CHAPTER VIII
 Just wondered desperately if she could manage a faint, or a fit, or something to get Nancy away from the subject of her ring and her engagement. And she would have to do this up for a week. Each day would call for more details, probably if she could only go back to the morning when the kid had no idea...

ADmiral's DEPUTY

Appointment of Vice Adm. R. S. Edwards, above, to newly created post of deputy commander-in-chief of the U. S. fleet and deputy chief of naval operations will probably mean that Admiral Ernest J. King from his Washington desk job, permit him to go to Pacific combat areas.

HELP VIA HORSEBACK

CHRONICLES OF GINGER FARM By Gwendoline P. Clarke

Farm women rarely have their troubles when it comes to doing war work. Two or three weeks ago our Institute decided to hold a eucry and auction sale to raise money for war work. We also decided to make several quilts to be sold. But we didn't take corn into consideration. So, last Monday, when we had two quilts set up and were already to go, so were the corn-cutters! Regrets from Institute members were coming in wholesale—'So sorry, can't quit today. Filling silo tomorrow and I must get my baling done.' Or 'So that was that. The few of us who were not tied up with corn had to work that much harder. We struggled patiently with very sore fingers. We managed two quilts but gave up the ghost on the third.'

TO Make Politics Better: Take Part

Talking About What Should Be Done To Make Politics Better Is Not Enough

Mr. Elliott Little's advice to business men, given in a recent broadcast, that they take more interest in politics and use their influence to shape policies, is exciting considerable comment, says the Ottawa Journal. We can but trust that those who seem to be interested are not overlooking Mr. Little's suggestions on how to take part in politics. Said he: 'As a beginning, I suggest you take this simple but important step: Join the local association of the political party of your choice. At influence on the selection of the type of candidate who will ultimately stand for office.'

CONSTITION gone...this easy way

Admiral Halsey is about getting to a football game late, getting on a sailor's foot while scrambling to his seat. The sailor, not looking up, yelled, 'Get off my foot, you big lug!' Then he recognized the admiral, blurted: 'Oh, my goodness, beg pardon, sir. Here's my other foot — go ahead — step on it!'
