HOME SAFE—

THE MOST thrilling news of the week was the announcement of the safe return of Prime Minister Winston Churchill to England, after a trip which lasted for six weeks on this side of the Atlantic.

There is little doubt but that most Canadian Citizens were beginning to wonder if the great Allied War Leader was safe or if something had happened to him in his travels. We can think of nothing that would lower the morale of the people of the United Nations more than to have something happen at this stage, to the Hero of the War. His leadership has put the determination and spirit to win into the hearts of the people he leads. His action in the face of dangers has been exemplary. He still retains that dash that characterized him during his younger years, and that we have had the benefit of his courageous and wise leadership during the difficult war years, is one thing for which we can forever give thanks with such a blessing.

SPEED THE VICTORY—

THE STAGE is almost set for another Victory Loan performance, with a cast including every Canadian Citizen with $2000 or more to invest in the success of the venture.

Finance Minister Halsey has announced the objective as $2,000,000,000, which is just double the amount of the first loan. The campaign is to open on October 18th and continue for a period of three weeks. Just how the increased National Objective will affect the objective for Halimand County is not yet certain. One thing is almost sure and that is that the objective of the last loan will be slightly increased.

The outcome of farm crops this year have been such as to do anything but add an encouraging note to the potential success of the fifth Victory Loan. However, we venture to say that on more than one occasion in this present war the Canadian troops have been ordered to take an objective with far greater hands than before them. Therefore what must our attitude be in this operation on the home front? It should be obvious — Take the objective, by all means, regardless of the seeming difficulties. What are those difficulties compared to mortars, machine guns and bombs. We must do our part. The boys on the front lines are doing theirs.

ADVERTISING THE FALL FAIR—

AN ADVERTISING piece of unusual local historical significance came into our hands this week, through the kindness of Leslie Smith, of Hagersville.

It is a large full sheet bill announcing the annual Agricultural Show of the Agricultural Society of the Township of Walpole for the year 1862. The bill is in an excellent state of preservation and the printing craftsmanship is a credit to the profession. It was done by the Sackem Office at Caledonia.

The setting for the event in the year 1862 was "Hemlock's Tavern" on the Stage Road. The bill gives a complete list of the premiums to be offered. The prize list includes sheep, horses, fat cattle, dairy cattle, swine, dairy products, fruit, domestic manufactures and agricultural implements. The highest prize offered was $400, and this was for the best farm team. Other prizes ranged from 50c to $200. The Society at that time also conducted an annual ploughing match, which is also announced on the same bill for later in the year.

How Agriculture Functions in the United Kingdom

The changing of agricultural Britain from a mainly grazing to a mainly arable country in order to save vital shipping space, and at the same time maintain the health of the people, has enabled the United Kingdom to usher in the fifth year of the war with the biggest crops ever harvested in that country. One of the factors of this great agricultural advance, states a recently issued official report, has been the flexibility of the administration, which is based on the direct policy of maintaining contact between the Minister of Agriculture and each individual farmer, so that the national production plan can be properly allocated throughout all farms in the country and the output of each farmer directly linked to the war effort.

Here is how the system works. Under the Ministry of Agriculture, which is assisted by regional agricultural officers, there are: (1) War Agricultural Executive Committees, the members of which include representatives of land owners, farmers and farmworkers. They are unpaid and function on a democratic basis, their powers including that of being able to compel any farmer falling below specific standards either to improve his farm or surrender it. (2) District Committees, appointed by the Executive Committees to represent

Four prizes were offered for a total of $1000. The President of the fair in that year was John Jones, and the Secretary, Treasurer, A. Thurlow. As a special added prize the person receiving the largest amount of cash for premiums, was given a free subscription to The Grand River Sackem for one year.

This historical document should find a valued place among the valuable possessions of the Halimand Historical Society.

INTERPROVINCIAL UNDERSTANDING—

THE WAR has given Canadian interprovincial understanding a boost unequalled since the days when easterners by the thousands travelled to the western plains to participate in harvesting operations. Today we have this movement and its counter equivalent in western farmers travelling east to extend a neighborly helping hand to their hard-pressed fellow farm toilers.

One of the unique results of this interprovincial fellowship is the insight it gives widely separated landowners throughout the nation into the problems and ways of living of their countrymen — an insight that is bound to bear fruit in postwar understanding.

The acceleration in knowledge of how the other fellow lives is evidenced in other ways through war conditions. French-Canadian and maritime servicemen have been sent all over western Canada and prairie and Pacific coast troops have taken up posts on or close to the shores of the Atlantic. Similar movements have taken place between Ontario and Quebec and other provinces.

Here and there throughout the country groups of workmen and women, sent to other parts to ease labor conditions and, incidentally, increase their knowledge of other sections of Canada.

These and similar migrations, temporary though they are, should have a profound effect on Canadian thinking in the after-war period. If you've wrestled at first-hand with the other fellow's problems you're going to be chary of dismissing them without a second thought when they are encountered in the press, in parliament or wherever citizens gather.

