A GRAND SPOT

ONE OF THE most picturesque spots in this entire district is the Provincial Forestry Farm at St. Williams. More especially during recent years facilities for picnickers have been improved.

The station was opened in 1909 through the efforts of Arthur C. Pratt, then member of the Legislature for Norfolk County.

ON KNOWING CANADA

BECAUSE of farm labor shortages caused by the drain of manpower into the armed forces and war industry, the federal government is assisting in seasonal exchanges of workers between eastern and western Canada.

The immediate aim, of course, is to save crops which otherwise might go to waste. That is particularly important in view of war developments which indicate a growing need for foodstuffs of all kinds to care for the millions in liberated and soon-to-be-liberated areas of Europe.

But there is a long-term advantage in the plan which is not so apparent as the wider knowledge of Canada and its inherent possibilities for development which is being given to thousands of Canadian men.

Before the war harvest excursions to the prairies were arranged each autumn, with special low railway fares. Under the government's plan, the fares are reduced still lower for these farm workers; and the movement is in both directions.

The decision whether this scheme should be carried over into peacetime, naturally, with the federal government which helps meet the travel cost. Certainly the matter warrants earnest consideration, in the interests of all Canada.

Most of the workers who travel from west to east in the summer and those who accompany them back to the prairies in the early autumn for harvest work, are young. They pick up new ideas quickly, are keenly interested in the different farming methods, they encounter and in the viewpoints of another section of their vast country.

Particularly since the war began, there has been much talk in parliament and elsewhere on the need for national unity. That temporary exchanges of young men between east and west will foster unity goes without saying. The better understanding there is among the nine provinces, the better for Canada.

CO-OPERATIVES

WITH THE LAUNCHING of the Haldimand Farmers' Co-operative Association, the first step is being taken in this old Ontario County to follow a pattern of marketing which is now widespread throughout the Province of Saskatchewan.

According to some sources the establishment of Co-operatives has meant the saving of Millions of Dollars yearly to the people in the Province of Saskatchewan. That is so only by virtue of the fact that more people by becoming Co-operative members are taking the place of what has always been regarded as investors.

who intend to make use of the facilities, must recognize their responsibility of marketing a product that the management can dispose of to the advantage of its shareholders.

DEMOCRACIES FIRST

THE DEMOCRACIES, so it is said, are always stupid. Colin Clark, former lecturer in statistics at Cambridge, now Chief Statistician for Quebec and a very competent economist, gives us the relative, per capita income of eighteen different countries.

The others fall far below this level — for instance Japan 26. Perhaps the democracies are not so stupid. Canada stands close to the top, only 4 per cent. below the American level.

TRY IT IN YOUR FAMILY

WHEN SOMEONE approached Lycurgus, with a new idea for a popular government, and suggested that he establish it in Lacedaemon, the Spartan lawgiver replied: "Go, and first make trial of it in thy own family."

I was reminded of that saying recently while reading a chapter on "Social Planning" in a remarkable book by Dr. Henry C. Link, entitled "The Return to Religion," first published in 1936.

Dr. Link is a practicing psycho-analyst, and in his book he records numerous cases where people have consulted him about their personal problems.

"One of my most difficult cases," says Dr. Link, "was that of a young girl who was involved, with her mother, in a continuous quarrel centered around the ownership of their house and other financial matters which were becoming increasingly bitter."

Dr. Link says that he was tempted to ask the young woman, "How do you expect to stop in your own family, or in the world at large, wars between nations when you can't stop them in your own family?"

Arthur MacNanara, Director of National Selective Service, announced revisions to simplify the procedure for the issue of permits to seek and enter employment.

He took keen interest in compiling historical data and was an active participant in various local organizations.

Born near Ferguson, Ont., he was a graduate of the class of 1882 of the University of Toronto.

He taught in the high schools at Orlilla and Walkerton.

He took a course in the College Institute, Mr. Wright bought the Mount Forest Confederation, Grace and Jean of Mount Forest, and Anne, of St. Catharines. His wife died in 1928.

the purpose of the new form is to facilitate acceptance of employment by residents of rural districts and small towns, who still maintain the necessary wartime control over applicants living in such localities.

The new form, in addition to being an application for a permit, covers the standing of male applicants in regard to Mobilization Regulations.

Mr. MacNanara pointed out that
