LESSON 28
Adam and Eve: Temptation and Sin, Genesis 3.

Golden Text: "The soul that sinneth, it shall die. Ezekiel 18:4."

The Lesson in Its Setting
Time—We do not know when the temptation of our first parents took place, except that it was near the very beginning of human history.

1. "Now the serpent was more subtle than any beast of the field which Jehovah God had made. (b) And he said unto the woman, 'Yea, hath God said, 'Thou shalt not eat of any tree of the garden?'" It is Satan's desire always to ruin what God has done, and now to keep God from redeeming man. It is his purpose, on this occasion, to make man as Satan is himself, that is, one who disobies and rebels against God. He cannot expect our first parents to rebel against God without a process of weakening, leading up to such disobedience. Satan attempts, and successfully, to instill doubt in the mind of the woman regarding the word of God. This is the way Satan has always attacked the heart of man, to get him to doubt that God has spoken.

2. "And the woman saith unto the serpent, 'Of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden, God hath said, 'Thou shalt not eat of it, lest thou die.'" What the woman should have done, was immediately to denounce Satan for his subtle instigation, and tell him that her trust was in God. Instead of that she began to argue with him.

3. "And the serpent said unto the woman, 'Ye shall not surely die.'" When a person believes sin will not be punished, he will dread of punishment is removed, and the greatest deterrent from sin loses its restraining power.

4. "And when the woman saw that the tree was good for food, and that it was a delight to the eyes, and that the tree was to be desired, because it was said, 'Thou shalt not eat thereof, that she ate.'" Satan appeals to the woman by telling her that if she ate of this fruit, the knowledge she will thereby acquire will be of such greatness, and of such a nature, that she will become like God. This appeals to the woman's pride. This desire to be like God has always been a powerful factor in the history of fallen humanity.

5. "And when the woman saw that the tree was good for food, and that it was a delight to the eyes, and that the tree was to be desired, because it was said, 'Thou shalt not eat thereof, that she ate.'" Satan appeals to the woman by telling her that if she ate of this fruit, the knowledge she will thereby acquire will be of such greatness, and of such a nature, that she will become like God. This appeals to the woman's pride. This desire to be like God has always been a powerful factor in the history of fallen humanity.

6. "And when the woman saw that the tree was good for food, and that it was a delight to the eyes, and that the tree was to be desired, because it was said, 'Thou shalt not eat thereof, that she ate.'" Satan appeals to the woman by telling her that if she ate of this fruit, the knowledge she will thereby acquire will be of such greatness, and of such a nature, that she will become like God. This appeals to the woman's pride. This desire to be like God has always been a powerful factor in the history of fallen humanity.

7. "And the serpent said unto the woman, 'Ye shall not surely die.'" When a person believes sin will not be punished, he will dread of punishment is removed, and the greatest deterrent from sin loses its restraining power.

8. "And when the woman saw that the tree was good for food, and that it was a delight to the eyes, and that the tree was to be desired, because it was said, 'Thou shalt not eat thereof, that she ate.'" Satan appeals to the woman by telling her that if she ate of this fruit, the knowledge she will thereby acquire will be of such greatness, and of such a nature, that she will become like God. This appeals to the woman's pride. This desire to be like God has always been a powerful factor in the history of fallen humanity.

9. "And Jehovah God called unto the man, and said unto him, 'Where art thou?'" And he answered, "I heard thy voice in the garden, and I was afraid, because I am naked; and I hid myself. And thou saidst, 'Who told thee that thou hadst eaten of the tree of which I commanded thee that thou shouldst not eat?'" And the man said, "The woman whom thou gavest to be with me, she gave me of the tree, and I did eat. And the woman said, 'The serpent deceived me, and I ate.'" Adam not only blames the transgression on his wife, but really puts the blame on God, for he speaks of Eve as the woman whom God had given to him. The woman blamed the serpent, she also showing

New Power to Move War Traffic

THIRTY-five fast and powerful locomotives of the latest type are rolling out of the shops to speed up war traffic over the Canadian National Railway, R. C. Vaughan (right), President of the National System, accompanied by John Roberts, Chief of Motive Power and Car Equipment (left) and other officers, inspected the first of these engines. The resident was keenly interested in the cab interior which includes new features designed by Mr. Roberts and members of the Motive Power staff.

His access to the source of perpetual life is barred by a guard consisting of the cherubim and the flame of a sword. The flaming sword is the visible form of the sword of justice and the cherubim are the ministers of the divine presence and judgment—of his presence which was not entirely withdrawn from man; and of his judgment, by which he was excluded from the garden of delight.

The Burma Road was tentatively surveyed more than 100 years ago but was not opened until 1939.

5. "For you do know that in the day you eat thereof, then your eyes shall be open, and you shall be as God, knowing good and evil." Satan appeals to the woman by telling her that if she ate of this fruit, the knowledge she will thereby acquire will be of such greatness, and of such a nature, that she will become like God. This appeals to the woman's pride. This desire to be like God has always been a powerful factor in the history of fallen humanity.

Convoy System Reduces Losses

Drop in Ship Sinkings Along Atlantic Seaboard

The U.S. Navy disclosed last week that for the past month it has been conveying merchant vessels along the Atlantic seaboard with great success. The number of ships lost to Axis undersea raiders, there has been an appreciable drop in ship sinkings in the area during recent weeks, a decrease believed due largely to escort vessels and the Navy's off-shore plane and ship patrols.

The Navy Department had no comment beyond its brief announcement that "the Navy has been conveying merchant ships through the lanes of the eastern seaboard for approximately the past month."