Then, too, much publicity has been given war enterprises in various parts of Canada. War-conscious citizens, eager to read anything with a bearing on Canadian capacity for making battle have lapped up eye-witness accounts of the enormous oil deposits in the Fort Norman sands, the difficulties of pushing through the Alaska Highway, the iron ore deposits at Sleep Rock, Ont., the Shipshaw power plant in Quebec and many other developments.

THE SAME QUALITIES—

THE JOB of being a civilian in war time is a hard one, carrying with it little in the way of recognition and a great deal of negative as distinguished from that of the man in uniform. In a timely editorial the Powell River "News" points out that the civilian is expected to work longer hours, to spend less on consumer goods, to refrain from unnecessary travel, to go without, to do his job with most uncomplainingly and make as little demands upon the country's economy as possible. The job of being a civilian carries responsibilities almost as grave as any with which the soldier is faced.

Very few civilians get medals or honors for being civilians. Their job is unglamorous, humdrum and far from dangerous. The responsibility of being a civilian rests in doing one's best voluntarily, in putting everything in to the service of one's country without thought of honors, is one of the greatest factors which the democracies have on their side in this war. The Axis can claim little voluntary support outside the ranks of the "parties" dominating those countries. So, without fanfare, the civilian is solely responsible for seeing that that voluntary effort is kept at a maximum, and that nothing he says or does will detract from the total effort. He must place himself in a secondary position. There must be no shopping around for better jobs, for higher pay, for more concessions. There can be only unrelenting hard work and complete absorption in the job ahead. The civilian's job in wartime is hard.

It takes a good man or woman to be a good soldier. It takes the same qualities to be a good civilian.

The Weeklies Say...

—By The Canadian Press—

STILL LONG ROAD

This further success (Italy's capitulation) must not blind us with exultation nor detract one iota from our perseverance and determination to win. Italy is not yet taken and it's still a long drive to Berlin and Tokyo.

—Lachute (Que.) Watchman

GERMANY STILL POWERFUL

This (Italy's capitulation) is a joyful news, yet it does not mean the end. Germany still has a mighty army and too many soldiers to be disarmed before peace can be assured.

—Pilot (Ont.) Gazette

WAR NOT SHORTENED

It is quite evident that the surrender of Italy will not shorten the duration of the war to any appreciable extent.

—Pembroke (Ont.) Bulletin

CHRISTMAS COMING

Time to think of filling Christmas bags for service men.

—Ganarone (Ont.) Reporter

NEW NICKLE UNPOPULAR

Those nickels that look like a Canadian coin are appearing in numbers in this town and are never seen a coin that deserves to be unpopular that is it. We hope that the mint at Ottawa will break down before it turns out another coin of that color and intend it for five cents.

—Trenton (Ont.) Courier-Advocate

LOCAL PLANNING NEEDED

We cannot honestly ask the federal government to assume responsibility for the war effort and at the same time condemn it for becoming a part of the war effort. We should aim, rather, at retaining with ourselves the local work and planning whenever possible.

—Kilmocks (B.C.) Sentinel

WANTS NO SUGAR COATING

Let us say but now that we believe the people of Canada should have all the news about the war effort — good or bad — but truthful at all times. There should be no sugar coating on war news.

—Kirkland Lake (Ont.) Northern News

WAR ELIMINATES MOONSHINE BOYS

Knoxville, Tenn. (CP) — The war has done something the United States Internal Revenue agents could not — eliminate moonshine moonshiners.

Investigator Homer A. Smith of the Alcohol Tax Unit gave these explanations: The hillbilly who once made the stuff is more likely to be found today in a war plant. The moonshiner's copper still has gone to the gray heap, and the rationing of sugar and other sweeteners didn't help at all.

—The Hillbilly

CRIMES OF WAR?

—By C. D. Clarke—

Who is going to pay for the crimes of this war? The atrocities, the outrages which have been perpetrated by Italy, Japan and Germany against the citizens of Allied Countries. Countries such as little Greece?

Time and time again we read, or hear speakers tell, of the toll which are going to exact in just payment for such barbarities. Just how, and when, and where, we are going to do this exacting is something no one can foretell.

An item from the London Telegraph states that "By sinking the one more to the Allied bombers, the graces which have been consistently granted the arms in every quarter of the far east. There could be no

AT THE 11 O'CLOCK SERVICE

The Value of That Boy will be the central theme.

In the evening service at 7:30 o'clock "More About the Aztecas of India" will be the subject of an address by the minister.

Important Future Dates—

World Communion Sunday, October 3rd.
Thanksgiving, October 10th.
Garnet Anniversary, October 17th.
Weesley Anniversary, October 31st.

AT THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Anniversary services at Chalmers Church, conducted by excellent weather, were well attended by the members and adherents, and by many friends visiting from a distance. Rev. John Wright, of St. Paul's Church, Simcoe, brought appropriate messages at both services. Special selections were sung by the male quartette and by Mr. Lloyd Wright, morning and night. Next year Chalmers will celebrate its One Hundredth Anniversary.

Rally Day will mark the Sunday School services at Knox and Chalmers churches. At the latter service, the Rev. David Smith, of Hagersville, will be the speaker.
