Under ordinary circumstances farmers might not be thinking of seed grain for the 1944 crop this early. However, these are not ordinary circumstances and it becomes imperative that we, as Haldimand farmers make our arrangements for seed now.

BRIEF NOTES FOR THE BUSY FARMER

If you have not sufficient good grain for seed let your needs be known now. See if your neighbour has any to spare. If he has none telephone or write or call at the office of your agricultural representative at Cayuga and make your requirements known. There is no need for bringing in any more seed than is necessary. Freight costs will tend to increase the cost of seed. Let us, therefore, use as much of this home grown seed as possible providing it is of seed quality.

CANADIAN PACIFIC GOES ALL OUT IN WAR.

The phases of the Canadian Pacific Railway's war effort are manifold and far-reaching. On land on sea and in the air, the company is making a vast contribution toward ultimate victory. Trains haul untold tons of vital war materials

More than 14,000 members of the company's peacetime personnel are now on active service and to help fill the gaps thus created at home, women workers are coming increasingly to the fore in taking men's places. They serve as car-checkers and "call-boys" and some have already invaded the round-house—a once-exclusively male territory—as engine wipers, and some even nurse ambitions to drive engines one day.

Canadian Facific Air Lines, besides flying passengers, freight and mail, also operates six air observer schools and one elementary flying training school in conjunction with the Royal Canadian Air Force as part of the British Commonwealth Air Training Scheme to make a major contribution to the Empire's fighting air power.

At company shops, the shews of war are manufactured; at one big shop, Valentine tanks were made; at another, naval guns are being turned out.
