WHAT IS FARM RADIO FORUM?

ON NOVEMBER 8th, 1943 National Farm Radio Forum entered its fourth season on the air, and its third as a national listening group project. In these few years Farm Forum has become a sounding board for farm opinion and at the same time a national forum for the discussion of social and economic problems related to agriculture. In addition thousands of farm and city people listened regularly as indicated by their interest by one means or another.

Success of Farm Radio Forum is found in the fact that farm people have a desire to become better informed and play their part in the moulding of policies affecting agriculture. Nationally, Farm Radio Forum is the result of co-operation between the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, the Canadian Federation of Agriculture and the Canadian Association for Adult Education. In the provinces, actual organization of discussion groups is carried on by over 25 agencies including, university extension departments, provincial departments of agriculture and farm organizations.

The local forum has already provided the educational foundation for various types of community action—credit unions, cooperatives health services or whatever constructive democratic enterprise farm people wish to take.

If you are not already a member of a forum get a group of your neighbours together on Monday night in time to listen to the broadcast of Farm Forum; listen to it, then discuss among yourselves, the points which the broadcast brings up. Write down your findings and send them to the Provincial Forum Secretary. It is vitally important that a record of your findings be sent to your provincial forum representative. Only in this way can you pass on the benefit of your discussion to other forum groups in all parts of the country. Further information on the formation of local forum groups is contained in the Farm Forum Handbook and in the weekly Farm Forum Guide. Both of these publications may be obtained by writing to the Provincial Secretary, Farm Radio Forum, or to the National Secretary, Ralph Staples, 71 King Street West, Toronto.

CHEAPER HYDRO FOR FARMS

GOOD NEWS for hydro users in the rural parts of Ontario was contained in the announcement last week of the adoption of a uniform power rate for all rural areas and the elimination of service charges to farmers. The new rates are to become effective January 1st next and will affect some 120,000 rural users. The adjustment and simplification of rates will bring cheaper current to farms, hamlets and rural users, resulting in an estimated saving of over half a million dollars. This will be accomplished without any increase for urban consumers. The change in rates according to Premier Geo. Drew was made possible by the introduction of more efficient methods of handling rural power distribution. The change also conforms with a resolution introduced by the Progressive-Conservatives at the last session of the Legislature and implements part 13 of its 22-point election program.

As has been said by Premier Drew: "No expenditure made by the farmer produces greater financial returns than the money he pays for electric energy."

PROFITABLE RELAXATION

AUTUMN is now turning into winter, and the evenings are growing longer—evenings which can be spent pleasantly or dullly. Dwellers in our smaller communities sometimes complain of a lack of "something to do" in the months when outdoor relaxation activities are cut to a minimum. Although it is true that the little towns do not provide all the ready-made means of entertainment which are present in the cities, there is no real reason to complain. The number of ways in which an individual may enjoy himself is not limited by the size of the place in which he lives.

One way to enliven the winter season, for instance, is in the production of amateur theatricals. The art of the theatre should not be considered as something native only to the brightly-lit streets of a metropolis. It is something that may just as well be fostered in the smaller centres and with equal artistic success.

Striking proof of this statement was afforded at the Dominion Drama Festival staged at London, Ont., in April, 1939. Here a 55-year-old farmer, Robert Haskins, from the tiny town of Clive, Alta., was adjudged the best male performer at the festival for his portrayal of the difficult role of the landowner in Chekhov's "The Bear." Newspaper interviews with the hero of "the confaguracous little troupe from Clive" which had competed with honors against the best amateur showmen in Canada, noted him as saying after winning the award: "I have been raised to the seventh heaven. The Clive people say "Where there's a will there's a way." Success depends upon what one does with his idle moments. I went into the play to take up my idle moments in the winter time. The annual Dominion Drama Festival is, of course, a war casualty. But there is little doubt that it will be revived in the peacetime years once again to offer a chance for the little theatre groups all across Canada to gain recognition. Now is the time to build up such groups.

The pessimist may argue that shortage of the proper facilities in the smaller centres prevents worthwhile productions. This is only partly true. When handicapped by a small stage or poor lighting, a good amateur director often can turn disadvantage to profit by employing ingenuity in staging and lighting effects.

Admittedly dramatics is only one outlet for the energies of those who want to take part in artistic enterprises and at the same time enjoy themselves thoroughly. But it's a good one. Try it out.

CANADA'S NATIONAL PARKS

ONE OF Canada's distinctions is the possession of the largest national park in North America, Jasper Park in the foothills of Alberta, a 4,200 miles in extent. From Nova Scotia to British Columbia in every province the Dominion Government has wisely set aside 29,704 square miles for scenic, recreational and historic parks and game preserves. Most of these provinces as well maintain provincial parks for the protection of wild life and as recreational centres.

The people in the vicinity are chock-full of enthusiasm for these parks, but it is doubtful if those who are farther afield reflect as much appreciation for areas which preserve untouched the vastness and variety of the Dominion's lands. As Canadians we should take more note of such national possessions and cultivate more justifiable pride in them.

