ENTHUSIASM-

ENTHUSIASM IS the greatest asset in the world. Single handed the enthusiast convinces and dominates where a small army of workers would scarcely raise a tremor of interest.

Enthusiasm tramples over predjudice and opposition - spurns inaction - storms the citadel of its object - and like an avalanche, overwhelms and engulfs all obstacles.

Enthusiasm is faith in action; faith and initiative rightly combined removes mountainous barriers and achieves unheard of miracles. Look at the results of the Commonwealth Air Training Plan. Look at the accomplishments of the North African army under General Montgomery.

Once the germ of enthusiasm is set affoat it spreads like a contagion. Every good cause should have the unbounded enthusiasm of all. No cause on the home front should inspire enthusiasm like the fifth Victory Loan which will get underway next month. Enthusiasm in this great drive will achieve the necessary results; it will give joy and pleasure to those sharing the enthusiasm, and besides it will pay dividends in the years to come.

AN ABERDONIAN and a Yorkshirema foregathered in Hull. They discovered they were both thirsty, but neither of them had any money. A bright thought struck the Yorkshireman: "I know a barmaid who is very forgetful. If you engage her in conversation she can't remember being paid or not. I'll go and see if it will work." In he went and in a short time came out to find Jock patiently waiting. "Weel, hoo did ye get on?" lock, you go in and try it." In Jock went and after ordering his glass of whisky, he engaged the barmaid in an interesting conversation, and after ten minutes had passed, he casually remarked. "Ah weel, I'll hae to be go-Whit aboot my change?"

V V V "THE RESIDUE OF THE ABNORMAL"-

THE RESIDUE of the abnormal - chronidlers, shirkers and obstructors - would be dealt with, along with other mentally unfit persons, in corrective institutions." That is not a quotation from Mein Kampf or from a Gestapo manual -- although it might well have been derived from one of those sources. It is contained in one of a series of editorial articles on "Planning Postwar Canada" that have appeared in The Canadian Forum, the highbrow organ of the C.C.F. Party.

"The residue of the abnormal" is particularly good. An Oxford Englishman might say 'It is extremely funny, by Jove!" But it was obviously coined by the delicate hand of a female socialist or a professor of the same ilk, and a humorous interpretation can therefore be dismissed. The same applies to the words "corrective institutions," which is the C.C.F. equivalent for "internment camps." These Canadian socialists are more refined in their terminology than the forthright Nazis, and their corrective methods as applied to "obstructors" of the C.C.F. postwar plan would, presumably, be a form of refined torture.

But there is something to be said for the Nazi method of shooting or chopping off the heads of the obstructors of the National Socialist plannings. It is more business-like and effective, and perhaps more humane. Anyway, the Forum's pronouncement on what will happen to the "obstructors" of the C.C.F. postwar plan should come as a timely warning to "the residue of the abnormal."

NEW STANDARD specifications for glass containers have been established by Board A-815, announced by the administrator of glass and glass products. In the future Canadians will only be able to make purchases of goods packed in glass containers in a variety of 28 standard types. Here is another example of the rare hardships imposed on this nation by the bureaucratic Boards at Ottawa. The order, it is said, will conserve metal required for closures. It should be possible however, for Canadians to manage Whose sturdy form must battle with the 28 standard types still on the market. THE UNITED NATIONS have come long way since 1939. The unconditional surrender of Italy marks the first one of the unholy trinity to crumple under their ever-increasing might. Canadians look forward more or less apprehensively to the end of the war. Then the great problems of peace terms, feeding Europe, which even now are beyond the comprehension of the average citizen, will be the responsibility of the United Nations at the conclusion of a control of the United Nations at the conclusion of a control of the seed and she four walls f conflict which will have demanded their utmost in effort and materials. Unquestionably the inclination will be to get through the aftermath as quickly as possible.

Field Marshall Viscount Wavell, Indian viceroy-elect, in a New Year's Message to his troops in 1941, said in part: "Have you ever thought what a world we could make if we put into peace endeavors the same energy, selfsacrifice and co-operation we use in the wastefulness of war?"

A chain is as strong as its weakest link, and the strength of a country and its determination for better things derives from its individual citizens. Should we not resolve now that WPB FILLERS we will increase for the duration our energy, self-sacrifice and co-operation and so strengthen these powers that when the war is ended we can carry them over into peace endeavors, and be ready to meet the post-war period with on his pet theories. V V V SENSE OF CITIZENSHIP-

THESE ARE TIMES when residents of any community might well ask themselves just where they stand on the matter of citizen- DON'T BEAT OURSELVES ship; by which is meant a consciousness of the privileges enjoyed as a member of a democracy with full appreciation of responsibilities those with full appreciation of responsibilities those our mouths shut on military matters; the other, that we haven't got privileges entail. Any town and district progresses only to the extent in which its residents recognize and live up to their responsibilities as citizens. This entails taking active part in all endeavors seeking to better living and working conditions in the community. The measure of personal success attained by any business man in any town for instance, is no criterion of his worth as a citizen of that town; unless he is actively taking part in organized efforts looking to the general welfare, he is stealing a ride at the expense of those who are co-operating. In such times as these, particularly, despite the tire and gas shortage, no matter how far one manages to go, there can be little satisfaction, surely, in stealing rides. -Pilot Mound Sentinal

ONTARIO FARMERS GIVEN POTENT VOICE

The new government of Ontario, implementing one of its pre-election promises, gathered nearly 400 farmers in Toronto last week and invested a committee of 21 chosen by the ed a committee of 21 chosen by the ed a committee of 21 chosen by the conference with more authority than possibly has ever been given to any farm group in Canada. This committee virtually has authority to draft the future agricultural policy of the Government, such a drastic departure from the usual that the experiment is bound to be watched with interest by all parts of Canada. There was no suggestion in the speeches of either Premier Drew of the food front premier of Agriculture and clear, the Minister of Agriculture made clear, the Minister of Carry the policies of county units to carry the policies of clear, its rectary the policies of clear, its rectary the

There was no suggestion in the speeches of either Premier Drew or Col. Kennedy, the Minister of Agriculture, that the committee which the conference was called to ame would merely be an advisory body. Here are Premier Drew's closing words: "The committee chosen will be given full powers and an opportunity to organize and plan for the production of food in this province. I believe this is the beginning of a new deal for agriculture in Ontario."

The Government had no part in the chosoing of the committee. It invited some 31 farm organizations to send delegates to a two-day meeting and when a nominating body reported selection of the permanent committee it was given unanimous.

The mass escape of Italy's sea strength from the clutches of the Germans was hailed in London as a major coup for the allies. All but two Italian cruisers were then said to have heen accounted for.

Berlin had claimed earlier that German bombers blasted an Italian naval formation which was attacking German shipping facilities.

If you missed getting your flock of sheep dipped last spring, do the job during September or October. There is an urgent demand for high quality wool for war purposes and this is a strong argument for a parasite-free flock. A clean flock requires less feed and is more easily kept in condition.
