Carden Notes TRANSPLANTING

Successful transplanting depends on two factors (1) the purchase of sing the roots as little as possible to the air. Set out stock on a dull day or in the evening, say ae experts. Firm down the earth well around the plant, tree or what-ever is being transplanted, and water well. With big trees—six or seven feet high—this may mean play their part now in comforting and enlightening God's people, but like tomatoes or cosmos, a pint or of concerted movement.

There is a lot of transplanting onnected with gardening. In vegeables a great many things such as pers are usually bought as started plants from seedsmen or greenhouses and set out in permanent quarters, while almost any flowerperennial as well as annual-can be purchased in this way. The same, of course, applies to all nursery stock, fruit and ornamental trees,
