THIS WEEK

— By John C. Scott —
Canadian Press Staff Writer

C. B. Smith of the Creemore, Ont.
Star is the new president of the Ontario-Guelph division of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers' Association. He was elected in succession to John A. Marsh of the Amherst-burg, Ont. Echo at a wartime conference at Niagara Falls.

Mr. Marsh, who became honorary president told the gathering that many weekly newspaper plants will be forced to close in the coming year unless help is made available.

He said the association should seek permission from National Selective Service to permit the establishment of a clearing house for workers. He added: "Our experience with Selective Service has not been a happy one."

Other officers elected were: William Aylesworth of the Watford, Ont. Guide, Advocate, first Vice-President; Andy Curry, Towed, Ont.
News, second Vice President; and R.
A. Gies, Lachena, Que. Watchman, Secretary Treasurer.

Directors elected were: C. B. Smith
New Liskard, Ont. Speaker; L. B.
Cahoon, Picton, Ont. Gazette; C.
Anslow, Dundas, Ont. Star; D. R.
Wilson, Shawinigan, Que. Standard; Ron Wallis, Barrie, Ont. Examiner; T. E. Southcott, Exeter, Ont. Times Advocate; Laird Miller, Jarvis, Ont.
Record; Jack Pickell, Paris, Ont.
Star.

Winners in the annual competitions received their awards taken by the editorial page among members of the association. The prize view: E. T. Stephenson Memorial trophy for the best weekly published in towns of 4,500 or less awarded jointly to St. Mary's (Ont.) Journal-Argus, Bowmanville (Ont.) Canadian Statesman, Hamilton (Que.) Gas-ner and Dryden (Ont.) Observer.

Trophy for the best all-around newspaper published in towns of 1,500 or less, Stouffville (Ont.) Tribune.
An oil painting was presented to J. Alex. MacLaren, publisher of the Barrie, Ont. Examiner, past president of the C.W.N.A.

John Bracken, Conservative Conservative national leader, addressed the 250 weekly publishers and editors and said he thought what the world needed "is not a new religion but a re-statement of the old religion in the plain language that the man on the street understands."

He interpreted that as meaning "a job for every man, fair pay for every man, equity for farmers, fair treatment for enterprise, opportunity for youth, equality for women, economy for all — a world of peace for all."

great Offensive Opens In Europe

ALLIED LANDINGS ON NORTHERN COAST OF FRANCE SUCCESSFUL

First Step In Liberation Of Europe

In the early hours of Tuesday morning the great invasion of western Europe by the Allied Forces began. The tremendous armies of the Allies, supported by an umbrella of unprecedented strength, successfully transported troops, equipment and supplies to the beaches of France between Cherbourg and Le Havre. The invasion followed many nights of great aerial bombardment of the coastline when the Allies used defences, and also coincided with the fall of the Eternity City of Rome.

In addressing the House of Commons on Tuesday, Prime Minister Winston Churchill stated the objectives of the invasion. The Prime Minister said the invasion was supported by about 11,000 first-line aircraft, and that 4,000 ships with several thousand smaller craft had carried the invading forces across the choppy channel waters.
In the meantime strong home defences were concentrated at vulnerable points in the event of a counter attack.

Reports last evening indicated that the Allied Forces had established a beachhead of about sixty miles of coastline between Cherbourg and Le Havre. It was also reported that the Allies had captured a with two large German armies designed to meet the invading forces in a strong counter attack. Smaller counter attacks have been successfully turned back so far.

The invasion of the Allies was in some places, was by no means as grim as had been anticipated. The soldiers in the Allied Armies have already been returned to base hospitals in England.

According to German Radio reports the British parachute divisions were landed on the coast of France. The reports also stated that the British had captured a big part in the movement of troops.
Naval guns smashed coast fortifications which the Germans have spent four years preparing against the long anticipated "D" day. 640 sixteen inch, hurled in many tons of accurately placed shells. The commander of the British Navy force reported that the invasion was successfully light in view of the tremendous number of ships involved in the great move.

WEDDING

The wedding of Miss Frances Ma-music was played by Miss Kate Doyle and Misses Barbara Stoneman and Mary Helen Doyle sang during the ceremony.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The