"The frontier" covers the entire coastline from Florida to Maine. Of the 150 United States ships lost to Axis undersea raiders, 115 were lost in the area between the 31st and 35th parallels, and 35 were lost in the area between the 35th and 39th parallels.

While the Atlantic sinkings are decreasing, there has been an accompanying increase in submarine attacks in the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean.

It is understood the convoy system will be extended to those areas soon.

Some interesting sidelights: Dennis Day, more or less on holiday, while the Benny show was playing on the radio, is doing himself right proud, with guest appearances on many of the network summer shows.

Columbia's famed radio reporter and news analyst, Elmer Davis, has become head of the newly created Office of War Information by appointment.

Deliquency among juveniles has shown a sharp increase, due to wartime conditions, according to Justice H. S. Knox of the Toronto Family Court, but the Boy Scout movement is providing an effective means for combating this trend.

A 1200-acre wooded camp site located near the Canadian border across the Dominion from the Boy Scouts of the Adirondack region of New York. The camp was built by the Boy Scouts of America.

A Camp Call to Scouts across the Dominion to overcome the wartime problems involved and secure a fortunate campaign for the Boy Scouts Association.

The object is to ensure both the physical and mental benefit of changed surroundings and the full outdoor life, particularly for the younger Scouts. Older Scouts not otherwise employed will be working on farms. For these are recommended camps in locations from which the boys can go to their farm work, thus combining farming and scouting.

It may be possible to locate such camps on farms where the boys can help with berry picking and other light farm work. Chairmen of Scout groups committees are called upon to do everything possible to arrange camps and to secure the needed camp leaders.

More than one-fifth of the human race is Chinese.

House Flies And The Garbage Can

Many Diseases are Carried by the Proliferous Pest

Now is the time to kill the house fly. One sanitary habit estimated that a pair of flies beginning operations in April may be the progenitors, if all were to live, of sufficient flies to cover the earth 47 feet deep by August, says Stratford Beaton-Herald.

Instead of pinning garbage in dumps where rats, flies and other insects multiply, municipalities should, of course, incinerate waste materials that have no salvage value.

Heaps of decaying onions, other vegetables, grass clippings and fruits as well as decaying straw and weeds will also breed flies. Such breeding places should be sprayed with oil or kerosene.

The chief importance of the house fly as a carrier of disease. Not only do its hairy legs pick up disease germs, but its filthy feeding habits result in contamination of everything it touches. Typhoid fever, eye disease, parasitic worms, Summer complaint and tuberculosis are some of the diseases carried by house flies.

The proper protection and disposal of garbage is a primary concern. All windows and doors should be screened. Fly traps, sticky papers and fly papers all have their place. A very satisfactory poison bait is made of two teaspoons of formaldehyde to a pint of milk and water mixed half-and-half.

A small piece of bread or a small piece of meat, saturated with the mixture, leaving a little liquid in the saucer. Excess of the mixture should be wiped up with a cloth.

Presenting a list of ideas for your mint holiday: 1 cup vinegar, 1/2 cup water, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 cup lemon juice, 1 to 3 teaspoons spearmint extract or 1 cup mint leaves.

Measure vinegar and water into large preserving pan; mix; add enough coloring to give the desired shade and stir until dissolved. Add sugar and bring to a boil over medium fire and boil constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard for 1 1/2 minutes. Remove from fire and add one to three teaspoons spearmint extract or 1 cup mint. Let stand 1 minute; skim and pour into sterilized jars. Seal with paraffin. If the fresh mint leaves are used add 1 cup chopped leaves to the vinegar before boiling. Remove the leaves when skimming the jelly.

To one small bunch of fresh mint add 1/2 cup sugar and 1/4 cup strain. Crush leaves and allow to stand for about one hour. Strain and add to 1 pint ginger ale, one cup grape juice and juice of three lemons. Pour over crushed ice and garnish with fresh mint leaves.

Mint Sauce: 1/2 cup mint leaves, 1/2 cup water, 2 tablespoons sugar. Stir until the sugar is dissolved. Pour over mint and let stand at back of range for about 30 minutes.

Mint Chutney: Mint, Seeded raisins, Salt.

United Nations Prayer
God of the free, we pledge our hearts and lives today to the cause of all free mankind.

Grant us victory over the tyrants who would enslave all free men and nations. Grant us faith and understanding to cherish all those who fight for freedom as if they were our brothers. Grant us brotherhood in hope and union, not only for the space of this bitter war, but for the days to come which shall mark the end of the reign of evil.

Our earth is but a small star in the great universe. Yet of it we can make, if we choose, a planet untroubled by war, untroubled by hunger, and free from the scourge of man's spirit. Grant us the wisdom and the vision to comprehend the greatness of man's spirit, that suffers and endures so nobly for a goal beyond his own brief span. Grant us honor for our dead who died for the faith, redemption and security for all captive nations and peoples. Grant us patience with the deluded and pity for the betrayed. And grant us the will and the valor that shall electric the world of oppression and the old man doctrine that the strong must eat the weak because they are strong.

Yet most of all grant us brotherhood, not only for this day, but for all our years—a brotherhood not of words, but of acts and deeds. We are all of us children of earth—grant us that simple knowledge. If our brothers are oppressed, then we are oppressed. If they hunger, we hunger. If their freedom is taken away, our freedom is not secure. Grant us a common faith that man shall know bread through, faith to 4, 6, 8 and 10, 10 to 1, 20 to 1—I've made even, 10 to 1, 20 to 1—I've made even, not only in our own minds, but in our hearts. And in that faith let us march toward a new world, our hands can make a better world.
