body-maker's assistant, forget he saved all of us and all our hopes.

But that's different. Ordinary Seaman Jeeves has the right to forget it. The rest of us haven't.

Russia proved quite a problem for some of the local conductors in charge of Canada's day of prayer. Where this reporter was, the conductor started strong with a couple of warm invitations to Omnipotence to look after us and the United States. On the heathen Chinese he missed fire at first, but remembered Chiang Kai-Shek "that great leader and Christian gentleman" in time to recover and put in a useful invocation for Chiang. Then he came to Russia and stalled.

Starting again on a questing note, "What shall we say about Russia?" he enquired, but didn't get a lead. So he went ahead on his own and prayed that the people of Russia may be improved by their present association with us.

The solution of a delicate problem in inter-alleied spiritual relations appeared to be generally acceptable but caused discomfort here and there. As the best that could be offered on behalf of comforters, citizens new come out of a year where both their freedom and their skins had been saved for them by Russia, it seemed to lack something. A dash of humility perhaps. People that have been acknowledging their fathers as God in theory as long as we have, and getting no nearer the brotherhood of man in practice, could be little less sure that association with us must constitute moral promotion for a Russian.

Or could they?
