MILITARY HOSPITALS

THE TORONTO GLOBE & MAIL has been conducting a campaign against Pensions Minister MacKenzie, for delayed action in connection with the erection of Sunnyside Hospital, to replace Christie Street Hospital in Toronto.

The Globe & Mail is championing a very fine cause, when it campaigns for better conditions for returned men requiring hospitalization. What use is to be made of the stations spotted in the rural districts of Canada? Why cannot these facilities not be used to restore wounded men to normal or as near to normal as possible? Their surroundings would be clean, quiet, and lots of fresh air. Water systems, heating systems, and entertainment facilities are already established. Additional hospitalization equipment might be needed and staff. The way N.S.S. has been moving workers about for the past three years, it should not be a problem to move nurses and doctors to the present training stations that will soon be closed up. Besides why do Governments always try to spend the people's money in the densely populated City areas?

MINORITY RULE

IN THE RECENT New Brunswick election the Liberal Party won thirty-six of the forty-eight seats, which gives them seventy-five percent representation. On the ballot the Liberal party received 70,000 votes, or slightly more than forty-six percent of the total cast. The Progressive Conservatives won twelve seats and 66,000 votes were cast in their favour. The C.C.F. have no representation in the legislature, yet 24,000 New Brunswickers voted for the party or approximately fourteen percent.

Therefore we find a Government holding office with a predominant majority of the legislative seats, secured with substantially less than half of the people supporting it. Such situations are bound to be more pronounced when more than two parties are seeking administrative powers. What would have been the result in New Brunswick, had the two old line parties been the only entries in the field? How would the 24,000 C.C.F. votes been cast?

BACK TO SCHOOL

TWO MILLION vigorous, tanned students are turning in for another year's education as the bells of September ring across the Dominion. The shy little girl of six with an apple for the teacher and the sturdy little chap with a pocket full of treasures who wants to be just like his dad are starting on a great undertaking that will include some of the happiest days of their lives. At the other end of school careers are young men and women completing their matriculation with serious thoughts, of war service, jobs and life work.

It is a world in which education is going to be of greater importance than ever. The intensive instruction and training which the demands of war required cannot be slackened because the pattern of victory is emerging on the world's battlefronts. The re-organization of the world when peace comes is going to need extremely intelligent planning and execution in order to make it a better place to live in. For this the United Nations have fought since September, 1939.

But fortunately for boys and girls the responsibilities of the world are not yet theirs. With a good summer holiday behind them and refreshed physically and mentally they are ready for the challenge of multiplication tables, or chemistry. Field days, rugby games, baseball in the schoolyard help to round out Canadian education. Not the least important side of children's lives is learning to live with their fellows in a happy spirit of give and take, work and play.

So it's back to desks and books in the beauties of the Canadian September, when harvest richness is being stored. Whether they walk the country or the town sidewalk, for boys and girls, September means "schools in."

PRIVATE liberty and national planning are incompatible.

CUTTING COSTS

—By—
R. J. Deachman

I HAVE BEFORE ME the record of operations of one of the largest corporations in the U.S. The name of the firm is Swift & Company. It is a household word. They are processors of farm products, they handle livestock, dairy and poultry products and many other things directly or indirectly associated therewith.

Their total sales in 1943 amounted to $7,490,663.

The average dollar received from sales by Swift & Company in 1943 was distributed as follows:

Paid to Producers of Livestock, Poultry, Eggs, Cream, Etc.	77.7 cts
Paid to Manufacturers of Supplies	4.1 cts
Paid to Employees (Plant & Office)	10.3 cts
Paid to Various Other Agencies, Railroads & Trucking Companies	2.0 cts
Holders of Interest-bearing obligations	1.1 cts
Rent, Telegraph, Telephone and Miscellaneous	1.7 cts

Depreciation (to be used to replace equipment, plants, etc.)	3.8 cts
Taxes, Federal, State, and Municipal, including Unemployment Insurance and Old-age Benefits Taxes	5.5 cts
Balance Remaining with Swift & Company as Earnings	1.2 cts

TOTAL.....100.0 cents
(* Does not include amount paid by government as subsidies to producers.)

The bottom line, "Balance remaining with Swift & Company" is the nub of the whole question. Net earnings amounted to $7,431,372. This figured out at 1.17 cents per dollar of sales, or, stated in round numbers, as in the report, 1.20 cents per dollar. This is the net every dollar of business done. This is the net accruing to Swift & Company on a volume of business almost three times the entire expenditures of the Dominion Government in a war year. This does not mean that this amount was paid in dividends. Dividends amounted to $8,883,286 - $8,548,686 was retained in the business.

Let us put it the other way. Supposing this had been a million dollar business, which is, after all, a fairly hefty sized proposition, then would be paid would have been $12,000 - of this approximately one-half would have gone to dividends and the balance would have been left in the company to take care of future probabilities - for, in business, at times, there are losses! It doesn't seem much, does it?

Does anyone imagine that this business could be more efficiently run under government management? I leave the question to you. Where could costs be cut in order to give more to the producers of livestock or to labor? Is the amount now going to capital too large? This is a plain practical question. Figure these things out. If the whole business of Swift & Company were in hogs - it wasn't of course, we are just measuring it that way - and if all the profits were charged against the producers and this would not happen here, dividends alone would cost the producer about 20 cents per hog day when political parties turn their attention to things which matter, taxes for example, an item in which governments are expected to exhibit particular interest - but rarely do.

POLITICAL FOOTNOTE

SOME RECENT political events in Canada recall an entry that Mark Twain wrote in his notebook in 1898:

It is by the goodness of God that in our country we have those three unseparable precious things: freedom of speech, freedom of conscience, and the prudence never to exercise either of them."

AN AMBITIOUS PLAN
A project now being given a lot of attention in town is a playground for our youth. The proposal is to take over a large area of land, build a regulation sized swimming pool, wading pool, and erect an attractive bathing house with dressing rooms for boys and girls and toilet facilities. The plan also includes playgrounds for juniors, softball diamond for older children, and provision for recreation for parents. —Kentville (N.S.) Advertiser—

GOOD NEWS
