EARL BRAY-

ANOTHER SON of the Jarvis district has given his life in the service of his country and for the future liberty of mankind. Earl Bray trained for the very important though dangerous duty of an Air Gunner. This was what he wanted to do, because he remustered for this training after first enlisting in the While battle service of any kind is essentially dangerous, we have always felt a pride in the courage of those who sought to Air Cunner. His job is all important and so recognized by enemy craft. In choosing to serve in this capacity, Earl Bray demonstrated that he possessed that infinite courage, which is a tribute to the character of so many young. Canadians serving in this war,

The entire community, particularly in the district of his home where he was born and raised, is saddened in the news confirmed last week by the Casualtics Officers, and deeply sympathize with his family in the sorrow they . V V V V

"SELF EXPRESSION"-

THE PRINCIPLE of "self expression" in youth training is a thing that has been creeping in gradually in recent years. We have heard of it, yet failed to fully appreciate the extent to which it is apparently practised in the most unsuspecting places.

To avoid misunderstanding, we want to go on record as believing that by sparing the rod, the child will most definitely be spoiled, and that the principle of "self expression" is contributing toward juvenile delinquency. Just how a parent can foresee greatness of character in a child, or envision him as a football hero in later years, simply because he likes to kick the stuffing out of the cat will remain a mystery to the writer. To some there apparently is great satisfaction in watching junior bully his playmates to gain the necessary grounding as a leader of men. We also fail to see any indication of self reliance developing simply because a child is a pastmaster in showing disrespect to his parents while still in juvenile years.

The birch rod, used justly, developed the characters of nearly all great men in the past, and unless the elementary laws of decency and respect are instilled in the mind of a child in the home, we can have little hope of the church and schools carrying out their further responsibility toward the well being of humanity.

FROM THE beginning of this global war the Canadian Red Cross has, through the support of its loval volunteers, shouldered the responsibility of caring for the wounded and needy; bringing comforts and supplies to the Armed Forces; seeing to it that dried blood serum is available on all battlefronts, and turning out clothing and surgical supplies in astronomical quantities.

Now, with the most critical phase of war looming up, there is a call upon the energies and resources of Canadian Red Cross workers, unique in all history. It is not only for the crisis at hand, that vast preparations must be made, but for the aftermath

For Canadian Red Cross services, contrary to some erroneous belief, will NOT ease down after the battle is won.....the Armistice signed. In reality the drain upon resources will be expanded many times over.

This is not like the last Great War, when some of the countries in Europe went unscathed. Europe is devastated......ravaged.....stripped of its possessions as by a swarm of locusts. The peoples of Europe are homeless. Their possessions are what they can carry in their pocketsor a pitiful little bundle. They have noth-

Not one item of supply turned out by Canadian women volunteers in Canadian Red Cross workrooms shall go to waste. Every smallest strip of material available will go toward the making of clothing and hospital supplies, and all the manifold necessities of just everyday living.

The Canadian Red Cross next week will ask for Ten Million dollars. This money will be dispensed with scrupulous care. It will be made to go a very long way. When you givegive for now......and what comes. Canadian Red Cross needs your help. Be Gen-

VVVV FEDERAL DEBT-

DOMINION financing during the war years has brought out such astronomical figures as to be just a bit frightening to the average citizen. The Government has undertaken tremendous borrowings and there is the thought in the minds of a good many -- can the ernment honour its obligations. This thought has been detrimental to the success past Victory Loans might have been. In the report of The Bank of Canada issued recently, Graham F. Towers gives about the subject that has yet been made. The Canadian Taxpayer will welcome the news that the interest charges on the Federal debt have only increased by 135 million dollars, namely from 169 million before the war, to 304 million at the present time. And better still, taking into acint the interest paid to the Government by the C.N.R. out of its net earnings and cash received by the Government on its investment i advances to organizations such as the Bank PRESTON FOSTER, of Canada, the foreign exchange control Board and the National Harbours Board, the net inter-

220 million a year as compared to 145 million at the outbreak of the war. Thus the net increase in public debt carrying charges is only 75 This is an effective answer to the pessimist demagogues and saboteurs who keep saying that our War debt is so colossal that we will never be able to pay it off, nor continue to pay the interest after the war. Based on the 1943 Budget of five billion five hundred million, total inter est charges represent only 5.5 per cent of this

A TURNING POINT OF EMPIRE-

REGARDLESS of any personal points view, there is no question that the proposals that Lord Halifax put forward in his recent speech to the Toronto Board of Trade, have certainly aroused an unprecendented amount of interest. In fact if editorial comment is any criterion, it probably ranks second to few events that have taken place during the war. It has already created a lively issue in both Houses of the British Parliament as well as on our own Capitol hill.

It is significant and, Canadians would be the first to admit, only right that a speech with such far-reaching Empire implications should be delivered in Canada. It stresses all the more the position in world affairs that Canada is attaining and emphasizes the importance which Empire leaders attach to the future role that this country will play. Whether we like it or not the "grandstand-quarter-back" role of prewar days will not be good enough after a war in which we have been in the thick of every huddle and actually called a good many of the plays ourselves.

Lord Halifax's address was interestingly With the tortuous road to victory ap parently coming to one of its last turnings and with people's thoughts everywhere on post-war plans, we seem to have come to another of those great crossroads of civilization. The world as we know it is at a point of tremendous change. In his speech, Lord Halifax put forward certain ideas which he must feel will help the Empire give the right kind of leadership in the colossal decisions that have to be made. This is what he must have meant when he said, "If we are to play our rightful part in the preservation of peace, we can only play it as a Commonwealth, united, vital and coherent. By so doing, and only by so doing, can we hope to achieve the highest purposes to which we are dedicated by the sacrifice and suffering of war."

Lord Halifax himself would be the last person to demand, or want, complete sheep-like agreement on the suggestions that he has made He is not getting it. And that is only right. He has, however, thrown down the gauntlet and clearly pointed out the decisions that have to be made and some of the issues that are at stake (This is the first of a series of three editorials dealing with some of the issues raised by Lord Halifax in his recent Toronto Board of Trade speech.)

The fjord-indented coast of Norway and the fcy waterways of the northern route to Murmansk and Spitzbergen will never be forgotten by thousands of British and Canadian sailors, soldiers and airmen. Fighters from many parts of the Empire together with American comrades in-arms now speak with an intimate knowledge of the complexities of life in the picturesque lands bordering on the Arabian and Red seas and the sandstorms of the barren North African desert.