Seven hundred miles of highway and 3,000 miles of rail lead to and through these parks. In spite of increasing travel difficulties the number of visitors to Canadian national parks is holding up well. In 1942 more than 1,265,500 persons visited Banff Park in Alberta, and figures for other parks are similarly impressive.

With the opening of the Alaska Highway to civilian travel after the war there is a proposal to set aside a huge area as a national park so that scenery and animal life typical of the country may be kept as they were before communications made it a background of civilization.

These regions are dedicated to the people of Canada for their benefit, education and enjoyment. They provide opportunities for outdoor life and recreation as well as preserving wild animals and plants in their natural habitat. In addition they are an outstanding lure to visitors and in normal times they are visited by thousands of tourists and nature lovers from every part of the North American continent.

At the moment almost a third of the visitors are men and women from the other Dominions, including many airmen from Britain and the other Dominions.

DO YOU remember the month and the year the last Dominion Election was held? If you are an average memory, you probably will make a close guess, but you won't be sure you are right. This is just one more instance that shows how fallible our memories are even when it comes to recalling the most important events.

Some business concerns are still blithely carrying on without having advertised during these war years, fully expecting to capture their old markets when peace comes.

But will they? Experience shows that, as an average, they won't be very successful in doing so. Other products, competitors' brand names will be fresh in the minds of Mr. and Mrs. Consumer when they go to buy—products that have been consistently advertised.

Shifts in ownership and management will alter many old sales relationships. New personalities will be cultivated. Surviving retailers will remember the emergency either who helped them through the emergency either with a share of the goods available or at least a friendly letter when no merchandise was available.

And in case you're still wondering about the last Dominion Election: it was held March 26th, 1940.

Anyone with an ounce of brains, including our statesmen, would be willing and ready to admit that where we can get billions for slaughter we can get billions for Social security. Then why haven't we had it in the past hundred years or so? Because definitely we're split within ourselves. We let the other fellow do it for us, provide the candidates for us, and so on. We maintain that if our system has inequalities and very like those of the other fellow, we demand it—not by groups, but as a body. Politics is necessary fuel to keep our economy, social and industrial, burning—but when groups use politics to selfish ends, it then defeats its own end eventually. Too many people show a flagrant apathy in politics, and also too many ride it for what it is worth only.

AT THE ANGLICAN CHURCH

The Broadway Anglican W.A. met at the home of Mrs. Hagan on Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. McNeill, the President, Mrs. Furlong, the Secretary, read the minutes, during which the Treasurer, Mrs. McNeill, the members took part in singing and the Red Cross work. The Financial report was read by Mrs. Richardson. Mrs. McNeill gave a report on the Social Evening, and arranged for a card party to be held on the following Monday. Mrs. Hagan and Mrs. Mitchell sang very beautifully the lovely hymn entitled "In The Garden."

The meeting concluded with prayer and the singing of a hymn. The organist, Mrs. Goocher, presided at the organ. The hostesses assisted by Mrs. Barker and Mrs. Mitchell, served a very delightful lunch. Mrs. Goocher kindly offered her home for the next meeting.

The W.A. of St. Paul's Church, Jarvis, met on Thursday afternoon. The President, Mrs. Leathome, opened the meeting with prayer. Mrs. Dossler called the roll, after which Mrs. Martin read the minutes of the last meeting.

The President spoke on the collecting of the pie plates, a novel idea which she instituted to help further the missionary effort. Arrangements were then made for a Pot Luck Supper to be held at the Parish Hall on December 9th. Mrs. Brett gave a very interesting address on the subject of the "Bread of Life and Hardships of Missionaries."

The meeting closed with prayer. Mrs. Carson served very delightful tea.

The W.A. of Christ Church, Nanticoke, held a very successful Bazaar and afternoon tea on Tuesday in the Parish Hall. The members were delighted with the presence of visitors from Jarvis, Chesapeake and Broadway. At the close of the bazaar, Mrs. T. Snowden, the President, reported that every article had been sold, all money going into the fund in aid of missions. The committee consisted of Mrs. T. Snowden, Mrs. Luck Supper, after which an Auction Sale was held, ably conducted by Mr. Warren Jackson and all present taking part. A social evening followed and card games were enjoyed.

On Monday of this week the clergy of the Jarvis, Halton and Hamilton Dioceses met in the Rectory of St. Paul's Church, Jarvis. The meeting opened with a service of Holy Communion in the Church. The service was taken by the Reverend J. E. Maxwell, assisted by the Reverend G. M. W. Smith of Byng. The Reverend Allan Hill, Rural Dean of Halton and the Reverend J. E. Maxwell, of Jarvis, were also present.

Following this a short business meeting was held and in the afternoon the Reverend G. M. W. Smith of "Rural Pastoral Work."

The Ladies Aid met at the home of the President, Mrs. Charles Powell on Wednesday, December 1st, for election of officers and concluding the year's business. "Watch and Pray Always" was the theme of the evening. Dr. Walker presided.
